

PURPOSE

- TEACHERS GUIDE STUDENTS IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF RESEARCH PROJECTS ADDRESSING SIGNIFICANT SOCIAL STUDIES TOPICS USING SOCIAL STUDIES, LITERACY, AND RESEARCH METHODOLOGY INSTRUCTION.
- STUDENTS COMMUNICATE THEIR FINDINGS THROUGH ABSTRACTS, RESEARCH SUMMARY PAPERS, VISUAL PRESENTATIONS, AND INTERVIEWS AT SOCIAL STUDIES FAIRS.
- GCSS SUPPORTS AND CELEBRATES TEACHER AND STUDENT WORK THROUGH FUNDING AND INVOLVEMENT IN REGIONAL AND STATE FAIRS.

2019 STATE SOCIAL STUDIES FAIR

Eagles Landing High School

APRIL 13, 2019

Greetings students, educators, and parents!

By this time of the year, students all over Georgia have begun research projects in anticipation of competing in local, regional, and state social studies fairs. Regional and state directors are also scrambling to establish dates, locations, and times, with some changes coming to several regions along those lines. So please be patient. We'll have information posted as soon as we have confirmation.

In the meantime, be aware that the four project components remain the same as in the past. No rules have changed, so you are safe using the old guide or new documents, updated and posted separately on the website to make them more accessible.

You can be on the lookout for two new awards. This year, I will contribute two additional awards at state: one for the Most Intriguing Primary Source and another for the Best Use of Technology. In doing so, I'd like to encourage students to dig deep to find great primary sources and to use their technological skills and creativity to enhance their visual presentations once the factual information is gathered, interpretation is done, and conclusions have been reached.

Don't forget to check the website for other tips on topics in several disciplines provided by social studies-related organizations.

Hope to see you at state!

Sharon Coleman, State Fair Coordinator