Assessors report dofe

All you need is the participant's eDofE ID number, award level (bronze, silver or gold), and the section to evaluate (volunteer, physical, skill, expedition, or housing). Please ask for your support. Before submitting a report, a young person must have entered the section details in the eDofE. Comments are automatically sent to the participant's DofE reader for approval before they are added to the participant's account. We ask for your email address and phone number to enable the DofE reader to contact you if they want to discuss your assessment with you and we can send you a copy of the report you submitted. Thank you for supporting the activities of young people. Please read our Privacy Statement to learn how to protect your personal information. Note: If there is a problem with the CAPTCHA code, use a different device/network/browser. If not, contact email protected emails where the assessor will review your progress and agree to complete the program's section. They create or sign off reports of the relevant assessors in that section eDofE. An assessor is someone who is interested in helping you achieve, has some knowledge of the activities you are doing and can take advantage of the time you are doing it. From local football club coaches to charity shop managers, from neighbours who are web designers to conservation professionals leading housing week, anyone can be volunteers, physical, skills and residential section assessors. However, the assessor must be independent. Therefore, they can not be part of your family. Due to the nature of the expedition, expedition assessors have slightly different rules. Talking to Mr Lambert, who is struggling to find an assessor. Assessors should have knowledge of the activities being carried out and be aware of the goals. The welcome pack provides cards for the relevant section accelerators. Assessors need to be available at key stages throughout your experience to assess your contributions and developments. Once the section is complete, the assessor will meet with you to discuss your performance, experience and achievements. The assessor determines whether you meet the DofE requirements, i.e., whether you have demonstrated effort, patience and improvement and progressed towards section goals. This information should be recorded in the assessor's report, along with comments from the assessor. The assessor's report can be submitted in two ways: online: follow the instructions at www.DofE.org/assessor. On paper: Use an evaluation card or other written submission that can be uploaded to the eDofE (spare is below). In either case, the assessor must provide the name, the eDofE ID number (in the case of eDofE, the upper left of each page), the DofE level, and the section that was evaluated. Download a quick guide to adding assessment reports online. At the end of each section, dofe leaders discuss the outcomes of the sections to help them reflect and identify the skills they have learned. Learned.
