Lavendustin A inhibits various tyrosine kinases and exhibits neuroprotective activity, increasing axonal outgrowth in neurons; this compound is used in research models to examine the effects of tyrosine kinases.

References

---

Caution: This product is intended for laboratory and research use only. It is not for human or drug use.