Chapter 1 – Some Great Tips

7 Key Differences Between Super Affiliates and Struggling Affiliates

I've been coaching hundreds of people around the world about making money with affiliate marketing. I can understand why many of them are still struggling. So here in this short article, I just want to point out the differences between the mindset of a super affiliate and a struggling affiliate.

First, we can identify a super affiliate as an experienced marketer who can make thousands of dollars with a simple promotion. In contrast, a struggling marketer makes less than $5,000 a month ... some of struggling marketers have been trying to make money online for a long time, but they are stuck at a certain level.

So if you are still struggling, let me point out some differences so that you can reflect on yourself:

1. Super affiliates take action towards their goals. Struggling affiliates often procrastinate. They spend too much time overeducating or surfing web to find the 'holy grail'. They don't spend enough time on implementing what they learnt and don't have enough patience. They quit just before they can see results.

Super affiliates are usually prepared to fail fast and often, learning from their mistakes, rather than not making any progress at all.

If you are still a struggling affiliate just because you procrastinate too much, you must train yourself to stop procrastinating. Last year Eben Pagan – the 29$ million dollar a year guy - released a very good course called as “Wake Up Productive” teaching people how to boost their productivity five times. I highly recommend this course. However it’s sold out and its price is 1997$ so most of you might not be able to afford it. But no worry, I’ll give you some free courses to help you boost your productivity very soon.

2. Super affiliates reinvest their money in their business. They spend their money on software, tools, marketing or outsourcing to grow their business. They also invest their time in networking with and learning from other successful people.

In contrast, struggling affiliates don’t reinvest their money in their business. They often try to work alone, or listen to people who have a negative influence on them.

3. Super affiliates enjoy the process of learning. They accept failures and learn from their failures. Struggling affiliates often don’t enjoy having to constantly learn new techniques and ideas, and don’t appreciate the experience of failing in order to learn and grow.

4. Super affiliates BELIEVE in what they do. They set their goals and they know they can eventually reach their goals. They understand the power of their mind and focus on developing strong self belief and an abundance mindset, whereas struggling affiliates can get derailed by negative self-talk, focusing on what is going wrong in their lives and in their affiliate marketing efforts.

5. Super affiliates understand the importance of building a strong mailing list.

Struggling affiliates often like to skip this process.

6. Super affiliate millionaires know where they should put their efforts on. They only focus on working with one or two profitable niches. Some have tried many niches before they narrowed down to one or two best niches where they can dominate and make tons of money.

Struggling affiliates are often scattered all over the place. They spend their efforts on too many niches and even when they find a niche that makes them money, they still want to try a new niche without fully maximizing their potential or getting to know a niche in extreme depth. In the end, they can only have moderate successes and achieve average results.

7. Super affiliate millionaires are not afraid of competition. They make most of their money in big and competitive niches, where billions of dollars are being spent, such as making money online, diet/fitness, software, stock/forex trading...

Struggling affiliates are afraid of competition and they try to work in small niches where they can make some small sales at first. But in the long run, they can't expand their business and get stuck.

Five Habits of Super Affiliates

- 1. Promote products that address specific needs: Find offers that match your list.
- 2. Promote widely: You can use a wide range of promotional methods-e-mail marketing, blogs, review sites etc...
- 3. Broaden your portfolio of products: In general, all products don't do well at the same time. When some products are doing well, other products are not. Promoting a variety of products will allow you to benefit by smoothing out the peaks and valleys in the life cycle of each product.
- 4. Don't give up: Many beginners tend to assume they cannot be successful if their initial attempts to promote products don't go well. Don't give up, don't let failures get you. Many of the most successful affiliates have attained success after disappointing early results.
- 5. Test relentlessly: Test your emails, test the conversion rate, test your sales funnel. Learn from each small thing!
