

Kirk Andreae Hockey Prospectus

General Philosophy

Hockey is a game and should be enjoyed. The enjoyment comes from building strong friendships with teammates through hard work, mastering skills and the experiences that can only be gained through competition in practice and in games. I teach each player as an individual and build their confidence in their ability and as a contributor to the team's success.

I believe that a team should consistent practice together in order to build the chemistry that comes from being a skilled player on a competitive team. Hockey is the acquisition and application of skill.

Schedule

We will again play a highly competitive schedule against the best 2008 AA teams in the country (including some AAA teams). We will play in Little Caesar's 2008 league, a BTHL 2008 league or as an independent 2008 AA team. We will play approximately 50 games, including high-level tournaments.

Coaching Philosophy

1. Practice as you play, practice as a team, play as a team. As often as possible, practice mimics potential game situations
2. Parents, players and coaches should earn an investment on their time. Something is learned every time we come to the rink.
3. Hockey teaches life skills and are identified and translated to the player when appropriate.
4. Focus on building the skills of the individual player and then teach how to apply those skills to a team game.
5. Competition between players in practice is essential to create the necessary skills to compete in games.
6. Learn how to win and lose with respect
7. Clear and open communication between players, coaches and parents is essential for a great season.

Hockey practice guidelines

1. No more than 60 second explanation (Keep it moving)
2. Drills must mimic game play or actual situational skills (Repetition)
3. Incorporate as many skills as possible into a drill. (Repetition)
4. The first person must do the drill correctly (visual learning)
5. Correct individuals by taking them aside, not publicly (Respect)
6. No waiting more than 45 sec for a turn (Mentally engaged)
7. Build on existing skill sets (Repetition)
8. A sense of accomplishment from every practice

Game Play

1. Teach spacing and movement, not strictly positional play
2. Constantly pressure the puck, read and react
3. Lines are built on skill level, not balance
4. Winning is not an objective, it is an outcome from preparation
5. All players will have a role on the team

Targets for the season

1. On the ice for a minimum of 3 hours of practice per week as a team. Approximately 50 games including 5-6 tournaments.
2. Play a competitive schedule outside of League play. The target is to win more games than we lose, and be competitive in all of them.
3. As first year Bantam, learn how to safely take a hit and safely deliver a hit
4. Teach team and individual tactics in order to apply a players existing skill set (forecheck, defensive coverage, breakout, cycling, etc)
5. Read and react positioning (situational based), on ice communication, intelligent pressure of the puck, triangle tactics, gap control, in order to build hockey sense and the understanding of how to use space
6. Players are prepared and willing to take the next step in their development for the next season.
7. Reinforce to the players love and respect for the game.
