CHAMPIONSHIP FACTS

TOURNAMENT FORMAT

1982 The first National Collegiate women's gymnastics championship was held.

1987 12 team, five regionals with regional winner advancing plus the next seven highest scores from regional competition.

1991 The championship consists of 12 teams and 12 all-around competitors (who are not on a participating team). Regional competition consisting of seven teams and seven all-around competitors (who are not on a qualifying team) is conducted in each of five regions to determine the participants in the national championships. The team and all-around winner from each region will receive an automatic berth in the national championships, and the remaining seven teams and all-around competitors will qualify at-large on the basis of their national qualifying scores. If the all-around winner is on an advancing team, that position will revert to an at-large berth. In addition, the event winner in the regional competition who score at least a 9.8 may advance to the championships (in that event only) if they are not part of a qualifying team or the all-around qualifier. National Format—Team and all-around competition conducted on Friday, the top eight individuals in each event (plus ties) will compete for the individual championships Saturday.

1992 Qualification and seeding for regional competition based on the team's and an all-around competitor's six best regular-season scores, of which two must be home and two must be away; and that to compute the regional qualifying score, the high and low scores from those six meets would be eliminated and the remaining four scores averaged.

1993 Format revised to include team finals competition, thereby extending the championship by one day. Team preliminary and all-around competition would be conducted in two sessions on the first day, the six-team (top three from each session) final competition would be conducted on the second day (comprising of the top three teams from each session of the team preliminary competition), and the individual event competition (top eight individuals in each event, plus ties from the preliminary team and individual competition) would compete on the third day. Qualification and seeding for the national championships based solely on results of regional competition (rather than a combination of results from regular-season competition and regional qualifying meets). The team and all-around winner from each region will receive an automatic berth in the national championships, and the remaining seven teams and all-around competitors will qualify based on rank order of finish (highest score) from all regional championships.

1999 Realigned the number of regions from five to six. Increased the number of teams that may qualify to participate in each regional qualifying meet from five to six. Seed top-12 teams into regional competition according to their regional qualifying score and assign them to regional competition accordingly; to fill the remaining four berths in each regional with in-region teams that have qualified; and two advance to the 12-team national championships the top two teams from each regional.

2000 Approved the recommendation that a minimum of four event specialists (one per event) be selected to each of the six regional qualifying meets, provided a minimum score is met (9.8); that five, rather than six, all-around competitors be selected to participate in regional meets; and that if fewer than five all-around competitors qualify for the regional meets, then additional event specialists (four event specialists per one all-around competitor) may be selected.

2001 Regional sites were designated by geographic region, rather than by number. Top 18 teams, rather than the top 12, in the National Collegiate Women's Gymnastics Championships, be seeded into regional competition on a national basis. Top two all-around finishers (who are not on an advancing team) from each regional receive an automatic berth to the final site.

2002 The championship is a 36-team championship. Regional competition consists of six teams, five all-around competitors (who are not on an advancing team) and one individual event specialist per event [who has a minimum RQS of 9.8] will be conducted in each of six regions to determine participants for the national championships. The two top teams and the two top all-around competitors (who are not on an advancing team) from each regional will receive an automatic berth to the national championship. In addition, the event winners at regional competitions advance to the national championships (in that event only) if they are not part of a qualifying team or the all-around qualifiers.

2003 Approved to seed 18 teams and the remaining teams (18) assigned regionally.

2008 The process for determining rotation pairings for day one of the team competition at the site of the finals be based on a National Qualifying Score (NQS) calculated by adding the Regional Qualifying Score (RQS) to the score achieved at regional competition. Once the NQS is calculated. teams will be ranked based on the NQS from 1 to 12. Teams 1, 4, 5, 8, 9 and 12 will be placed in Group A; and Teams 2, 3, 6, 7, 10 and 11 placed in Group B. The host team and its corresponding group will compete in the second session. If the host does not qualify, a random draw will be used to determine competition session." Further, the committee confirmed that a random draw will be conducted at the national office. There will not be a separate draw for the AA or IES. The AA1 will rotate with Team 1, etc. and the IES will rotate with Team Six in their respective regions.

2010 The top 36 teams based on the Qualifying Score (QS) will be selected for preliminary-round competition. The top 18 teams will be seeded with teams 19-36 assigned to a site based on geographic proximity rather than remain in region or be moved to the next closest region. Individual qualifiers from the same team will be placed at the same site based on the individual with the highest QS. Movement to the next closest host site will be made according to the QS.

2013 Student-athletes qualifying for the event finals on vault are required to perform one vault with the score determined by averaging all six scores.

2014 Seeding for team championship competition determined at the time of selections and followed throughout the championships. Teams will be placed into a bracket and standard bracketing procedures will be followed.

2016 Individual event finals day was eliminated from the championship and all individual titles were determined during team semi-final action.

2019 The championship changes to four regionals with nine teams competing at each venue. The first round of the championship sees two teams compete at each regional to advance to second-round competitions. The top two from each second-round session advances to the regional final where the top two teams move on to the national semifinals. Eight teams compete at the finals site in two semifinal sessions with the top two from each advancing to the national finals.

2022 A day of rest was added between the semfinals and the team final.
