California Wine: The New School- 2nd SESSION!! (FULL-WAITLIST AVAILABLE)

with Bithiah Rosales

As a follow up to Tim's "California: The Old School" class on the 23rd, we will discuss where it is now headed. Before joining us at BWE, Bithiah Rosales spent many years in the Bay Area working with forward-thinking producers of California wine as both a sommelier and a distributor. For the second part of this series, she will introduce you to up-and-coming producers from the North Coast who are working with lesser-known varieties and producing a decidedly "different" style of California than many might be accustomed to.

We are presenting a month-long spirits series on Thursday nights in February, specifically designed for those newer to spirits or looking to brush up on their bottle knowledge!

Thursday 2/7 @ 7pm (FULL-WAITLIST AVAILABLE)

Amaro: The Bitter Gamut

with Brittany Tinelli

Amaro has seen a huge rise in popularity in the U.S. since the great "mixology" boom of the past decade or so. But Amaro has been a part of Italian culture for hundreds of years, and just about every country in the world has their own version of just such a potable bitter. In this class, we'll explore the vast spectrum of styles, as well as take a look at the cultural significance and history of this complex, versatile, and delicious class of spirits.

Thursday 2/14 @ 7pm (FULL-WAITLIST AVAILABLE)

Agave Spirits: Mezcal, Sotol and Tequila

with Brittany Tinelli

There is so much more to Mezcal than worms and smoke, and way more to Tequila than shooters and Margaritas. And....what exactly is Sotol? We will be taking a look at the many varied styles of distillates that are made with Agave, and getting into how different strains of Agave each produce wildly distinctive spirits.

Thursday 2/21 @ 7pm (FULL-WAITLIST AVAILABLE)

The Many Faces of Scotch

with Scott "Scotch" Henkle

There is no whiskey that has as diversified a style spectrum as Scotch, with distinct characteristics that are linked directly to the distilleries' locations. We will be exploring the many different regions and distinguished styles of the world's first Whisky (...according to the Scots, that is).

Thursday 2/28 @ 7pm (FULL-WAITLIST AVAILABLE)

Gin: Take a break from Whiskey this winter!

with Scott Henkle

We love Gin at any time, and don't let the rain and snow stop us! Scott will be leading you through a selection of outstanding Gins that are sure to stand up to the winter chill, and allow you a break from the world of brown spirits this season.
