NEWS YOU CAN USE

MSCTitle

January 2015

Dear Michael Saunders Agents and valued customers,

As we welcome the New Year, it is time for Florida residents to start thinking about filing for homestead exemption. In our first newsletter of 2015, we break down the benefits and requirements of this money saving measure, so you can check it off your list.

Sincerely,
Laura Bowers, Managing Director

Benefits Of Filing Homestead Exemption

By filing for homestead exemption, you are entitled to a deduction of $25,000 off of your property's assessed value. This can result in saving several hundred dollars in taxes! If your home is worth at least $75,000 you will receive an additional $25,000 deduction on your property's assessed value. You may also qualify for additional homestead exemptions if you are 65 years or older or have a disability. But most importantly, by filing for homestead exemption, this means that the assessed value of your property cannot increase more than 3% per year. This tax savings can now be transferred to a new Florida residence in case you move. For more details about homestead exemption, please visit your county's property appraiser's website.

Important Announcement

In order to file for Homestead Exemption you MUST be a permanent Florida resident and occupy the property as of January 1, 2015 or have beneficial interest under a 98 year lease or life estate.

DEADLINES FOR FILING
HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION
IN ALL COUNTIES IS
MARCH 1, 2015

If your home is worth at least $75,000 you will receive an additional $25,000 deduction on your property's assessed value.
