

Any Body Can Do - Everything For Good

Let us inflate exponentially towards singularity of love

Let's start a big bang of sharing, caring and loving each other to the point we forget our false identity as separate independent beings and till we realize that we are all but one interdependent being, singularity. This can be started by anybody, anywhere and anytime. All one has to do is help a couple of people unconditionally and ask them to help 2 more people when they get a chance and to convey the same message. This creates an exponential chain of caring and loving and soon it will reach all the human beings on this planet in a very short span of time. This is very much possible now using the latest technological advances of social networking.

$2^0 = 1$ -----→ You are and I "is" that one

$2^1 = 2$ -----→ They are the 2 people you and I will help and ask them to help two other people

$2^2 = 4$ -----→ Chain of love starts to grow

.

.

.

$2^{10} = 1,024$ -----→ Thousand people are part of this chain of love

.

.

.

$2^{20} = 1,048,576$ -----→ Million people are part of this chain of love

.

.

.

$2^{30} = 1,073,741,824$ -----→ Billion people are part of this chain of love

.

.

.

$2^{33} = 8,589,934,592$ -----→ We have crossed the worlds current population of 7 Billion by now

A mere 33rd exponential of 2 can connect us all on this planet earth, we have to realize that this is the norm of the universe, inflation at the beginning of big bang. In no time one who started this chain will be at the receiving end of the chain and then one can start the process all over again and it becomes self-sustaining sphere of love. Please visit <http://www.abcd-efg.com/everything.html> for more interesting video presentations on the true nature of our reality. All we have to do is mimic the nature. Love.