

Amplifying Client Success with Trustworthy Components

“SynCFusion has the most comprehensive developer components on the planet, hands down.”

David Sapoznik

Full stack developer, Positive Impact Force

BENEFITS

Already had most of the controls we required.

Reduced time to market for app.

Responsive and comprehensive support.

CHALLENGE & SOLUTIONS

My company, Positive Impact Force, is a consulting business, using a whole-system approach and positive psychology underpinnings to assist our clients in growing with agility to amplify their success. We develop economical, creative, and lasting solutions focusing on positive approaches to help our customers face the changes and challenges impacting their businesses.

Our ComNexus is an all-in-one collaboration and project platform hosted on Microsoft Azure that gives facilitators and participants a place to successfully implement positive change. This includes features such as management of tasks, brainstorming boards, file and document management, and unlimited group video (or voice) and chat capabilities.

As ComNexus’s creators, accomplishing deadlines with a limited number of developers had always been a challenge for us. We tried to use components from different vendors to minimize the development effort. However, their lack of comprehensive components and support quality put our deliverables at risk. It takes a lot of trust to count on third-party products. SynCFusion alleviates these concerns.

Their products helped us tremendously, offering us most of the web UI controls that we need in our platform and reducing the time to market. When we started this project, Syncfusion had the most comprehensive control library for Blazor, even when Blazor was in a preview version. We also used their ASP.NET MVC, ASP.NET Core, JavaScript, and Xamarin suites.

Syncfusion’s support team is so responsive and comprehensive, you could easily argue their support team is an extension of our development team, solving problems in hours, not days. Their follow-up to our support tickets goes without rest until complete resolution. Their team will also do live meetings, if necessary, to solve any issue. Also, when a feature is not available, they evaluate our recommendations to include them in very near future releases.

We’re pleased that we can marry our experiences and expertise with Syncfusion’s technology to create tools and solutions that can move our users forward.

