RETIRED JERSEYS

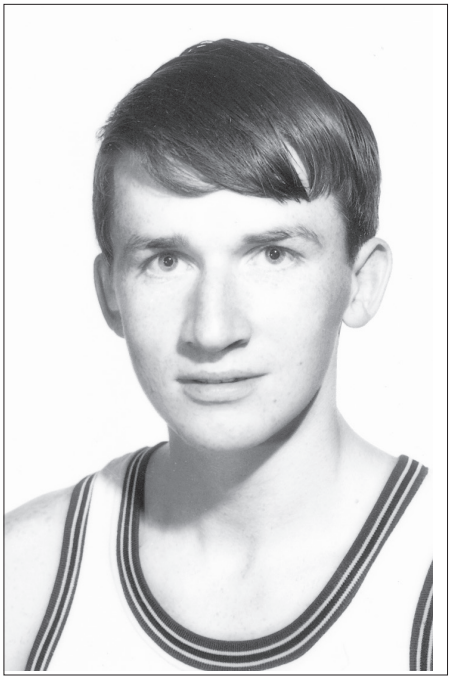

42

GRADY WALLACE
F, 6-5, 165, Mare Creek, Ky.

Grady Wallace, who wore number 42, was the first South Carolina player to have his jersey number retired. Wallace averaged an amazing 28.0 points per game in his career and led the NCAA in 1957 with 31.3 points per tilt, edging out Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain. Wallace holds down four of the top six scoring games in school history, scoring 54 points versus Georgia during his senior year. Wallace was honored as the South Carolina Legend at the 2009 SEC Tournament.

JOHN ROCHE
G, 6-3, 180, The Bronx, N.Y.

John Roche's number was retired after a very successful three-year tenure from 1968-71. Roche made one or more of the recognized All-America teams in each of his three seasons. Roche holds South Carolina records for three-year career point average (22.5) and points in a game, scoring 56 vs. Furman his senior year.

KEVIN JOYCE

G, 6-3, 180, Merrick, N.Y.

The third number retired in Gamecock history was the number 43 of Kevin Joyce. Joyce scored 1,400 points in his three years at South Carolina, averaging 20.4 points per game as a senior. Joyce may be best known for out-jumping UNC's Lee Dedmon (6-10) with four seconds left in the 1971 ACC Tournament title game, tapping the ball to Tom Owens for the winning bucket. Joyce was a member of the 1972 U.S. Olympic team.

ACC Champions
First Gamecock Squad To Make The Show

After surviving the pressure cooker of winning the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, the 1970-71 Gamecocks had fought their way to the school's first NCAA Tournament appearance. With a 23-4 mark and an ACC title under its belt, USC went on to the Eastern Regionals as one of 16 teams in the show.

The Gamecocks had high hopes entering the regional, but saw their NCAA title smashed as undefeated and third-ranked Pennsylvania rallied from one down at halftime to decision Carolina, 79-64. The Quakers used an old South Carolina tactic: getting an opponent down at hitting at the foul line to prevent any comeback. Pennsylvania took the win after trailing 37-36 at the intermission.

The Gamecocks had earlier rallied from five behind to go three points up on the Quakers, but Pennsylvania's outside shooting over the ACC Champions' zone kept them close until the intermission.

The lead swapped hands several times early in the final half until hot-shooting Jim Morse of Penn put the Quakers ahead to stay and they then began to play for the good shot. The trailing Gamecocks had to go after them defensively and Pennsylvania was phenomenal at the free throw line, hitting 26 straight from the stripe to put the game farther and farther out of reach.

Tom Owens' 16 points and 10 rebounds represented the top individual effort, as the hounded John Roche was held to 14 tallies. Tom Riker got 10 points despite getting in foul trouble early to be the only other USC performer in double figures.

In the anti-climactic Regional consolation game, junior Tom Riker got a future-brightening 39 points, but the Gamecocks lost a 100-90 run-and-gun battle with Fordham. Carolina ran up a six-point halftime edge, then watched the cat-quick Rams put four players over the 20-point mark in coming back for the win.

Riker had a fine afternoon, going over, around and through the smaller Fordham quintet to can 18 of 26 field-goal attempts in his best scoring exhibition of the season. It was all for naught as the Rams hit from outside and scored on fast breaks to spoil Carolina's season finale. Bolstering Riker's sterling effort, Kevin Joyce finished the game with 18 points and Rick Aydlett threw in 10 as the Gamecocks ended the year with a 23-6 record and their third-straight 20-win campaign under Head Coach Frank McGuire.

In their first season out of conference competition in 40 years, the Gamecocks had something to prove in regular season action. After 26 regular-season games, South Carolina was an impressive 23-3 and had given the "Irishman," head coach Frank McGuire, two-straight NCAA Tournament appearances.

In the first round of the tournament and for the right to advance to the NCAA Eastern Regionals, Carolina met up with Temple. The game is still the lowest scoring game in South Carolina NCAA history with Carolina easing out a 53-51 win over the Owls in Williamsburg, Va. Resorting to what became a McGuire trademark in holding the ball for the last shot — which always began with seven seconds on the clock —Carolina called a timeout with :40 remaining and the game tied at 51.After running the time down, Carolina set a screen for its premier shooter, Kevin Joyce, and his top-of-the-key jumper with just a couple ticks remaining on the clock advanced the Gamecocks to the Sweet 16 for the second year in a row.

Carolina survived being outrebounded by the smaller Temple team, 39-30, but outshot the Owls 51.1% to 36.8% from the field. Carolina actually trailed 29-25 at the half before pulling even early in the second stanza and setting up a see-saw battle down the stretch.Tom Riker led all scorers with 23 points and Joyce added 12 and four assists. Danny Traylor led all rebounders with 10 boards while rounding out USC double-figure scoring with 11 points.

The win by Carolina set up a rematch of the 1971 ACC Tournament finals as the Gamecocks met North Carolina in Morgantown, W.Va. for a berth in the quarterfinals. The Tar Heels used a stifling defense and an early lead in crushing South Carolina, 92-69.

North Carolina wasted no time getting on the board, cruising to a 51-32 halftime advantage. South Carolina could get no closer than 15 points in the second half as the Heels had a balanced scoring attack of five players scoring in double figures. The game also featured an exhibition at the free throw line for both teams with North Carolina going 30-of-40 (75.0%) and USC hitting 23-of-30 (76.7%).

Leading only two scorers in double figures for Carolina was Joyce, who pumped in 21. Tom Riker added 10 points and 10 rebounds for the Gamecocks.

In the Eastern Regional consolation game two nights later, Carolina would salvage a little pride, using a furious second half rally to crush Villanova, 90-78.

The Gamecocks, down by five at 43-38 at the half, turned up the juices in the second stanza and went on to shoot a blistering 56.7% from the field — still a Carolina NCAA record. Carolina led once again by Riker, who scored 22 of his game-high 36 points in the second half rally.

Also in double figures for Carolina was Joyce, who pumped in 19 points, and Traylor, who finished with 15. Riker also had a game-high 16 rebounds as the Gamecocks finished the season with their fourth-straight 20-win season, going 24-5.

Gamecocks Make Sweet Sixteen For Third-Straight Season

For the fifth consecutive season, South Carolina had reached the goal of 20 wins in a season and had no problem with accepting its third-straight NCAA Tournament berth. The only difference was that Carolina was asked to play in the Midwestern Regional due to the large number of strong, at-large teams in the East.

In a first round game for the right to advance to those Midwestern Regionals, Carolina met Southwest Conference champion Texas Tech in Wichita, Kan. The Gamecocks broke open a close game late in the contest to win, 78-70, and advance to the Sweet 16 for the third time in as many seasons.

Carolina had as much as an eight point lead — the last being 26-18 — in the first half before Texas Tech went on a 12-4 run to tie the game at 30 at the intermission. The lead then went back and forth with the Red Raiders even holding three leads of five points midway through the final stanza. But down 51-46 with 11:56 to play, Carolina outscored Texas Tech 28-13 to take a 74-64 lead with two minutes left on a Kevin Joyce basket. The Raiders could come no closer than eight points down the stretch.

Joyce led four USC players in double figures with 21 points. Traylor added 16 tallies and 16 rebounds, Alex English had 15 points and 15 boards and Mike Dunleavy added 11 points.

So, it was on to Houston, Tex. and the Midwestern Regional in the Hofheinz Pavilion. But the Gamecocks ran afoul of a hot Memphis State team that was to advance to the NCAA championship game before falling to perennial champion UCLA.

Led by Larry Kenon, who was unstoppable inside, and guard Larry Finch, the Tigers took a 15-point halftime lead. Carolina narrowed it to five points early in the second half, but Memphis State pulled away again to win 90-76.

The Tigers went on a 11-0 run to post a 33-16 lead late in the first half, leading to their 15-point margin at the intermission. The Gamecocks desperately tried to cut into that margin in the second half, and on a Joyce inside jumper, USC had pulled to within 70-65 with 5:22 to play. Then the Memphis State free throw brigade took over as the Tigers hit 10-of-12 shots from the stripe down the stretch to seal the win and send Carolina into the Regional consolation game once again.

All five USC starters notched double-figure games in scoring as English had 19, Joyce 18, Winters 14, Dunleavy 12 and Traylor 10.

This time around in the consolation game, South Carolina faced off against Southwestern Louisiana, a one-point loser to Kansas State in the Regional's first game. After going down by six at the half, Carolina again staged a second-half rally to win, 90-85 and finish the season —for the second year in a row — with a win.

The game was fast paced throughout with both teams combining for 174 shots (94 for S.W. Louisiana, 80 for Carolina) and 114 rebounds (64 for S.W. Louisiana, 50 for Carolina). The Cajuns started out on fire, posting a 23-10 lead halfway through the first half before Carolina outscored S.W. Louisiana 11-5 to end the half for the Gamecocks six-point deficit.

Like the Cajuns in the first half, USC started out quickly in the second stanza, going on a 12-0 run that gave the Gamecocks a 45-41 lead with over 16 minutes to play. The game went back and forth until the Gamecocks went up by seven on two Joyce free throws (3:36 to play) and S.W. Louisiana could come no closer than five points down the stretch.

Five Gamecocks again scored in double figures, led by English's 22 points. Traylor added 16 tallies and 16 boards, Joyce 12 points, Dunleavy 11 and Winters 10 for the Gamecocks, who finished the year at 22-7, the fifth-consecutive 20-win season for Carolina.

Carolina Hoopsters Make It Four In A Row To The Big Show

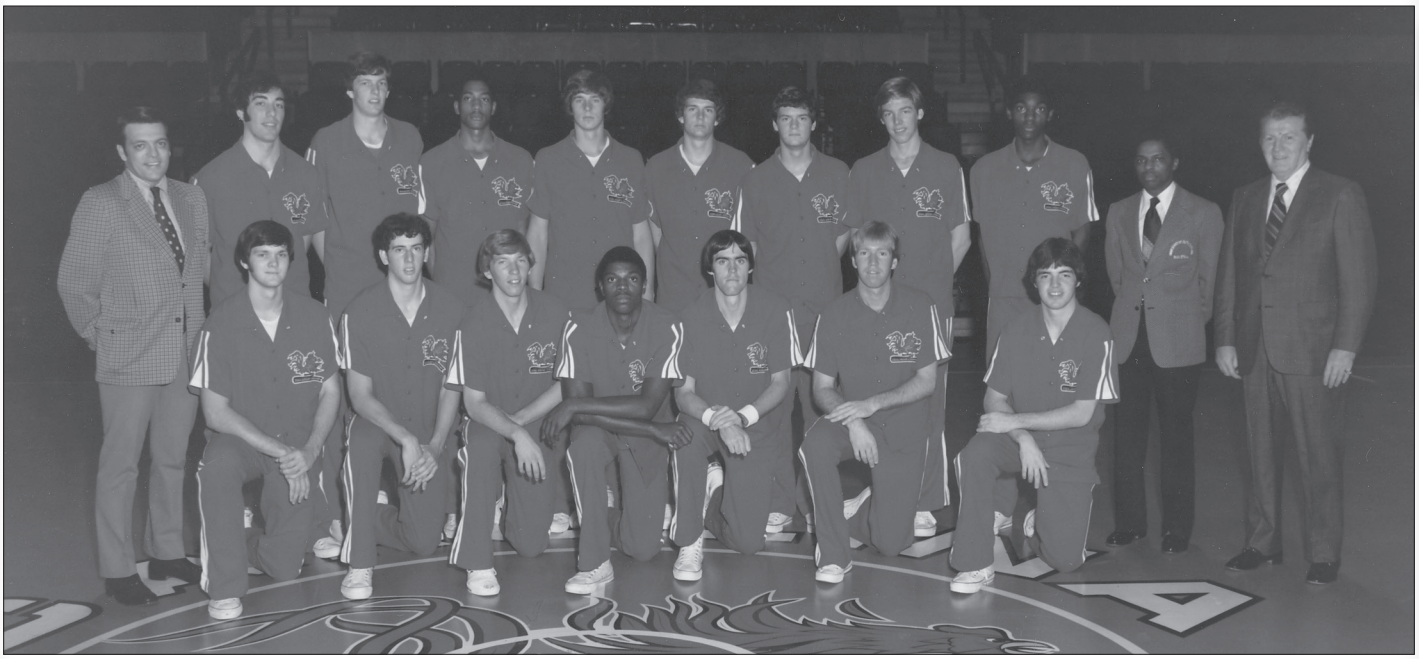

Two goals made up the 1973-74 season for South Carolina: (1) Win 20 games; (2) Make it to the NCAA Tournament. After a successful regular season that saw the Gamecocks reach their first goal and win 22 of 26 games, Carolina got its second wish — a fourth-straight appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Oddly enough, two Palmetto State teams had to travel 700 miles north to Philadelphia, Penn. to play in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Before a sparse crowd of just over 1,000 at the Palestra, a strong Furman team handed the Gamecocks a disappointing 75-67 defeat.

The two teams battled to six lead changes in the first half alone as the Paladins outscored USC, 6-2, to end the half and take a 39-38 lead at the intermission. Carolina then started the second half on fire, outscoring Furman 15-2 to take a 53-41 lead with 14:43 to play in the second half.

Furman then went on a tear of its own, though, besting Carolina 23-6 in the next nine minutes of action to take a 64-59 lead with five minutes left. Carolina cut the lead to two (65-63) on an Alex English tap in a minute later, but could not weather a 38.1% shooting night from the field, including a 31.7% performance in the second half.

Brian Winters closed out his fine career at Carolina, scoring 22 points, while Nate Davis had 16, Mike Dunleavy 12 and English 11. Davis also pulled down 13 rebounds and English snatched 11.

South Carolina Returns to the NCAA Tournament For First Time in 15 Years

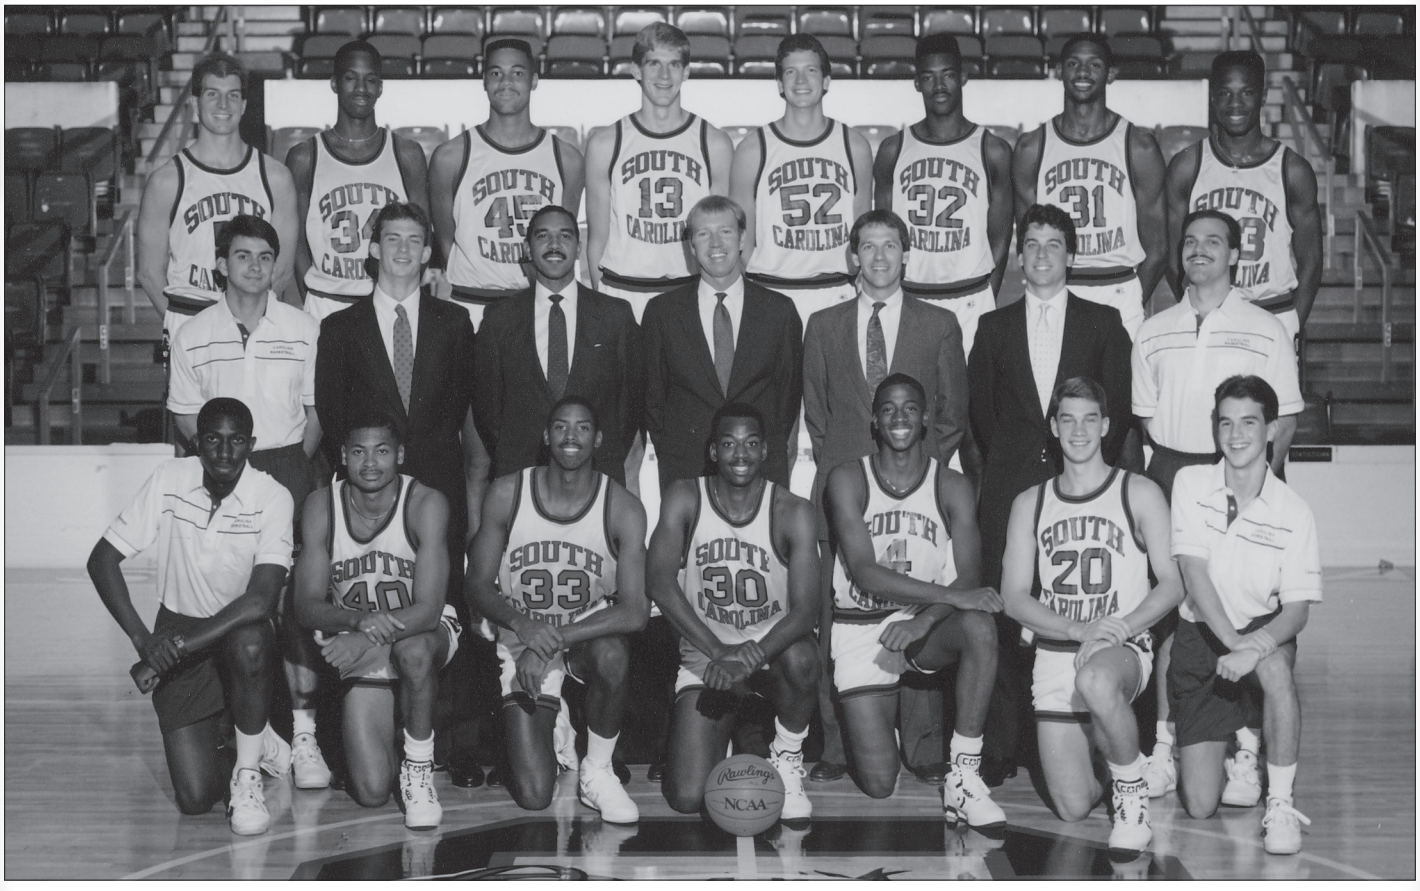

Fifteen years earlier, George Felton was a reserve on the 1974 NCAA Tournament team that lost in the first round to Furman at the Palestra in Philadelphia, Pa. This time around, the 35-year-old coach had led Carolina to the prestigious field of 64 as the head man with a berth in the NCAA Eastern Regional first and second round in Providence, R.I.

In all, Carolina could not withstand a poor shooting afternoon combined with a hot shooting North Carolina State team. In fact, the N.C. State club's 56.7% performance from the field stands as the best opponent percentage in Carolina NCAA Tournament history.

An even game for the first five minutes, the Wolfpack pulled away midway through the first half with a 19-2 run giving N.C. State a 30-10 advantage with 7:16 left in the first stanza. Both teams had mini-runs down the stretch with Carolina scoring the half's final six points to pull within 38-25 at the intermission.

In the second half, Carolina could get the lead no lower than eight points — twice on free throws by Terry Dozier and John Hudson at the seven minute marks — at any time with the Wolfpack making their free throws down the stretch to preserve the win.

Dozier finished his fine Carolina career with 22 points and five rebounds, one of only two Gamecock players scoring in double figures. Hudson added 13 for the Gamecocks, who finished the season at 19-11 one win shy of 20 but with a 15-year NCAA Tournament goal being reached.

First Round Loss Concludes Magical SEC Title Season

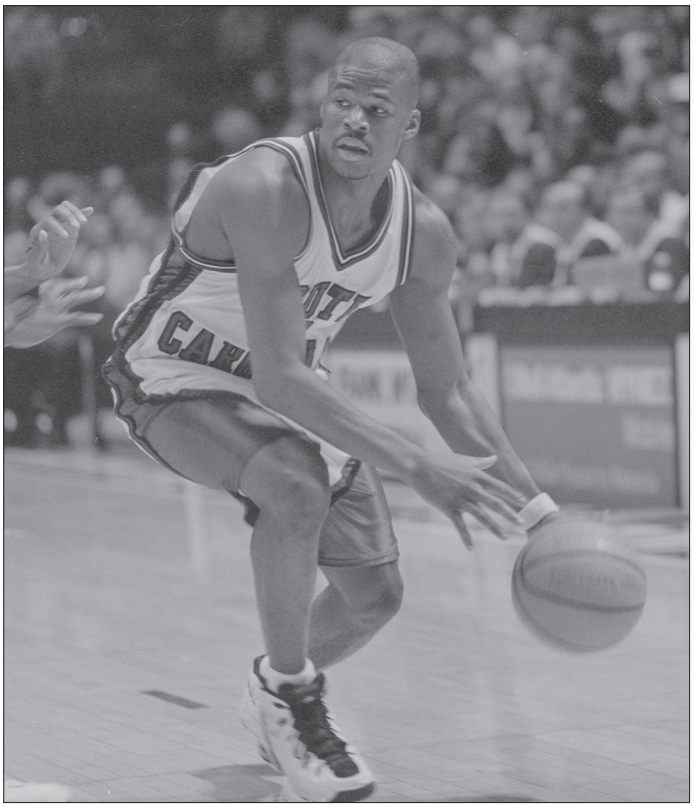

It took the South Carolina program eight years to return to the NCAA Championships, but Eddie Fogler's first Gamecock squad in the "Big Dance" did more than just show up. The Gamecocks entered the tourney as the No. 2 seed in the East Region — fresh off the Southeastern Conference championship.

But the magical ride came to a screeching halt at the hands of the Coppin State Eagles. The tenacious squad stayed close throughout the game and took advantage of what became a homecourt atmosphere as Coppin State upset Carolina, 78-65, before a sellout crowd in the Pittsburgh Civic Arena.

The loss ended the Gamecocks' season at 24-8 — the second most victories in school history — while the squad finished ranked No. 6 in the final Associated Press rankings.

Carolina quickly took the lead in the first half and led by as many as seven points, the last with 7:36 to play in the opening period after a Melvin Watson jumper. But Coppin State fought back to tie the game at 34-34 at the intermission. USC again jumped to a seven-point lead after a BJ McKie jumper with 13:30 to go and led 47-40 before the Eagles went on a 35-14 run over the next eight minutes, spurred by 16 points from reserve guard Danny Singletary.

Carolina could not stem the Eagles' tide as the mostly-neutral crowd of 17,509 showed their approval for the underdogs as Coppin State raced to the lead with five minutes to play. McKie led Carolina with 16 points while Ryan Stack and Watson added 13 each.

Loss in First Round Dampens Another 20-Win Season

For the second-straight year, the Gamecocks won 20 or more games and advanced to the NCAA Championships — the first time in a quarter century of Carolina basketball. But for the second year in a row, the Gamecocks were an upset victim in the opening round of the tournament.

The Gamecocks, a No. 3 seed in the East Regional, saw both BJ McKie's jumper in the lane and a successive LeRon Williams tap fall short as 14th-ranked Carolina fell to Richmond, 62-61, at Washington, D.C.'s MCI Center.

Carolina jumped out to a 14-8 lead early after back-to-back McKie three pointers and USC had the lead for much of the half before a 14-4 Richmond run to end the half gave the Spiders a 34-29 halftime advantage. USC trailed by nine early in the second half, but staged another comeback.

USC took a four-point lead with 6:52 to play after a McKie layup, but turned the ball over on its next possession and the Spiders built a four-point advantage with 3:31 left. USC cut the lead to one (62-61) with 1:17 to play on a Williams layup, but McKie was called for a charge on the Gamecocks' next possession. Richmond missed a shot with 10 seconds left, setting up the final play as Carolina — the "Cardiac Gamecocks" for most of the season — could not pull out the win.

McKie led the Gamecocks with 24 points and Melvin Watson ended his USC career by breaking the all-time assists record (543) with a USC NCAA-best 10 dishes vs. the Spiders. Ryan Stack had 10 points in his final game as Carolina ended the year 23-8 with a two-year mark of 47-16, 26-6 in the SEC.

Gamecocks Win 23, Drop Defensive Battle to Memphis

Despite holding Conference USA's Player of the Year (Antonio Burks) and Rookie of the Year (Sean Burks) to just 13 points, USC couldn't contain Memphis' Rodney Carney, who scored 26 points with 10 rebounds, sending USC home with a 59-43 loss in the first round of the NCAA Tournament in Kansas City.

USC was led by Carlos Powell, who scored 11 points in 33 minutes. The 11 points put Powell over the 1000 career point total as a junior (1001 total). He was the only Gamecock in double figures, with Tre' Kelley grabbing a personal best and team-high seven rebounds. Mike Boynton, Jr., who has been named to the SEC All-Tournament team the previous weekend, did not score.

Tied at 11 with 10:59 left in the first half, UM went on a 17-4 run. USC did not score a basket the last 9:37 of the first half. UM took a 30-18 lead to the lockerroom at halftime. The 18 points were the fewest points USC had scored since scoring 17 at Temple in December.

The second half wasn't much better, with UM leading by as many as 15 at the 10:33 mark (47-32). USC shot 35.7 % in the game, but UM didn't shoot much better, hitting 39.0%. The difference was rebounds with UM grabbing 36 to USC's 25.

Gamecocks reach first Final Four in program history

GREENVILLE, S.C. - It was a historic night for South Carolina men's basketball, as the seventh-seeded Gamecocks (23-10) dominated the second half in a 93-73 win over 10th seeded Marquette (19-13) for the program's first NCAA Tournament win since 1973. Senior Sindarius Thornwell (29) and sophomore PJ Dozier (21) combined for 51 points on 19-of-33 (58 percent) shooting.

The Golden Eagles opened up the game on an 8-0 run and led 11-5 at the first media timeout with 14:18 on the clock after a 3 by Jajuan Johnson. Marquette stayed in front by five, 19-14, at the next media stoppage with 11:58 to go. Thornwell and sophomore Chris Silva paved the way for the Gamecocks on offense early, scoring nine of the team's first 14 points.

A 3-pointer gave the Golden Eagles their largest lead of the first half, 26-16, forcing head coach Frank Martin to take a timeout with 9:20 left. Marquette started the game 9-for-15 (60 percent) from two-point range and 5-for-8 (63 percent) from behind the arc.

Senior Duane Notice knocked down a deep 3-pointer, his second of the game, to bring Carolina within six, 28-22, at the under eight media timeout with 7:34 to go. Back-to-back dunks by Silva and Dozier brought Bon Secours Wellness Arena to its feet, pulling the Gamecocks within two, but MU pulled in front by eight, 34-26, with 5:18 to play. Carolina clawed back within four, 34-30, at the under four media timeout with 3:44 left in the half.

Dozier drove hard baseline and made a tough layup to pull the Gamecocks within two, 39-37, with just over a minute to go. Carolina got a stop and took possession with the shot clock off, but Thornwell missed from 3 with six seconds left and MU led 40-39 at halftime. Both teams shot 48 percent in the opening half as 13 different players scored on both sides.

Freshman Maik Kotsar scored the first four points of the second half to give the Gamecocks their first lead of the game, 43-40, with 18:30 remaining. The Golden Eagles answered with a 7-0 run to regain the lead, but Carolina answered with a 7-0 run of its own to retake the lead, 51-49, with 15:54 to play. It was a high-paced first 4:06 with both teams shooting it extremely well. The Gamecocks started 5-for-9 (56 percent) and MU was 4-for-6 (67 percent) to open the half.

With 14:53 on the clock, Carolina swung momentum their way after senior Justin McKie had a big steal and found Dozier ahead in transition for a breakaway dunk. The slam sent The Well into a frenzy and forced Marquette head coach Steve Wojciechowski to take a timeout, his team trailing 55-49.

Rakym Felder then gave the Gamecocks their biggest lead so far in the game, 82-69, forcing another Wojciechowski timeout with 4:40 to play.

Carolina kept its foot on the pedal as four more points from Thornwell pushed the lead to 86-69 at the final media timeout with 3:42 left in the game. The Gamecocks held MU scoreless for nearly four minutes and used a 17-2 run to take control en route to the 93-71 victory. Carolina ended the game 7-for-7 from the field.

Notice and Silva joined Thornwell and Dozier in double figures with 10 each. Kotsar and Felder each had seven for the Gamecocks, who shot a scorching 56 percent (20-of-36) in the second half. Felder and McKie combined for 12 of the team's 14 bench points.

SOUTH CAROLINA CELEBRATES IN THE LOCKER ROOM FOLLOWING THE FIRST PROGRAM WIN IN THE NCAA TOURNAMENT SINCE 1973 FOLLOWING THE 93-73 WIN OVER MARQUETTE ON MARCH 17, 2017.

GREENVILLE, S.C- It was another magical night for South Carolina (24-10) men's basketball as the team upset second-seeded Duke (28-9) 88-81 to advance to the school's first Sweet Sixteen in the current NCAA Tournament format. The Gamecocks exploded for 65 points in the second half and shot 71 percent (20-for-28) in the game's final 20 minutes. SEC Player of the Year Sindarius Thornwell led all scorers with 24 points and was one of five South Carolina players in double figures.

The Blue Devils took a 6-4 lead to start the game at the first media timeout with 15:57 to go. After trailing 11-6, Carolina went on an 8-2 run and took its first lead after freshman Rakym Felder knocked down a triple with 12:52 to put the Gamecocks in front 14-13.

Duke regained the lead, 18-14, at the under 12 media timeout with 11:11 on the clock as Grayson Allen scored seven points off the bench. Thornwell had seven of Carolina's first 14 points. The Blue Devils were already in the bonus at the 12:01 mark. Duke took advantage of a 5:09 scoring draught by the Gamecocks to extend its lead to seven, 21-14, at the next media timeout with 7:43 to go. Carolina started the game 5-for-23 (22 percent), while the Blue Devils were 6-for-11 (55 percent).

Duke remained in control 28-20 at the final media timeout with 3:45 to go in the first half. Senior Duane Notice connected from 3-point range to pull the Gamecocks within five, 28-23, with 2:39 left. Carolina cut the deficit with stellar defense, holding the Blue Devils Scoreless for nearly five minutes.

A pair of Allen free throws gave Duke a seven point advantage at halftime, 30-23. Thornwell was the only player on either side in double figures with 11 points. Allen led the way for the Blue Devils with nine. Duke shot 47 percent (8-for-17) and knocked down five 3s in the first half. The Gamecocks were 7-for-35 (20 percent).

Notice completed a 3-point play early in the second half to pull Carolina within five, 35-30 with 17:22 to play. Sophomore Chris Silva sunk two free throws to cut it to three, but the lead went back to six after a transition 3 by Allen. The Bon Secours Wellness Arena crowd erupted moments later, as a Notice steal led to a monster dunk by Silva on the other end. The jam was the Gamecocks fifth-consecutive field goal and got Carolina within one, 38-37, forcing head coach Mike Krzyzewski to take a time-out with 15:52 on the clock. A lob from Thornwell to Silva right out of the under 16 media timeout then gave the Gamecocks their first lead since Felder's 3 at the 12:40 mark of the first half.

Felder's second 3 of the game put Carolina up 48-44. Frank Jackson answered with a triple of his own on the other end, but Silva scored with contact to make it 54-51 at the under 12 media timeout with 10:43 remaining. Silva sunk the free throw out of the timeout, marking his 17th point of the game, a new career high. The Gamecocks came out of halftime firing on all cylinders offensively, shooting 12-for-16 (75 percent). Five-straight points from Notice pushed Carolina's lead to seven, 60-53, with 8:38 to play, forcing another Krzyzewski timeout.

A Notice layup put the Gamecocks ahead by double-digits for the first time in the game, 68-58, with 5:00 minutes to play. The lead stayed at 10, 70-60, at the final media timeout of the game with 3:30 remaining. Felder knocked down 1-of-2 at the free throw line to make the score 76-66 with 1:38 to go. Jayson Tatum hit a 3 on the next possession to pull Duke within seven, 76-69, but on the next play, Thornwell bypassed the Blue Devils' full-court pressure as he threw a baseball pass ahead to senior Justin McKie, who finished with an emphatic two-hand dunk to put the Gamecocks up by 10 again, 82-72, with 47 seconds on the clock.

Duke kept swinging, cutting the lead to five after an Amile Jefferson layup with 26.8 seconds remaining, but Carolina iced the win with clutch free throw shooting down the stretch. The Gamecocks ended the game 14-of-16 (88 percent) at the line in the game's final three minutes.

Silva tallied his fourth career double-double (all this season) with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Notice matched Silva with 17 points, 14 of them coming in the second half. Felder was crucial off the bench again, scoring 15 points and making 9-of-10 at the charity stripe.

NEW YORK - The magic continued for South Carolina (25-10) at Madison Square Garden, as it matched a school record for wins (25) in a 70-50 Sweet 16 victory over third-seeded Baylor (27-8). With the win, the Gamecocks have advanced to the program's first Elite Eight. Sindarius Thornwell led all scorers for the third consecutive game, scoring 24 points.

Carolina led 5-2 at the first media timeout as it held the Bears to 1-for-9 shooting (11 percent) in the game's first 4:06. After Baylor's first bucket, the Gamecock defense held them scoreless for a stretch of 2:17 (0-for-5). South Carolina remained in front 11-8 at the under 12 media timeout with 11:58 to go.

Johnathan Motley gave Baylor the lead for the first time since the 18:11 mark. His bucket put the Bears ahead, 13-11, with 10:33 left in the opening half. Baylor head coach Scott Drew called timeout with 8:48 on the clock and the score tied 15-15. Sophomore Chris Silva led Carolina with five points to start, while Jo Lual-Acuil Jr. led all scorers with seven.

Senior Duane Notice knocked down a big 3 just before the under eight media timeout to put the Gamecocks back in front, 18-15, with 7:55 on the scoreboard. That 3 by Notice would help propel a 22-7 run by Carolina to end the first half. The Gamecocks took their first double-digit lead of the night, 25-15, after a high-arching floater in the line by Brooklyn, N.Y., native, Rakym Felder with 5:27 remaining.

A baseline jumper by Silva forced another Drew timeout, as Carolina pushed the run to 16-0, holding Baylor 0-for-9 as the Gamecocks went ahead 29-15 with 3:23 left in the game's opening 20 minutes. Jake Lindsay snapped the field goal draught for the Bears with a long ball from the corner with 2:11 to go which cut the score to 31-18. The 3 by Lindsay was the team's first points since the 9:58 mark, ending a 7:47 stretch with no points.

The Gamecocks impressive end to the half, fueled by spectacular defense and hot shooting, gave them a 37-22 lead at halftime. Carolina held Baylor to a season-low 25 percent shooting (8-for-32) in the opening 20 minutes. The previous low for the Bears came at the beginning of the season when they shot 39 percent (13-for-33) against Michigan State at the Battle 4 Atlantis Tournament in the Bahamas on Nov. 24. Carolina's offense was balanced in the opening half. Thornwell led the way with 10 points, Silva had nine, sophomore PJ Dozier had eight and Notice had six. Silva had six first half rebounds to the lead the team, as the Gamecocks were plus four in rebounding margin, 22-14.

Carolina continued to roll to start the second half as Thornwell knocked down a 3 to push the lead to 20, 42-22, for the first time in the game with 18:25 remaining. Baylor started the second half 4-for-6, but the Gamecocks led by 18, 46-28, at the first media timeout with 15:45 remaining. Manu Lecomte knocked down back-to-back triples to trim the deficit to 13, 49-36, with 11:40 to play.

A 10-0 run by the Bears pulled them within 11, but consecutive 3s by Thornwell and Notice put Carolina back in control, up by 17, 55-38, with 9:22 remaining. The score remained 55-38 at the under eight media timeout with 7:44 to play. Thornwell's 20th point and fourth 3-pointer of the game put the Gamecocks in front by 20 again, 61-41 with 5:23 to go. South Carolina held a 63-41 edge at the final media timeout with 3:58 left.

Baylor was unable to make a late run, as the Gamecocks led by 18 or more the final five minutes of the ballgame. Silva (12), Dozier (12) and Notice (11) joined Thornwell in double figures. Felder scored all nine bench points Friday night. He's led the bench in scoring in all three of Carolina's NCAA Tournament games.

NEW YORK CITY - South Carolina's special March run continued at Madison Square Garden as the Gamecocks (26-10) punched their ticket to the 2017 Final Four with a 77-70 win over Florida (27-9). The victory broke the single-season program record for wins, as senior Sindarius Thornwell carried the team with a game-high 26 points, seven rebounds and two steals in 36 minutes.

Carolina jumped out to a 6-4 lead thanks to four early points from freshman Maik Kotsar. A 3-pointer by Kasey Hill ended a nearly three minute scoring draught for the Gators and gave them a 7-6 lead at the first media timeout with 15:53 on the clock.

The Gamecocks retook the lead 11-9 after starting 4-for-5 (80 percent) from the field. They remained in front, 15-14, at the under 12 media timeout with 11:41 to go. Carolina scored eight of its first 15 points off seven Florida turnovers. Hot shooting was the story on both sides, as each team started 6-for-10. There were eight lead changes in the game's first 8:19.

South Carolina opened up its biggest lead of the game 18-14 with 11:24 to go in the first half and led 20-18 at the under eight media timeout with 7:30 remaining. Chris Chiozza knocked down the Gators' fourth-straight 3 to give them a four-point edge, 30-29 at the final media timeout with 3:01 left to play in the first 20 minutes.

Florida closed the half strong and took its biggest lead of the game, 38-30, after a 6-0 run with 48 seconds left. An and-1 by sophomore PJ Dozier on the other end pulled Carolina within five, 38-33 with 43 seconds remaining. Two free throws by Kevarrius Hayes put the Gators ahead 40-33 at the half.

Thornwell was spectacular in the first half for the Gamecocks, as he scored a game-high 15 points on 6-of-8 (75 percent) shooting. Dozier had a solid first 20 minutes as well, scoring nine points. Justin Leon led the way for the Gators with 13 points as he knocked down 3-of-5 from behind the arc. As a team, Florida shot 14-for-25 (56 percent) and 7-for-12 (58 percent) from behind the arc. They held a 17-11 edge on the glass at the half as well.

The Gamecocks surged within three, 46-43, at the first media timeout of the second half with 15:32 on the clock thanks to a 13-6 run. Kotsar had two buckets as Carolina started 4-for-6 (67 percent) out of the locker room. Two Chris Silva free throws got the Gamecocks within one, 46-45, with 14:53 to play. The foul on Silva put Carolina in the bonus the rest of the way.

With 11:28 to go, the Gamecocks regained the lead, 49-48, on a Kotsar tipin. It was Carolina's first lead since the 5:24 mark in half one. The Gamecocks stormed ahead holding Florida scoreless for 3:25 and to 3-of-14 shooting to start the second half. Florida retook the lead, 53-51, on an and-1 by Leon with 9:56 on the clock. The basket snapped an 0-for-10 draught for the Gators.

The Garden erupted as Thornwell put Carolina back in the lead 59-57 with a tough layup, forcing head coach Mike White to take a timeout with 5:27 left to play. The teams exchanged hoops and were tied 63-63 at the final media timeout with three minutes left to play. The Gamecocks' second half defense was stellar, holding Florida to 8-for-27 (30 percent) and 0-for-12 from 3 to that point.

Thornwell found Kotsar for a transition jumper at the free throw line as Carolina used a 6-0 run to go up four, 67-63, with 1:55 remaining in the game. A KeVaughn Allen free throw pulled the Gators within two, 70-68, with 53 seconds left. Florida got within four twice in the final minute, but two huge steals by Thornwell and Dozier late helped seal the historic victory for the Gamecocks.

Dozier (17), Silva (13) and Kotsar (12) joined Thornwell in double figures. Silva was just shy of a double-double, finishing with nine rebounds including four on the offensive end.

SOUTH CAROLINA CELEBRATES ITS ELITE EIGHT VICTORY OVER FLORIDA AT CENTER COURT AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN. THE GAMECOCKS POSTED A 77-70 WIN OVER THE GATORS TO WIN THE REGIONAL TITLE AND ADVANCE TO THE FIRST FINAL FOUR IN PROGRAM HISTORY.

GLENDALE, ARIZ. - A season that few South Carolina Gamecock fans will ever forget came to an end in Phoenix, as the men's basketball team lost a thrilling 77-73 matchup with Gonzaga (37-1) in the NCAA National Semifinals. The men battled back from a double-digit deficit in the second half at University of Phoenix Stadium, but could not hold off the No. 1 seeded Bulldogs.

With the loss, South Carolina ends the 2016-17 season with a program-record 26 wins and an overall record of 26-11. PJ Dozier led the team in scoring with 17 points. Chris Silva battled Gonzaga's immense frontcourt and finished with 13 points, a career-high 13 rebounds and three blocks.

The Gamecocks were the pursuer for most of the first half, as the Bulldogs were efficient on offense, especially on the interior. A 3-pointer from Dozier gave South Carolina a 10-8 lead five minutes in, but Gonzaga responded with a 12-4 run over the next three minutes to take a two-possession lead with 12 minutes to go. South Carolina leaned on a balanced offense early to keep pace, with six different players scoring for the team in the opening 10 minutes.

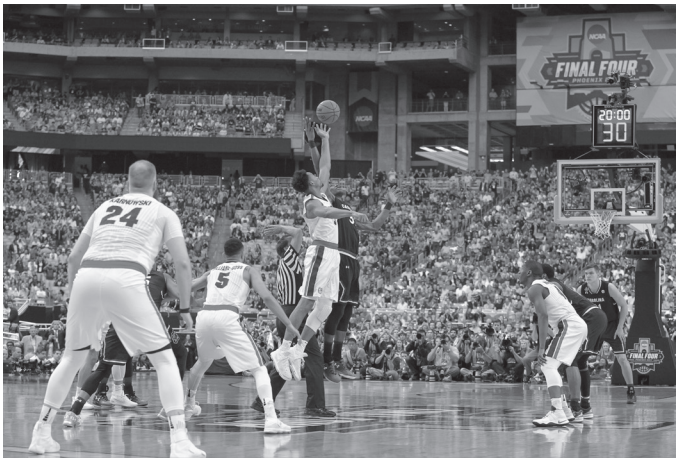

South Carolina matched five-point scoring bursts from Gonzaga to hang close at 26-all and 31-all, thanks in large part to the efforts of Justin McKie and Silva. McKie provided vital scoring for the team off the bench, hitting a pair of 3-pointers in a span of two minutes, with the second tying the score at 31 with 5:13 to play. The senior had a team-high eight points in the period. Silva had a pair of highlight-reel blocks to go with seven points and four rebounds in the half.

A 7-0 run in the final two minutes of the half for the Bulldogs sent them into the break with their biggest lead of the game to that point, 45-36. Gonzaga was red-hot offensively, shooting over 57 percent from the field in the opening frame, led by 12 points for Nigel Williams-Goss. The Bulldogs were especially deadly from deep down the stretch, hitting all three 3-point attempts in the final six minutes to fuel the late run. South Carolina shot just 37 percent as a team, but had five different players contribute at least five points.

Williams-Goss would be the heart of the Gonzaga offense early and often in the second half, scoring 11 of the team's first 20 points out of the break and driving the lead up to 65-51 with 11 minutes to go.

As it had been all tournament long, though, no lead was safe from the South Carolina Gamecocks. After an and-1 conversion from Williams-Goss for the largest lead of the game, 65-51, Carolina used the next four minutes to ignite the Garnet and Black faithful. Silva started the flurry with an and-1 of his own, and the Gamecocks hit six straight field goals to tie it up at 65 with 7:42 left to play.

The run topped out at 16-0 after a pair of Rakym Felder free throws made it 67-65 Gamecocks, giving the team its first lead since the 15:27 mark of the first half. Gonzaga snapped a four-minute scoring drought with back-to-back baskets to take back the lead, but it was a brand-new game with five minutes to play and the world watching.

TIP-OFF OF SOUTH CAROLINA'S FINAL FOUR MATCHUP VS. GONZAGA

The Bulldogs moved away from the perimeter late in the game, turning inside to 7-foot-1-inch senior Przemek Karnowski to grab back momentum. The big man converted on back-to-back possessions to push Gonzaga ahead at the final media timeout, 72-67 with 3:54 on the clock.

The two teams fought tooth and nail for every possession in the final four minutes, but both sides went cold offensively. A jump shot from Dozier and a split trip at the free throw line for Silva was Carolina's only points over a two minute span. The Gamecock defense put them in position, however, to tie the game up with the ball and a three-point deficit with 15 seconds left and the score 75-72 in Gonzaga's favor.

The Bulldogs opted to foul Sindarius Thornwell away from the basket, putting him on the line for two shots with 3.5 seconds left. After hitting the first, he hit the second off the back of the iron and Gonzaga snagged it and was fouled with 2.2 still on the clock with a 75-73 advantage. A pair of made free throws on the other end sealed the win for the Bulldogs.

SOUTH CAROLINA HISTORY

As South Carolina continues play into the 21st century, the Gamecock basketball program begins its 106th season of competition on the collegiate level in 2013. With over 10 decades of exciting play on the hardwood, the years have been filled with great seasons, teams, players and coaches.

THE 1900S — A NEW BEGINNING

The Gamecocks played only one season in the decade of the 1900s, converting from a club sport and playing a limited number of three games, all at home. Those contests — as well as two other tilts in the next two seasons — were played outside as the fledgling program continued to grow.

The first Gamecock tilt came on Oct. 30, 1908, when the Gamecocks took on the Hurricanes of Furman in Columbia. After the two squads fought to a 9-9 halftime tie, Furman got a basket late from its right forward, Fender, to win 21-19. Junior captain J.C. Vassy from South Carolina scored 15 of the team's 21 points, nine coming from free throw chances. USC had begun its basketball history.

South Carolina went on to play games in December versus the Columbia YMCA and in February of 1909 versus Wofford, losing both. Vassy led the Gamecocks in scoring for the season with 9.0 points per game. The stage had been set for USC basketball.

THE 1910S — A DECADE OF FIRSTS

Other than actually participating in their first collegiate game, the Gamecocks had a decade of firsts in the 1910s. As basketball became more respected in the University and around the state, schedules grew as teams in South Carolina began and continued to field teams.

USC played only one game in the 1909-10 season, losing a Nov. 2, 1909 contest at home to Davidson, 29-8. Head Coach F.E. Schofield led the Gamecocks in their only documented tilt that season, while senior captain J.H. White and senior Perry Jayroe accounted for all the scoring with six and two points, respectively.

A season later, South Carolina notched its first varsity win, downing the Columbia YMCA by a 31-18 count almost 15 months after its previous game against Davidson. Led by freshman center J.E. Poole and his 21 points vs. the Columbia YMCA, South Carolina finished the year 1-1, losing to Newberry but setting the foundation for many wins to come. Poole became the first USC player to ever average in double figures for a season with 11.5 points a game.

On Jan. 7, 1912, USC officially opened the Carolina Gymnasium (now Longstreet Theater) for varsity games with USC crushing the Olympia YMCA, 33-5, in the first game. The Gamecocks' first collegiate win came at Wofford a week later, which was also USC's first road victory. Carolina's first winning season came in the 1913-14 campaign, when USC posted a 5-4-1 mark, went a perfect 5-0 at the Gymnasium, and had the only tie in school history.

The Gamecocks had their share of fine players in the 1910s. R.L. Bowen scored more points than any other USC player in the decade while leading the Gamecocks with 9.1 points per game (1914-15), 12.9 per game (1915-16) and 11.0 per game (1916-17) in his first three years. Clark Waring led USC with 12.2 points per outing (1917-18) and 14.9 per game (1918-19) to close out the decade while senior captain James Rhea posted the highest season point average in the decade, knocking in 15.0 points a tilt in the 1912-13 season.

USC had a number of coaches in its first few years of collegiate ball, but Dixon Foster made his mark on the court, going 26-31 in four seasons between 1917-20. Foster was also the football head coach of the Gamecocks for the 1917 and 1919 seasons.

THE 1920S — A NEW HOME AND A NEW LEAGUE

The 1920s was a decade of growth for the Gamecocks, one that would see South Carolina align with a conference and move into one of the South's finest basketball facilities all within a five-year span.

The '20s would also be a time to see head coaches in football and basketball as one in the same as Sol Metzger and Branch Bocock took their tries on the hardwood and came away with much success. Metzger, who coached the 1920-21 Gamecocks, was a respectable 7-11 and 26-18 on the gridiron while Bocock, who had an admirable mark of 13-7 in two seasons of football coaching, still has one of the highest winning percentages in USC basketball history. Bocock was 33-16 in three seasons (1925-27) for a 67.3% winning tally.

In 1922, the Gamecocks got their first taste of conference-like affiliation by participating in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association (SIAA) Tournament in Atlanta to end the 1921-22 campaign. USC lost to Georgia Tech in the second round but had begun an almost annual season-ending ritual of conference tournaments. The following season, South Carolina joined the Southern Conference — then two years old — and went 0-3 in three SoCon tilts that season. In its final SIAA Tournament game in 1923, USC fell to Alabama.

A year later, 1924, South Carolina was a full-fledged member of the Southern Conference, going 2-2 in the league and losing to Tulane in the first round of the tournament in Atlanta. Bocock took over in the 1924-25 season and led the Gamecocks to three-straight winning seasons, including the successful 1926-27 campaign. After 10-7 and 9-5 seasons the previous two years, Bocock and the Gamecocks notched a 14-4 mark in 1927, going 9-1 in the Southern Conference and a perfect 3-0 in one-half season at their new home — the Carolina Fieldhouse. USC began a 42-season affair with the Fieldhouse that year with back-to-back wins over Florida and ended the 1927 campaign with a semifinal loss to Vanderbilt in the conference tourney.

A.W. "Rock" Norman began his USC coaching career two years later (1928-29 season), notching a 57-57 record in six seasons overall.

USC wasn't without its scorers in the decade of the '20s, though, as forward Thornton Sparkman led the Gamecocks in scoring for three of his four years from 1921-24 and averaged over 10.0 points a game in four seasons. Right behind was center Buster Holcombe, who led the Gamecocks in scoring in 1926-27-28 with just under 10.0 points a tilt.

THE 1930S — A STRONG SHOWING

Led by high scorers, strong coaches and great teams, the Gamecocks of the 1930s posted six-straight winning seasons in the middle of the decade and notched the school's first conference championship.

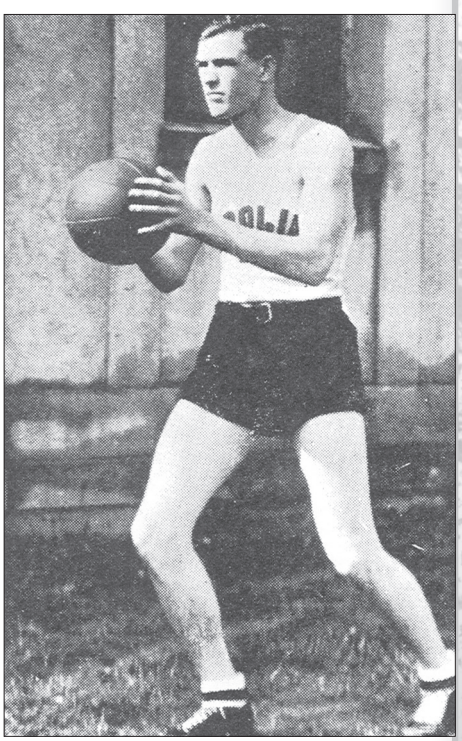

Under the leadership of Norman, the Gamecocks got off to a slow start with back-to-back 6-10 and 1-17 teams before putting together the most successful back-to-back seasons still in school history. USC dominated Southern Conference play for the 1933-34-35 seasons, led by two of the nation's top scorers in All-American's Freddie Tompkins and Dana Henderson.

The string of strong seasons began in 1932-33, just after South Carolina lost at Kentucky to run its record to 2-2. Six weeks later and with 14 wins in a row under their belts, the Gamecocks romped past Duke, 33-21 in the Southern Conference Tournament to post their first-ever conference title. Tompkins led USC with 12.7 points a game while Henderson was right behind with 12.1 points a tilt. Football coach Billy Laval took the reigns of the squad for the season, soon to relinquish them back to Norman for the 1933-34 season.

USC continued the streak the following season, winning its first 17 games to put the winning tally at 32 straight. After winning 84-9 over Presbyterian to open the 1933-34 campaign, USC posted a perfect, 6-0 mark in the league and seemed headed for another SoCon crown. But a mumps outbreak on the team left both Tompkins and his brother, Bennie, and Henderson in Columbia and N.C. State crushed an outmanned USC team in the first round. With everyone healthy, though, USC defeated Pittsburgh three weeks later, a team considered to be the best in the country. Again, Freddie Tompkins (14.1 ppg) and Henderson (10.6 ppg) led the way.

In Norman's final year at the helm of the Gamecocks, USC could not survive the loss of the Tompkins brothers, but Henderson's 14.1 points a game led the Gamecocks to a 15-9 record. Ending the decade, Ted Petoskey began a five-year career with the USC basketball squad, posting winning seasons in his first two years (1936-1937) before succumbing to losing campaign the next three seasons.

THE 1940S — BATTLING THROUGH THE WAR YEARS

FREDDIE THOMPKINS

As Coach Petoskey finished his career in the 1939-40 season with a 5-13 squad, the Gamecocks looked for stability within the system after World War II took many youngsters away to fight.

Along came Frank Johnson, who broke the three-year losing skid immediately with a 15-9 record and led the Gamecocks for 14 and one-half seasons, second longest ever in school history.

In terms of winning seasons, the 1940s tied with the 1980s for the second most successful decades in USC hoops lore, notching seven winning campaigns. High scoring became the norm, getting started early with a forward named Preston Westmoreland, who would go on to lead USC in scoring in each of his three seasons (1940-41-42).

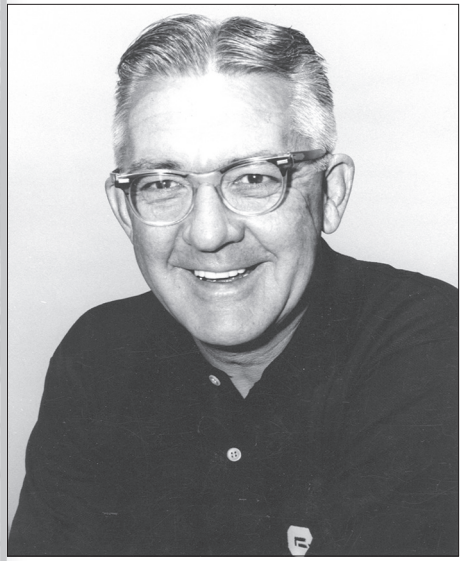

Also on the scoring front, USC's first 1,000-point scorer was born in the decade of the 1940s. Henry Martin, a 5-9 guard from Columbia, led the Gamecocks in scoring in 1943 before the war took him away from playing. Upon his return in 1947, Martin again was among the team scoring leaders for his final three years and finished his career with over 1,000 points for the first time in school history.

Due to the war, coaching changes were the norm. After leading USC to a 2-0 mark in the 1942-43 season, Johnson was called to war and football mentor Rex Enright coached the remainder of the campaign for an 11-6 record and 13-6 tally overall. Basketball success at South Carolina did not suffer though, as Lt. Henry Findley (1944) and Johnny McMillan (1945) led the Gamecocks to 13-2 and 19-3 seasons, respectively, before Johnson returned midway through the 1945-46 season.

The Gamecocks had two more winning campaigns to finish out the decade, but it was one player who surfaced in the 1940s who would make an impact for many years to come — Jim Slaughter, The first big man for the Gamecocks, notched 1,521 career points.

THE 1950S — FILLING IT UP

Though won-loss records were not the main success story in the 1950s, the high scoring of players like Slaughter and Grady Wallace certainly was. The fun began in the 1949-50 season, Slaughter's junior year when he became the first USC player to average 20.0 points a game as the Gamecocks notched a 13-9 record. A year later, the Gamecocks were 13-12 but Slaughter upped his scoring tally to 22.8 per game and finished his career at that time as the school's all-time leading scorer.

COACH FRANK JOHNSON

Dwane Morrison — a junior college transfer who averaged just less than 15 points a game — Joe Smith and Lee Collins filled up the nets for the seasons following Slaughter's departure with Smith and Collins notching over 1,000 points for their careers. But it was Collins' 18.2 points per game figure in 1956 that caught the eye of many onlookers — not because he scored 18.2 points a game but because he finished second in the scoring race.

Enter Grady Wallace: South Carolina's all-time two-year scoring leader with over 1,400 points and an average of 28.0 points a game. Wallace pumped in 23.9 points a tilt for the 9-14 Gamecocks as a junior and led the nation in the 1956-57 season with 31.3 points a game his final campaign. Wallace dominated inside, pulling down 14.4 rebounds a game his senior year. Feeding the ball to Wallace for much of his sophomore season, Ray "Cookie" Pericola made a name for himself after Wallace's departure, averaging 15.1 points as a junior (1957-58) and 12.8 as a senior (1958-59) to finish with over 1,000 points in his USC career.

Scoring points wasn't all that was on USC Basketballers' minds in the 1950s — a new conference was. A conference realignment in 1953 created the Atlantic Coast Conference and South Carolina would see action in the competitive league for years to come. In fact, Wallace single-handedly led the 17-12 Gamecocks to back-to-back upsets of Duke and Maryland in the ACC Tournament in 1957, only to lose in the finals to eventual national champion North Carolina and Head Coach Frank McGuire.

THE 1960S — USC BEGINS TO EMERGE AS A POWER

After seasons of mediocre play to end the 1950s and into the early 1960s, Gamecock basketball began to flourish under Head Coach Bob Stevens. Stevens turned around four-straight losing seasons to go 15-12 in 1961-62 and capture ACC Coach of the Year honors. Stevens left after that season and two years later, the same man that led North Carolina over the Gamecocks in the 1957 ACC finals had become the head coach of the Gamecocks — Frank McGuire.

It didn't take long for McGuire to get the pipeline of Northern players working at South Carolina, quickly gaining respect for Gamecock basketball in just three seasons. In 1964, McGuire inherited a USC team short on numbers and finished 6-17. A year later, the Gamecocks turned in an 11-13 season, mainly due to the hard-nosed play of guard Skip Harlicka. In the 1965-66 season, McGuire returned USC to its winning ways with a 16-7 record and a semifinal berth in the ACC Tournament. Things were changing South of the border.

That 16-7 season marked an amazing streak for the Gamecocks, mainly under the leadership of McGuire. USC reeled off 15-straight winning seasons, not to have a losing ledger again until the 1981-82 season. Also, wins at Wake Forest, Virginia and Maryland and a home win over North Carolina proved that the Gamecocks were making progress and were looking to the upper tier of the league.

Then came along a recruiting class of John Roche, Tom Owens and John Ribock among others; and after Harlicka and the Gamecocks posted a 15-7 record in the 1967-68 season — including a key 87-86 win over North Carolina in Chapel Hill — things looked primed for a spectacular end of the decade. McGuire and the troops did not disappoint the fans as the 1968-69 squad became the first at USC to post 20 wins, going 21-7, winning the Quaker City Classic and advancing into the second round of both the ACC Tournament and the National Invitation Tournament. Led by Roche and Owens — who scored 40.0 points a game between them — the Gamecocks were ready to tackle all comers in the league.

In the 1968-69 season, McGuire's dreams of big-time basketball had come true as the South's finest basketball arena was finished — the Carolina Coliseum. The 12,401-seat arena would be home to boisterous sell-out crowds for the Gamecocks as the home-court advantage was taken one step further.

THE 1970S — USC'S BEST DECADE EVER

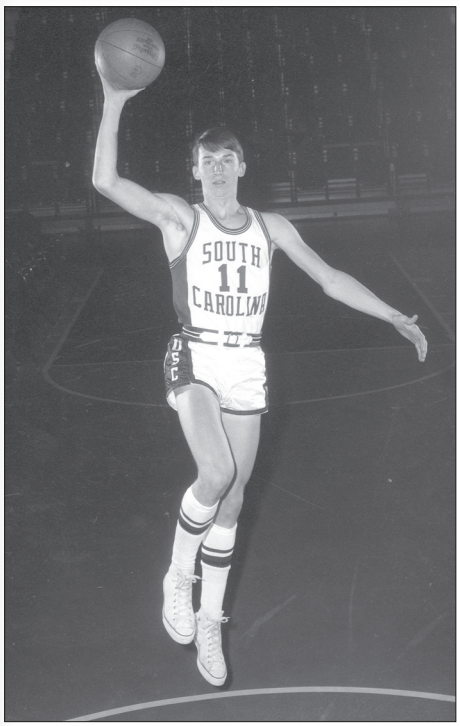

South Carolina wasted little time getting on track in the decade of the 1970s. In the middle of UCLA's string of national championships, preseason polls placed the Gamecocks at the No. 1 slot for the 1969-70 season, showing supreme confidence in McGuire and the troops.

COACH FRANK MCGUIRE

Unfortunately, USC lost its home opener and was knocked out of the top slot but it was the Gamecocks' overall dominance of the rugged ACC that was noted. The Gamecocks outscored their opponents by more than 17 points a game and were an uncanny 14-0 on the road, including a sweep of ACC teams en route to a perfect 14-0 record in the league. Disaster struck USC in the ACC Tournament, though, as Roche severely sprained his ankle in a semifinal win and N.C. State pulled out a double-overtime win in the finals, keeping the Gamecocks out of NCAA Tournament play. USC finished the season with a remarkable 25-3 record.

A year later, spurred on by the emergence of sophomore Kevin Joyce, the Gamecocks got revenge. USC finished the season with a 23-6 record and won the Holiday Festival tournament in New York City. But it was Joyce that got a streak rolling. With time running out against North Carolina in the ACC finals and USC down 51-50, a jump ball was called with the 6-3 Joyce and UNC's

6-10 center Lee Dedmon. Amazingly, Joyce outjumped Dedmon and tipped the ball directly to Owens under the basket for a layup and 52-51 Gamecock victory. South Carolina had won the ACC and was on its way to the first of four-straight NCAA Tournament berths, losing in the Round of 16.

After withdrawing from the league, the Gamecocks still had incredible success, going 24-5 in 1971-72, mainly due to the play of Joyce and center Tom Riker, who averaged 19.6 points a game. USC again went to the NCAA Round of 16. The Gamecocks, with a 22-7 record in 1972-73, made the Sweet 16 again and followed the following year with a 22-5 mark and another berth in the big dance. Though the Gamecocks did not make the NCAAs again until the 1988-89 season, a winning record would enhance each of the remaining teams of the 1970s, as well as NIT berths in the 1975 and 1978 seasons.

USC honored McGuire and his fine success in his tenure at South Carolina at the end of the 1976-77 season. The playing area of the Carolina Coliseum was donned Frank McGuire Arena.

Great players enhanced the fine play of the decade, led by Roche and his three-year scoring record of 1,910 points and an incredible 56-point day vs. Furman his senior season. Alex English came along in 1973 and set the all-time USC scoring mark with 1,972 points in four seasons while teammate Mike Dunleavy notched 1,586 points, also from 1973-76. Other notable greats in the 1970s included Joyce (1,400 points), Riker (1,343), Owens (1,325), Brian Winters (1,079), Mike Doyle (1,360) and Nate Davis (1,345).

THE 1980S — A PERIOD OF GROWTH AND RELOADING

McGuire coached his final team to begin the decade of the 1980s, leading the Gamecocks to a respectable 16-11 record and ending his career with a 283-142 record. Much of the success of the 1980 squad had to do with Cedrick Hordges, who in two years with USC led the Gamecocks in scoring and had 1,065 points. In McGuire's last game, a home tilt vs. Western Kentucky, the Gamecocks came back in regulation and pulled off a 73-65 double-overtime win.

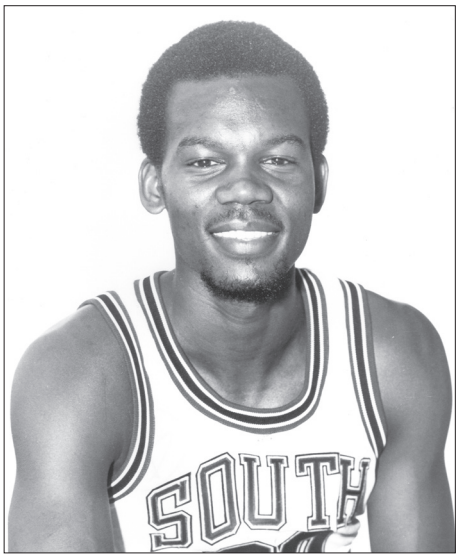

McGuire was succeeded by Bill Foster, who made himself well known by a national championship appearance with Duke in the 1978 season. Foster didn't take long to learn the name of Zam Fredrick as Fredrick filled the nets for 28.9 points a game — leading the nation — as USC finished with a 17-10 mark. After their first losing season since 1966, the Gamecocks and Foster rebounded in the 1982-83 season, going 22-9 and advancing to the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament, the first postseason appearance for USC since 1978.

A year later, South Carolina would again get into conference action — joining the Metro Conference. Immediately, the Gamecocks got some big wins, including 1985 and 1987 victories over Memphis State, who at the time was ranked in the top five nationally. Foster's tenure at South Carolina would end in 1986, though, and a member of USC's last NCAA Tournament team would get the head coaching reigns.

George Felton then took over the Gamecock program for the 1986-87 season. Armed with less than 10 scholarship players, Felton and the Gamecocks finished 15-14 in 1986-87 and did something that no other USC squad had accomplished — win a Metro Tournament contest. Terry Dozier had a career-high 38 points and John Breckenridge blocked a last-second Florida State shot as USC made its way for the first time into the Metro semis.

After posting a 19-10 record in 1987-88 but failing to go to NCAA play due to probation, USC had more success in 1988-89 than in the previous 15 seasons. The Gamecocks were the first NCAA Tournament team since 1974, were ranked in the nation's Top 20 for the first time since 1975 and defeated a Top 20 team on the road for the first time since 1975 when USC eliminated a 14-point second-half deficit for a win at Tennessee. The Gamecocks posted highs for Metro record (8-4) and finish (second) and had six wins over NCAA Tournament teams, including Louisville at Frank McGuire Arena.

Many fine players donned the Garnet & Black in the 1980s, including Terry Dozier, who finished his career with 1,445 career points. Other players who eclipsed the 1,000 point plateau were Jimmy Foster (1,745), Hordges (1,065), Michael Foster (1,192), Fredrick (1,383) and Darryl Martin (1,040).

THE 1990S — USC JOINS THE SEC, WINS ITS FIRST TITLE

With seemingly all the cards stacked against South Carolina in the 1989-90 season, Felton and the hard-working Gamecocks still pulled out some great wins and finished the campaign at an even 14-14. USC finished the season with only eight scholarship players mainly to injuries but still managed a season-ending win over ACC regular-season champion Clemson at the Frank McGuire Arena. The Gamecocks also posted their finest tournament title since the 1970 Holiday Festival with victories over host UTEP and Kansas State in the El Paso Sun Carnival Classic.

In the 1990-91 season, South Carolina began with a bang, winning the championship of the Diet Pepsi Tournament of Champions with impressive upset wins over North Carolina and Houston. The Gamecocks returned home for victories over nationally-ranked Temple and Furman to rank as high as 12th nationally before finishing the season in the NIT.

In quite possibly the biggest moment in Gamecock athletic history, South Carolina began participation in the prestigious Southeastern Conference in the 1991-92 season. Carolina had joined the ranks of Alabama, Auburn, Louisiana State and perennial national power Kentucky six seasons ago and wasn't looking back ... especially after the incredible finish of the Gamecocks in 1993-94 with an upset of the Wildcats to end the regular season.

Then in the 1996-97 season, South Carolina achieved the unthinkable, especially after a less-than-terrific start. South Carolina played its first two months to a 6-5 record that season, but turned around to be the talk of college basketball with a 12-game winning streak. The Gamecocks finished with a 15-1 record and captured the school's first SEC Championship in any sport by completing an unprecedented sweep of Kentucky on Senior Day in Lexington. Though Carolina was upset in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, the Gamecocks revived the spirit of the Frank McGuire Arena with a 24-8 record and a consistent packed house.

In the 1990s, seven Gamecocks became members of the 1,000-Point Club. Four joined Alex English, Nate Davis and Henry Martin as native Columbians on the 1,000-point chart: the exciting Jo Jo English (1989-92) posted 1,439 career points at South Carolina, while teammates Barry Manning (1988-92) and Joe Rhett (1989-92) knocked in 1,231 and 1,142 career points, respectively, for the Gamecocks; then nine years later, BJ McKie (1996-99) broke English's all-time scoring record to end his career with 2,119 points.

Jamie Watson (1991-94) also reached the milestone by finishing with 1,295 career tallies. In 1997, Carolina's backcourt trio each reached the century mark. Larry Davis (1996-97) finished his two-year career with 1,068 career points, while Melvin Watson (1995-98) ended with 1,424 points. McKie became the first sophomore in USC history to reach the century mark and is the only player ever to go over the 2,000-point plateau.

THE 2000S — A NEW ERA, NEW HEIGHTS

It didn't take long for a new head coach to make waves at Carolina. In just his first season, 2001-02, Dave Odom led the Gamecocks to the NIT championship game with an impressive postseason run. The Gamecocks advanced to the SEC Tournament semifinals for the fourth time in six years (an SEC best) and won six of their last eight games in the best postseason run in school history.

Columbia natives Aaron Lucas and Jamel Bradley became the first 1,000 point scorers of the new millennium. Individually, Chuck Eidson finished his career with 1,067 points and broke the then-school record with 272 career steals.

With the state-of-the-art Colonial Center open, a new set of memories and thrills awaited Gamecock fans. In 2003-04, USC averaged almost 13,000 fans in The Colonial Center, which helped put USC back on the national map in 2003-04 when USC hosted more than 17,000 fans for the eight-game SEC schedule, including a school record and state of South Carolina-best 18,000 fans for senior night against Kentucky. USC won the Guardians Classic, advanced to the semi-finals of the SEC Tournament and made the NCAA Tournament for the first time in six years.

The 2004-05 season included SEC wins over No. 3 Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Ole Miss, Arkansas, Tennessee and the second straight season sweep of Georgia. After falling 53-52 in the SEC Tournament to Ole Miss, after beating the Rebels in overtime to end the regular season just days before, South Carolina took a week off and re-grouped once again. The Gamecocks came out swinging, winning five straight post-season games to capture the 2005 NIT Championship. Carlos Powell, the 2005 NIT MVP, finished his career with 1,541 points - good enough for seventh place on the all-time points list.

In 2006, USC won its second-straight NIT post-season title, with junior Renaldo Balkman being named the NIT MVP, helping him springboard to the New York Knicks as the 20th pick in the first round. USC defeated eventual NCAA champion Florida twice in the regular season before falling to the Gators 49-47 in the SEC Tournament finals.

The NIT Championship win over Michigan was Odom's 100th win at South Carolina. USC had won 20 games in four of the last five years under Odom.
In 2007 USC saw three players named to the All-SEC teams and Tre' Kelley won the national award as the top six feet and under point guard - the Frances Pomeroy Naismith Award.
Two transfers would don the Garnet and Black beginning with the 2007-08 campaign in Devan Downey and Zam Fredrick Jr., son of legendary Zam Fredrick from the 1980s. The campaign would prove to be Odom's last in Columbia, as the team finished a disappointing 14-18 on the year.

Enter new South Carolina head coach Darrin Horn, one of the top young coaches in the nation. Fresh off an NCAA Sweet Sixteen appearance as the head coach of his alma mater, Western Kentucky, Horn took over at Carolina and quickly made his mark on the program.

In just his first year at the helm of the Gamecock program, Horn led South Carolina to one of the most successful seasons in its 18-year history competing in the Southeastern Conference, as the squad earned double-digit SEC victories for just the third time since joining the league and battled its way to an SEC Eastern Division Co-Championship. Additonally, Carolina's 21 wins in 2008-09 was its first 20-win season since the 2005-06 campaign. Horn led the Gamecocks to their first postseason appearance since the 2005-06 campaign with a trip to the NIT.

In his first season with the Gamecocks, Horn tutored a trio of All-SEC performers in junior point guard Devan Downey (First Team, coaches/media), junior forward Dominique Archie (Second Team, coaches/Honorable Mention, media) and senior guard Zam Fredrick (Second Team, coaches). Brandis Raley-Ross was also honored as the SEC Sixth Man of the Year, while Downey, an SEC Player of the Year Candidate, was named an Honorable Mention All-American by the Associated Press. Horn was also instrumental in the formation and emergence of the "Garnet Army," South Carolina's newly formed student section at Colonial Life Arena.

For his achievements during his first year in Columbia, Horn was named a finalist for the 2009 Jim Phelan National Coach of the Year Award, given annually to the nation's top coach.

In his second season in Columbia, Horn led his veteran squad into a highly-anticipated 2009-10 campaign. Led by heralded senior guard Devan Downey, an Honorable Mention All-American by the Associated Press and All-SEC First Team honoree by the coaches and media, South Carolina collected an 11-5 mark in Colonial Life Arena, a road victory in its SEC opener at Auburn - Carolina's first victory in a league opener on the road since the 1993 campaign - and an upset victory over No. 1 Kentucky in a nationally-televised contest in late January. The win over the Wildcats was South Carolina's first in eight tries over a top ranked opponent in the school's 102 years of basketball.

Postseason accolades continued in 2009-10 for the Gamecocks, as Downey and junior center Sam Muldrow were each selected to the SEC All-Defensive Team, while Downey became just the second Gamecock ever to be named to the AP All-SEC first team in three seasons.

Horn led one of the youngest teams in the nation in 2010-11, with only nine seasons of Division I basketball experience among the 12 players that were eligible for game action. South Carolina battled through a rigorous non-conference schedule, including nationally-televised contests at then-No. 2 Michigan State and then-No. 2 Ohio State early on in the campaign. Following the non-conference portion of the schedule, the Garnet and Black earned thrilling overtime victories at Colonial Life Arena over then-No. 22 Vanderbilt and Arkansas, and earned an impressive 72-69 road win at Florida during the SEC season.

Senior Sam Muldrow collected just the second triple-double in South Carolina history during the 2010-11 campaign en route to SEC Defensive Player of the Year accolades, while point guard Bruce Ellington was selected to the league's All-Freshman team.

South Carolina struggled through the 2011-12 season, posting a 10-21 overall record, including a 2-14 mark in SEC play, which saw the Gamecocks make a coaching change at the end of the season. One of the up and coming young head coaches in the country in Frank Martin was hired to be the 32nd head coach in the history of the South Carolina program. Martin was welcomed by several hundred fans, media, athletics department staff and his team in the Frank McGuire room at Colonial Life Arena in late March. Martin, who has advanced to postseason play in each season he has been a head coach, brings a passion for the game that will surely excite fans for years to come.

The Gamecocks posted a 14-18 record under Martin during his first season in Columbia, including a 4-14 record in SEC play. Carolina won the Hoops For Hope Classic Tournament, and posted a 10-4 record in non-conference games. During the offseason, Carolina signed eight newcomers, including seven freshman and one transfer.

Martin's second season (2013-14) leading the Gamecocks saw the squad win four of its final six games of the year, including two games in the SEC Tournament, marking the first Tournament wins for the Gamecocks since the 2008 campaign. Martin and his staff put together a non-conference schedule that challenged his team to prepare for the rigors of the SEC campaign. The Gamecocks posted several quality victories, including a win versus Saint Mary's at the Hawaiian Airlines Diamond Head Classic in December, and conference wins at home versus Alabama, Vanderbilt and No. 17 Kentucky.

Martin tutored his second SEC All-Freshman Team honoree in as many seasons, as rookie guard Sindarius Thornwell led all freshmen in the SEC in league games in points (15.6) and assists (4.0) to earn a spot on the postseason team. Thornwell also garnered three SEC Freshman of the Week awards, and was named the Feb. 18 Wayman Tisdale National Freshman of the Week.

Carolina had a breakthrough season in 2014-15, recording its first winning season since 2008-09 after finishing 17-16 overall (6-12 SEC). That record came against the 25th-hardest non-conference schedule in the country and a SEC schedule that included home-and-home series against the top three teams in the conference.

DEVAN DOWNEY

The team saw breakout seasons from Laimonas Chatkevicius and Duane Notice, who joined Thornwell and senior guard Tyrone Johnson as the offensive leaders. On the court, the Gamecocks earned major wins over teams like North Florida, Oklahoma State, Clemson and #9 Iowa State in the non-conference, and eventual NCAA tournament teams Ole Miss and Georgia in SEC action.

The 2015-16 South Carolina team put together one of the top seasons in its history, matching a school record for wins with a 25-9 overall record on the year, while the Gamecocks reached double-digit SEC wins for just the fourth time since joining the league, posting an 11-7 mark in conference contests. The SEC finish, tied for third, was Carolina's highest since the league combined its East and West Divisions prior to the 2012 season. South Carolina began the season 15-0, its best start since the 1933-34 campaign and went on to post a school-record 24 regular-season wins.

Early season success saw the Gamecocks capture the 2015 Paradise Jam championship in St. Thomas, USVI, in mid-November, before the team returned home to post a six-point road win at Clemson, a neutral site victory over St. John's in the Naismith Memorial Hall of Fame Shootout in Uncasville, Conn., and a home win over perennial NCAA Tournament participant Memphis to conclude the non-conference slate. The Gamecocks won their SEC opener at Auburn, and their home league opener versus Vanderbilt, before a loss at Alabama halted the winning streak.

South Carolina posted a 7-2 record in home games in league play coupled with a 4-5 mark on the road. Carolina's top road win of the league campaign came in a thrilling 81-78 victory at No. 8/8 Texas A&M in early February. Junior guard Sindarius Thornwell flirted with a triple-double in the contest, narrowly missing the mark with a team high 25 points to go along with six rebounds and nine assists. That win marked the first Gamecock road win over a top-10 opponent since a win at Florida in 2006.

The Gamecocks received votes or were ranked for 15 weeks in the USA Today Coaches Poll, rising to as high as 15th, and for a total of 14 weeks in the AP poll, rising to as high as 19th, during the season. Carolina advanced to postseason play for the first time since 2009, making their 12th appearance in the Postseason NIT as one of the top four seeds in the event. The Gamecocks posted a win over High Point in the opening round, before suffering a season-ending loss to visiting Georgia Tech on March 21.

Three Gamecocks were honored with postseason awards by the SEC coaches, with senior forward Michael Carrera earning First Team All-SEC accolades, junior guard Sindarius Thornwell was named to the All-Defensive Team and junior guard Duane Notice was named the league's Sixth Man of the Year. Carrera went on to earn honors from several organizations following the best season of his career. Carrera, Notice and Thornwell each reached the 1,000 career-point plateau during the season as well.

The 2016-17 campaign would go on to be the best season in school history, as the Gamecocks set a school record with 26 wins, advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2004, posted the first program win in the NCAA Tournament since 1973, and advanced to the school's first-ever Final Four, falling by just four points, 77-73, to Gonzaga in the national semifinals in Phoenix. South Carolina captured back-to-back 20-win seasons for the first time since a string of three-straight 20-win campaigns from 2003-2006, and the Gamecocks posted double-digit league victories for just the fifth time since joining the SEC in 1992.

South Carolina was ranked in the AP poll for nine weeks and in the coaches poll for 10 weeks during the regular season, and the Gamecocks were ranked No. 6 in the final USA Today Coaches Poll following the Final Four run. Carolina rose to as high as 16th in the AP Poll, which was its highest rank since the Gamecocks were ranked 14th in the final poll of the 1997-98 season.

South Carolina would win its first eight games, and finish the early non-conference portion of its season with a 10-3 mark entering league play. Once again known for its tenacious defense, the Gamecocks held Michigan and Syracuse to just 19.2 percent and 31.8 percent, respectively, in back-to-back wins over the Wolverines and Orange in late November. During the first portion of the season, Carolina's defense forced 15.9 turnovers per contest, and the Gamecocks began SEC action ranked third in the country in field goal percentage defense, as opponents hit just 35.9 percent from the field during non-conference play.

Carolina would win nine of its first 10 SEC contests, including road victories at Georgia, Tennessee, Missouri and LSU, before falling in a record-breaking four overtime contest against Alabama in Columbia in early February. Eventual SEC Player of the Year Sindarius Thornwell would score a career high 44 points -- the most points in a game by a Carolina player since 1979 -- and collect 21 rebounds -- the most by a Gamecock since 1993 -- while also setting an SEC record for made free throws in a game with 25 versus the Crimson Tide. The Gamecocks would rebound in the following game, clinching their 10th win of the conference season at Mississippi State, a victory that also marked the fifth road win of the season in SEC action, the most since 1997.

South Carolina claimed home wins over Tennessee and Mississippi State for 12 SEC wins, which would tie the Gamecocks for third place in the final league standings earning them the No. 4 seed in the SEC Tournament in Nashville. Prior to the tournament's start, league awards were announced, and Sindarius Thornwell became the first Gamecock to ever earn the distinction of SEC Player of the Year by the coaches. He was also honored on the All-SEC First Team and the All-Defensive Team for his outstanding play during league action. Thornwell led the SEC in scoring in conference games at 22.1 per outing, while he was sixth with 7.5 rebounds per league game and first with 2.4 steals.

FRANK MARTIN

Carolina's name was called on Selection Sunday for the first time in the Frank Martin era. The Gamecocks earned a No. 7 seed and traveled just 90 miles to face 10th-seeded Marquette in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament in Greenville, S.C., at Bon Secours Arena. Thornwell would score 29 points and pull down a game high 11 rebounds, and sophomore guard PJ Dozier would add 21 points, propelling Carolina to its first NCAA Tournament win since 1973. South Carolina would go on to defeat perennial national power No. 2 seed Duke in the second round, behind another 20-point effort from Thornwell. After trailing by seven at the half, the Gamecocks exploded for 65 points in the second half versus the Blue Devils, thanks to 71 percent shooting (20-28) from the field.

South Carolina then traveled to New York, a city with rich Gamecock tradition, for the NCAA East Regional and a meeting with Baylor in the Sweet 16 at Madison Square Garden. It would be Thornwell and the lockdown defense again, as the senior would lead Carolina with 24 points, two blocks and two steals, and the Gamecock defense would hold the Bears to just 30.4 percent in the game. Carolina sailed past Baylor, 70-50, and looked ahead to a meeting with SEC rival, Florida, in the Elite Eight.

Thornwell would earn NCAA East Regional Most Outstanding Player accolades after a 26-point effort to pace the Gamecocks in the historic win over the Gators. In a back-and-forth game the entire way, Carolina would use a late run, and key steals from Thornwell and Dozier in the final minute to clinch a berth in the Final Four, continuing the magical run through March.

South Carolina arrived in Phoenix and prepared to face Gonzaga in the national semifinals on a grand stage at the University of Phoenix Stadium. In front of a capacity crowd of 77,612, the Gamecocks battled back from a double-digit deficit in the second half to take a late lead after a 16-0 run, but the Bulldogs were able to seal the victory with a pair of free throws with just 2.2 seconds remaining.

Thornwell would go on to earn several other postseason accolades, including being named a First Team All-American by CBS Sports, and a Third Team All-American by Basketball Times. Martin was also honored at the end of the season, as he was named the Jim Phelan National Coach of the Year by CollegeInsider.com.

After the magical season, it would be announced that school records for total attendance and average attendance were set at Colonial Life Arena during the 2016-17 season. Nationally, the Gamecocks ranked 15th in total attendance, as 241,126 fans saw Carolina in action at home during the season, an average of 13,396 fans per game, which ranked 21st nationally.

Carolina continued to make strong marks in the classroom as well, as TeMarcus Blanton was named to the NABC Honors Court, while he, PJ Dozier, Jarrell Holliman, Duane Notice and Chris Silva were all named to the SEC Winter Academic Honor Roll, and four newcomers -- Hassani Gravett, Khadim Gueye, Maik Kotsar and Christian Schmitt -- were all named to the SEC First Year Academic Honor Roll. In May, all three Gamecock senior student-athletes -- Justin McKie, Duane Notice and Sindarius Thornwell -- graduated with their degree as well.

More excitement came for the Gamecocks during the summer of 2017, as Sindarius Thornwell became the first Carolina player selected in the NBA Draft since 2006 when he was chosen as the No. 48 pick by the Milwaukee Bucks. He was immediately traded to the LA Clippers, and went on to star for the squad in the NBA Summer League. PJ Dozier, who left South Carolina after his sophomore campaign for the NBA Draft, signed a free agent deal with the LA Lakers for the Summer League, and was signed by the Dallas Mavericks just before the NBA Preseason.

South Carolina completed its fourth-consecutive winning season in 2017-18, finishing the campaign with a 17-16 mark. The Gamecocks collected upset wins over No. 18/16 Kentucky and No. 10/11 Auburn at home, while also capturing a road victory at No. 20/22 Florida during league action. Junior forward Chris Silva excelled during the year, leading the Gamecocks in points (14.3) and rebounds (8.0) per game, en route to being named to the All-SEC First Team, the All-Defensive Team and co-Defensive Player of the Year by league coaches.

Silva's First-Team selection marked the third straight season that Carolina has held a place on the First Team, following Michael Carrera's 2016 honor, and Sindarius Thornwell's 2017 selection.

The Gamecocks posted a 16-16 overall mark in 2018-19, which included an 11-7 record in SEC contests, placing the Gamecocks in a tie for fourth in the final league standings. The double-digit SEC wins marked the third time in the last four seasons that the Gamecocks had double-digit SEC victories, resulting in a double-bye in the league tournament in each of those campaigns as well. Martin is now the only coach in Carolina history to have three seasons with double-figure SEC victories. The Gamecocks captured their first SEC victory of the season in thrilling fashion at Florida, as senior forward Chris Silva collected a full-court pass from sophomore Felipe Haase to clinch the game on a dunk with just seconds remaining. Carolina would go on to post wins over ranked opponents in No. 14 Mississippi State and No. 16 Auburn during the league campaign as well.

SOUTH CAROLINA CELEBRATES ITS ELITE EIGHT WIN OVER FLORIDA IN THE 2017 NCAA TOURNAMENT

Senior forward Chris Silva led the Gamecocks in scoring with 15.2 points per game, while also posting team highs of 7.6 rebounds and 1.9 blocks per outing. The standout forward earned several preseason accolades, and during the postseason, earned All-SEC First Team and All-Defensive Team honors by league coaches, and was named to the All-SEC Second Team by the media. Two others earned postseason accolades from league coaches for their play during the season. Rookie guard A.J. Lawson was named to the SEC All-Freshman Team after providing 14.0 points per league contest, with 2.6 assists per game, as well. Senior guard Hassani Gravett was named to the SEC Community Service Team, before earning SEC Sixth Man of the Year honors. In league play, he scored 12.9 points per game, while averaging 43.9 percent from 3-point range, connecting on 43-of-98 attempts from beyond the arc.

Following the season, eight Gamecocks earned academic laurels from the SEC, continuing Carolina's success in the classroom. Rising senior Maik Kotsar also earned NABC Honors Court accolades.

SINDARIUS THORNWELL SCORED 24 POINTS TO HELP LEAD SOUTH CAROLINA TO A 88-81 WIN OVER DUKE IN THE 2017 NCAA TOURNAMENT.

GAMECOCK HOMECOURT HISTORY

Since 1908, South Carolina teams have called three buildings and possibly an outdoor court home over the years, and the fourth home of Gamecock basketball comes into play in the 2002-03 season with the opening of The Carolina Center.

In 1908, South Carolina played its first collegiate game, losing a close 21-19 contest to state rival Furman in Columbia. Though the game has been documented to have been played in Columbia, there is no evidence to prove that it was played indoors; thus, the belief that South Carolina's first five collegiate games were played outside.

CAROLINA GYMNASIUM

The current Longstreet Theater was finished in 1850 and served as a chapel, auditorium, hospital, arsenal, armory and science building before being converted into a gymnasium in 1893. In December of 1911, the gymnasium was finished to include spectator seats and the first contest played in what is now Longstreet Theater saw the Gamecocks down the Olympia YMCA, 33-5, on Jan. 7, 1911.

South Carolina played in the building until midway through the 1926-27 season, posting an overall mark of 70-38, winning almost 65% of its games over that span. The Gamecocks had only two losing seasons in the Carolina Gymnasium (1915, 1919), while notching .500 or better marks in 14 of the 16 years. In the 1913-14 season, South Carolina was 5-4-1 overall on the year, with all five wins coming at home in five overall matches for a perfect mark. In South Carolina history, the 1914 squad is one of only seven teams to go through a home season undefeated in either the Carolina Gymnasium, Fieldhouse or Coliseum.

The Carolina Gymnasium was the home for South Carolina's first involvement in a conference — the Southern. The Gamecocks began competition in the Southern Conference in the 1922-23 season but did not play a conference game there until the following season when Georgia pulled out a 38-29 victory. USC went on to win seven of its next Southern Conference games there over the next three-plus seasons, before moving into the Carolina Fieldhouse, located across the street.

Located on the corner of Sumter and Greene Streets, the gymnasium was as such until a fire in the late 1960s destroyed part of the building. In 1976, the acoustics were improved and the building remodeled to its current use — a theater-in-the-round.

CAROLINA FIELDHOUSE

Located just a stone's throw from the Carolina Gymnasium and literally across the street was the Carolina Fieldhouse — site of the Gamecock basketballers from 1927 through the 1967-68 seasons and some of the finest moments in Gamecock hoops history.

South Carolina had some of its finest teams inhabit the Fieldhouse, including the star-studded squads of the 1932-33 and 1933-34 teams. Counting back to three wins at home to end the 1931-32 season, the Gamecocks reeled off 31 straight wins, the streak falling at the hands of North Carolina, 32-31, on Feb. 9, 1935. The 1932-33 team finished the year 17-2, winning its last 15 games after starting the year 2-2, and capturing the Southern Conference Tournament. The Gamecocks kept the streak alive the following season, winning their next 17 games to push the overall streak to 32 and good enough for a perfect 17-0 mark heading into the tournament. A mumps breakout, though, decimated the roster and the Gamecocks fell in the first round of the tournament. Four weeks later, USC played national powerhouse Pittsburgh to end the season, downing Pitt, 38-35, to finish off USC's best record ever at 18-1.

The Gamecocks didn't waste any time in their new building, defeating Florida twice and Davidson just three days later to finish the 1926-27 season with a 3-0 mark at the Fieldhouse and 8-1 ledger at home overall. The Gamecocks went on to the finals of the Southern Conference Tournament that season, losing to Vanderbilt and finishing the year 14-4.

Overall, the Gamecocks posted .500 or better records for 31 of their 42 years in the famed Fieldhouse, including perfect marks in 1933 (8-0), 1934 (11-0) and 1943 (10-0). The Fieldhouse was home to some heated rivalries, especially when conference re-formation took place prior to the 1953-54 season and South Carolina became a charter member of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

As time went on, capacity-plus crowds of just over 3,200 frequented the cozy establishment to watch the Gamecocks square off with arch-rivals Clemson, North Carolina and N.C. State among others. The Fieldhouse was also home to the nation's top scorer in the 1956-57 season as Grady Wallace tickled the twine for 31.3 points a game that season when the Gamecocks finished 17-12, advancing to the finals of the ACC Tournament.

The Gamecocks posted a fine, 7-1 mark in their final year in the Fieldhouse (1967-68), with their last game there seeing the Wolfpack of N.C. State squeaking out a 55-54 decision on Mar. 2. The building burned down shortly after the end of the season in April, speeding up the process on what would soon become the basketball showcase in the South — the Carolina Coliseum.

CAROLINA COLISEUM

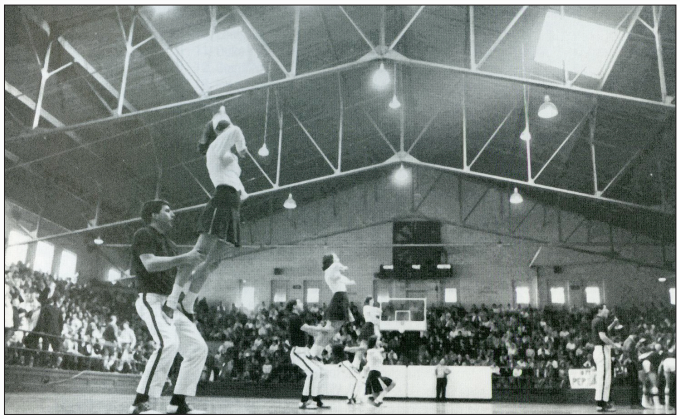

It didn't take long for the 12,401-seat Carolina Coliseum to be known as the "House that Frank Built." With Head Coach Frank McGuire heading into his fifth season at the helm of the Gamecock basketball program, the timing of the Carolina Coliseum could not be better. With the USC squad on the verge of greatness, it could enjoy playing home tilts in one of the greatest facilities in the nation.

The Coliseum, located just two blocks from the Fieldhouse at the corner of Greene and Assembly streets, opened to a heart-pounding, 51-49 win for the Gamecocks over Auburn on Nov. 30, 1968. A sophomore (then first-year) guard John Roche pumped in a 22-foot jumper from the top of the key with time running out and the magic of McGuire's Coliseum would live on through today.

The Gamecocks played 34 seasons at the Carolina Coliseum. The Coliseum was a fine home to Gamecock basketball from the 1968 season and a thorn in the side of opponents to the tune of a 75% Gamecock winning percentage at home. In fact, the great fan support received over the years reached a pinnacle of its own in 1999 as the fourth million fan walked through the gates. Some 4,357,037 fans watched Gamecock basketball in the 34-year history of the Coliseum.

In the first season, the Gamecocks posted a 9-1 record at home, losing only to the Tar Heels. A year later, USC, oddly enough, would be a perfect 14-0 on opponents' home courts, losing two of 11 tilts at home. In the midst of UCLA's reign at the top of college basketball, South Carolina had taken away the pre-season number one slot in the country prior to the 1969-70 season. With a starting lineup of Roche, Bobby Cremins, John Ribock, Tom Owens and Tom Riker, the Gamecocks took the ranking into their home opener vs. Tennessee, only to lose 55-54 and never regain the top ranking.

Fans would see three-straight teams (1970-71-72) finish sixth in the final Associated Press poll, while the 1970-71 and 1972-73 teams had perfect 11-0 and 13-0 records, respectively at home with the 1971-72 squad posting an admirable 11-1 mark. In 31 years at the Carolina Coliseum, an amazing eight squads have amazingly notched 90% or better records. The home success returned in 1995-96 as USC was 16-2 with a +15.6 home scoring margin. In fact, over a recent three-year period (1996-98) the Gamecocks were an amazing 40-6 at the Frank McGuire Arena.

CAROLINA FIELDHOUSE

In his final game — a Feb. 23, 1980 contest vs. Western Kentucky — McGuire again worked his magic. The Gamecocks pulled out a 73-65, double-overtime win that night to end McGuire's USC career. In McGuire's 12 seasons of coaching at the Carolina Coliseum, USC won 137 games and lost only 28 for a winning tally of 83% — a fitting mark for the Irishman in the "House that Frank Built." In fact, in March 1977, the playing facility of the Coliseum was dubbed "Frank McGuire Arena."

The Coliseum was home not only to the Gamecocks and Lady Gamecocks, but since its construction in 1968, the Carolina Coliseum was home to the College of Journalism and Mass Communication and College of Applied Professions.

COLONIAL LIFE ARENA

A new era dawned in Gamecock basketball history in 2002 with the opening of the 18,000-seat Carolina Center, now known as Colonial Life Arena. The multi-purpose venue is home to both Carolina men's and women's basketball, locker rooms for both teams, and several other University offices. The venue is the largest arena in the State of South Carolina and ranks as the 10th-largest on-campus venue in the nation. Colonial Life Arena features 41 suites, four entertainment suites, and the Frank McGuire Club, a full-service hospitality room, utilized for game day and other events.

The first matchup for Gamecock basketball at Colonial Life Arena saw Carolina post a 71-66 victory over visiting East Tennessee State on Nov. 24, 2002. The first men's SEC contest came in a 55-49 victory over Ole Miss on Jan. 8, 2003.

The Arena has seen numerous sellout crowds, including the first-ever sellout, a Carolina men's contest versus Kentucky on March 3, 2004.

Carolina teams that have played at Colonial Life Arena have advanced to the NCAA Tournament, including the historic run to the Final Four in 2017, captured back-to-back NIT championships and also won a share of an SEC divisional title. One of the many highlights at Colonial Life Arena came on Jan. 26, 2010, when the Gamecock men's squad posted its first-ever victory over a No. 1 ranked opponent when it defeated top-ranked Kentucky in front of 18,000 thrilled Gamecock fans.

NOTES: From 1933-1950 the SEC champion was determined by a tournament, except for 1935. Since 1951, when the round-robin schedule was introduced, the title has been decided by a winning percentage on the conference schedule. * Only eight teams invited to participate.  Only six teams participated due to World War II. - NOTE: South Carolina joined the SEC prior to the 1991-92 season
