Private instagram stories app

Projecting a good story on Instagram that will gain maximum engagement is more than just taking a cute photo or recording a funny video and posting it for the world to see. Sure, that's a big part of the equation – but to really make your story stand out from the many others your friends are watching, you need to be creative with all the little extras that the app offers. For example, you can add GIFs, stickers, filters, location tags, hashtags, animated emojis, and searches to any photos or videos you upload to your story. Or, thanks to Instagram music stickers, you can also add music to your Instagram stories if you're feeling particularly bold. To use the feature, you must first make sure that you are running the most up-to-date version of the application. Check for updates available on your phone, and if you see one for Instagram, download it and then reopen the app. (If you don't see an update, you're probably fine — this feature has been around since mid-2018, so if you've updated some time since then, you probably have access to the feature!) Once you have the feature in your app, using it is really simple. Just follow these steps to create a story on Instagram with music.1. Tap The Music Sticker After Taking A Photo Or VideoOpen up the Instagram app, and tap the camera icon in the upper left corner to open Instagram stories. After you take a photo or video you want to share, you can add music by tapping the sticker button (looks like a small smiling square face in the menu at the top of the screen), and selecting the music sticker. 2. Swipe through the library of songs offered on InstagramAfter you've stapled the music sticker, a music library will appear so you can scroll. You can search for a specific song that you know you want, or simply navigate through the mood, genre or what's popular. Choose what your heart desires!3. Select The song you wantOnce you've decided on a song, you can play with it to ensure that the exact part you want your followers to hear playbacks. You can fast forward and rewind to choose the part of the music that works for your story. When your followers watch your story, they'll hear the song you've chosen to play automatically. If they want more information about it, there will be a tappable sticker that they can click. This is a really fun way to add some more interesting elements to your story, and it's also a cool way to listen to new music. You can find your new favorite jelly thanks to someone you keep adding it to your story! Instagram has been releasing so many new features which is a bit difficult to keep up with. In recent weeks, we've seen the addition of a You're All Caught Up feature that alerts you when you see it all over again in your feed, the ability to add music to your Instagram stories and a way to video chat with friends —and that's just naming a few. On Tuesday, the introduced another new feature: the ability to add a question sticker to your Instagram story. It's a fun and interesting way to make your story more interactive, and it's definitely something you'll see in every story of all. Obviously, you'll want to try it out for yourself in your own story... but what if you can't find it even after reading about how to use it? If you don't have the new Instagram Stories question sticker, don't freak out yet. For those who don't know exactly what the question sticker is, here's the fast and dirty: this is another sticker you can add to your Instagram story to make it stand out. You'll write a warning to your friends to encourage them to ask questions, and then (hopefully) your followers will ask you a few questions. You can see these questions in the same place where you see who saw your story, and then you can choose which ones you want to answer. Answering the question creates a new addition to your story. It's a very fun way to engage with your followers and so they can learn more about you. Although Instagram is releasing this feature on Tuesday, July 10, you may not see it in your app, which is kind of frustrating. But be comforted to know that you're definitely not the only one! Like most of its new features, it may take some time for each user to see the newest update. Your friends can pick you up before you do, and you'll have to be patient and wait. Of course though, there's always the possibility that you're just not seeing the feature or update, so here's what to do if you feel you don't have: 1. Look in the right placeThe first thing you'll want to do is make sure you're looking in the right place for the question sticker. It will be located in the sticker tray, right next to the gif or location stickers you are used to using. To get to the sticker tray, take a photo or video for your story and swipe up. You should see the little question sticker icon there. If you do that, great! You've got him! If not, you clearly don't have it yet. 2. Check out the App Store for updatesThis new feature is available as part of Instagram version 52 on iOS and Android. You'll need to update the app to see the feature. Go to your app store and check for available updates. If you don't see the update, it means it's not yet available to you. 3. Update your appIf you see the update, go ahead and update the app. Once updated, you should be able to open the app and find it in your story sticker tray. 4. Restart your phone if necessary If you have updated and still do not see it, try restarting your phone. To you just need a small reboot, although it's not always necessary to see new features. Check the app again when your phone is turned on again. 5. Wait! You still don't see the feature? It seems that that have to hope that it is available to you. That's a fairly common thing with new feature updates, so be patient and wait for it – it will come! In the meantime, ask your friends a few questions if they are wearing the sticker. It's such a fun way to meet them - and then they'll do the same for you once yours is available. Want to highlight your Instagram photos? So you might want some new tools —app type, at least | Bertrand Guay/AFP/Getty Images Everyone wants their Instagram feed to look great. It doesn't matter if you're an aspiring influencer who wouldn't mind having tens (or hundreds) of thousands of followers, or if you're the type of user who just posts photos to a small circle of friends and family to see. No matter how many people will see your photos, you probably want them to look as good as possible. Instagram has some filters and features that can help in that regard, but if you really want your Instagram photos to look professional, it's probably time to ask for help from another or two apps. Everyone knows that there are apps that can apply filters to a photo, just as there are apps that can crop a photo, or create a collage. But did you know that there are some apps that can help you level your Instagram game in other ways? In fact, you can download an app that specializes in creating great black and white photos. You can install several that help you subtly perfect a selfie. You can even find apps that make things that aren't strictly photos —like live photos, time lapses, and GIFs—also look better on Instagram.
