Biography

Roger Angell (1920- ) a senior editor and a staff writer, has contributed to The New Yorker since 1944, and became a fiction editor in 1956. Since 1962, he has written more than a hundred Sporting Scene pieces, mostly on baseball but also on tennis, hockey, football, rowing, and horse racing. In addition, he has written film reviews, stories, casuals, Notes and Comment pieces, and, for many years, the magazine’s Christmas verse, “Greetings, Friends!”

In 2014, Angell received the J. G. Taylor Spink Award, the highest honor given to writers by the Baseball Hall of Fame. In 2015, he won the National Magazine Award for Essays and Criticism for his piece “This Old Man” and was inducted into the American Institute of Art and Letters.

Katharine S. White, (1892-1977) Roger’s mother, began working at The New Yorker in 1925, the year of its founding, and was an editor there for thirty-four years, shaping the careers of such writers as John O'Hara, Vladimir Nabokov, and Jean Stafford. Throughout and beyond those years she was also a gardener. In 1958, when her job as editor was coming to a close, White wrote the first of a series of fourteen garden pieces that appeared in The New Yorker over the next twelve years.

Elizabeth Shepley Sergeant, (1881-1965) Roger’s aunt, was an American journalist and writer. Sergeant's work includes non-fiction works (French Perspectives, 1916, and her best known work "Shadow-Shapes: Journal of a Wounded Woman," 1920) as well as one novel ("Short as Any Dream," 1929). She was also a biographer and author of a study about Willa Cather, as well as some 83 articles published in various periodicals. After 1920, she was living in Taos, New Mexico. She wrote about the Pueblo Indians and New Mexico itself until mid-1930. She spent some time in New York and studied under the analyst C.G. Jung. She spent some time writing at the MacDowell Colony. She also wrote Robert Frost: The Trial by Existence (1960).

Scope and Content

Series I, folders 1 – 3 has book reviews, articles, and correspondence relating to Angell’s book, ‘A pitcher’s story: innings with David Cone’. Folders 4 – 6 has research notes, correspondence, and articles relating to Angell’s aunt Elsie, his mother’s sister. Folder 7 has correspondence written by and to Katherine White, his mother and folder 8 has an article Angell wrote and it was published in The New Yorker in 2014.
Series II relates to games played primarily at Yankee Stadium and Shea Stadium. These games range from spring training to the World Series. A collection of Roger Angell’s game-related handwritten notes, notebooks, and scorecards. This collection has published game notes, interview transcripts, newspaper articles, and statistics. The notebooks contain play-by-play details, batters’ counts, Angell’s comments, ideas, and rough drawings from before, during and after the games.

Some scorecards may correlate to games in notebooks.

Boxes 6-8 Notebooks
Roger Angell kept these as he watched games. His thoughts on these, and I quote: “not as a history of the games covered but rather as an informal guide as to how I did my baseball reporting over a period of more than fifty years. I always took copious notes because I was never sure when I would be writing, or what part of a “Sporting Scene” piece I was writing, weeks or months later…”
