Pickle fanatic? You're in luck: A year's worth of pickles is on the way, made from twelve unexpected veggies in twelve unexpected flavors.

Every month for the next year, you'll receive a different jar of pickles—from gingery beets to herby cocktail onions and beyond. Olympia Provisions handcrafts its pickles in small batches from ingredients sourced locally near its home base in the Pacific Northwest. You'll not often see pickled fennel or zucchini, but Olympia's on the case.

Have them with a nice sandwich, use them as creative garnishes, or just eat them straight from the jar—a whole world of flavor is at your fingertips.
