Each department of state government is assigned a title. Each agency or division in the department is assigned a division number. The agency then groups its rules into general subject matter areas called chapters and specific areas called rules. Within a rule, the first breakdown is called a section and is designated as (1). Subsection is (A) with further breakdown into paragraphs 1., subparagraphs A., parts (I), subparts (a), items I. and subitems a.

The rule is properly cited by using the full citation; for example, 3 CSR 10-4.115, NOT Rule 10-4.115.

therapy often involves exploring the many influences on a person's gender identity, including "peer and other social relationships," and ensuring that "gender dysphoria is not secondary to, or better accounted for, by other diagnoses." WPATH, which describes itself as an organization "committed to advocacy" for certain "changes in public policies," has been criticized as an organization far too quick to recommend chemical or surgical intervention. Even still, the organization has "highly recommended" psychotherapy because psychotherapy can "greatly facilitate the resolution of gender dysphoria" and because, through this therapy, many "individuals integrate their trans- or cross-gender feelings into the gender role they were assigned at birth and do not feel the need to feminize or masculinize their body."

But in recent years, the use of other forms of interventions, often without any talk therapy at all, has accelerated exponentially. These include life-altering pubertal suppression, cross-sex hormone therapy, and gender transition surgery—all of which pose very serious side effects.

Many medical organizations have determined that these interventions—as currently practiced—lack solid evidentiary support. For example, Sweden's National Board of Health and Welfare recently declared that there is a "lack of reliable scientific evidence concerning the efficacy and the safety of pubertal suppression and cross-sex hormone therapy and that "the risks" of these interventions "currently outweigh the possible benefits." Similarly, the U.S. Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality recently determined that "[t]here is a lack of current evidence-based guidance for the care of children and adolescents who identify as transgender, particularly regarding the benefits and harms of pubertal suppression, medical affirmation with hormone therapy, and surgical affirmation." And Finland has openly declared these interventions to be "an experimental practice." Because these gender transition interventions lack a solid evidentiary foundation and pose very serious side effects, they are unlawful under Missouri law absent sufficiently protective guardrails.

Part of the reason for the growing awareness of the lack of solid evidence is that many clinics have adopted practices that deviate substantially from the studies on which they say they rely. For example, although many clinics say that they rely on two Dutch studies to justify their practices, participants in those studies all received psychotherapy, and the studies excluded individuals with mental health comorbidities. Despite these and other limitations of the Dutch studies, some clinics have begun offering interventions to persons who would have been excluded from the Dutch protocol—such as persons experiencing significant mental health comorbidities—all without a comprehensive individualized assessment and often without any therapy at all directed at the patient's comorbidities. Even WPATH acknowledges the problem. Although WPATH is "committed to advocacy" of the "least restrictive" policies and "hope[s] that future research will explore the effectiveness of this model," it admits that "[t]here are no studies of the long-term outcomes of gender-related medical treatments for youth who have not undergone a comprehensive assessment." This emergency rule is necessary to protect the public health, safety, and welfare, and also to protect a compelling governmental interest as the attorney general is charged with protecting consumers, including minors, from harm and investigating fraud and abuse in the state's health care payment system. Among other reasons, the recent immense increase in the use of these life-altering interventions, which have serious side effects, as well as the recent acknowledgment that these interventions are used in circumstances not supported by solid evidence, makes this issue time sensitive. Further, and independently, a whistleblower has issued a sworn affidavit, alleging that a prominent provider of these interventions in Missouri is systemically failing to comply with the medical standard of care, and an investigation... has revealed that some providers in Missouri prescribe gender transition interventions without any individualized assessment, contrary to safeguards established in scientific literature and by medical organizations.

As a result, the attorney general finds that this emergency action is needed because of a compelling governmental interest and a need to protect the public health, safety, and welfare. The scope of this emergency rule is limited to the circumstances creating the emergency and complies with the protections extended in the Missouri and United States Constitutions. The Attorney General believes this emergency rule is fair to all interested persons and parties under the circumstances. This emergency rule was filed April 13, 2023, becomes effective April 27, 2023, and expires February 6, 2024.

(I) “Covered Gender Transition Intervention” or “Intervention” means the provision or prescription of any puberty-blocking drugs, cross-sex hormones, or surgery, for the purpose of transitioning gender, decreasing gender incongruence, or treating gender dysphoria, and does not include:

(A) Treatment for a genetically or biochemically verifiable disorder of sex development such as 46, XX DSD; 46, XY DSD; sex chromosome DSDs; XX or XY sex reversal; or Ovotesticular disorder;

(B) Treatment for precocious puberty;

(C) For subparagraphs (2)(C)–(K), continuing prescription or provision of a specific intervention that has already begun, so long as the person or health organization promptly seeks to initiate the treatments and assessments called for by these subparagraphs.

(2) It is an unfair, deceptive, fraudulent, or otherwise unlawful practice for any person or health organization to provide a covered gender transition intervention to a patient (or refer a patient for such an intervention) if the person or health organization:

(A) Fails to assess (at least annually) whether the patient continues to have gender dysphoria;

(B) Fails to obtain informed consent by disclosing conspicuously—on its website, physically in writing, and orally in person by the prescribing provider—to the patient and (if the patient is a minor) to the patient’s parents or legal guardians, by means of information that includes language materially identical to each point below, that:

1. The use of puberty blocker drugs or cross-sex hormones to treat gender dysphoria has been described as experimental by researchers and is not approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA);

2. The use of puberty blocker drugs or cross-sex hormones to treat gender dysphoria has been recognized by medical authorities in Europe, after independent reviews, to be experimental or lacking sufficient evidence and has been substantially restricted in countries such as Sweden, Finland, Norway, and the United Kingdom;

3. The U.S. Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality has determined, “There is a lack of current evidence-based guidance for the care of children and adolescents who identify as transgender, particularly regarding the benefits and harms of pubertal suppression, medical affirmation with hormone therapy, and surgical affirmation”;

4. A study spanning five (5) decades of almost five thousand (5,000) transgender people who had received cross-sex hormones, regardless of treatment type, nevertheless showed a “two-fold increased mortality risk,” which “did not decrease over time”;

5. An article in the International Review of Psychiatry found that, according to ten different studies, the vast majority of children, 85.2%, experiencing gender dysphoria grew to become comfortable with their natal sex, and the Endocrine Society found that “the large majority (about 85%) of prepubertal children with a childhood diagnosis did not remain GD/gender incongruent in adolescence”;

6. A scientific article in the Journal of Infant, Child, and Adolescent Psychotherapy concluded that “encouraging mastectomy, ovariectomy, uterine extirpation, penile disablament, tracheal shave, the prescription of hormones which are out of line with the genetic make-up of the child, or puberty blockers, are all clinical practices which run an unacceptably high risk of doing harm”;

7. Sweden’s National Board of Health and Welfare (“NBHW”) recently declared that, at least for minors, “the risks of puberty suppressing treatment with GnRH-analogues and gender-affirming hormonal treatment currently outweigh the possible benefits”;

8. A systematic review of the evidence by researchers in Europe regarding natal boys concluded that there is “insufficient evidence to determine the efficacy or safety of hormonal treatment” and that certain hormonal interventions can potentially cause or worsen depression;

9. One scientific study noted that an individual whose friend identifies as transgender is “more than 70 times” as likely to similarly identify as transgender, suggesting that many individuals may “incorrectly believe themselves to be transgender and in need of transition” because of social factors;

10. A follow-up study recently determined, “Youths with a history of mental health issues were especially likely to have taken steps to socially and medically transition”;

11. A study of one thousand six hundred fifty-five (1,655) parental reports found that “parents tended to rate their children as worse off after transition” and “that parents believed gender clinicians and clinics pressured the families toward transition”;

12. The FDA has issued a warning that puberty blockers can lead to brain swelling and blindness;

13. Puberty is associated with profound developmental maturation of the brain, and researchers have expressed concern that interruption of normally timed puberty may therefore be harmful to the brain;

14. Multiple observational studies conclude that nearly all children prescribed puberty blockers for gender dysphoria have later been prescribed cross-sex hormones. For example, an independent review of gender transition interventions based on data from multiple countries determined that “almost all children and young people who are put on puberty blockers go on to sex hormone treatment”;

15. After performing a systematic review, the Endocrine Society was unable to draw any conclusions on whether hormone therapy reduces death by suicide among individuals identifying as transgender;

16. A summary of available evidence written by medical societies “from around the globe” found that “there are no proven methods to preserve fertility in early pubertal transgender adolescents”;

17. Researchers have suggested that allowing a child to go through puberty without medical intervention may resolve gender dysphoria, whereas puberty suppression may improperly influence and worsen gender dysphoria;

18. Puberty suppression presents a risk of stunted growth and failure to attain normal peak bone density;

19. There is a lack of understanding in the medical community of the causes of gender dysphoria, as well as an admission that more research is needed to fully understand the effects, especially long-term effects, of puberty suppression and cross-sex hormone treatment;

20. A significant number of children and adolescents who begin gender transition interventions desist in their desire to transition, although the actual number is unknown because of low rates of follow up;

21. The Endocrine Society has acknowledged that children experiencing gender dysphoria are more likely to identify with their natal sex if they do not socially transition;

22. The World Professional Association for Transgender Health (“WPATH”) has acknowledged, “In most children, gender dysphoria will disappear before, or early in, puberty”; and

23. Many medical, hormonal, or surgical transition interventions are irreversible.

(C) Fails to ensure that, for at least the 3 most recent consecutive years, the patient has exhibited a medically documented, long-lasting, persistent and intense pattern of gender dysphoria;

(D) Fails to ensure that the patient has received a full psychological or psychiatric assessment, consisting of not fewer than 15 separate, hourly sessions (at least ten (10) of which must be with the same therapist) over the course of not fewer than 18 months to explore the developmental influences on the patient’s current gender identity and to determine, among other things, whether the person has any mental health comorbidities;

(E) Fails to ensure that any psychiatric symptoms from existing mental health comorbidities of the patient have been treated and resolved;

(F) Fails to ensure that the patient has received a comprehensive screening to determine whether the patient has autism;

(G) Fails, with respect to a patient who is a minor, to ensure that the patient has received a comprehensive screening (at least annually) for social media addiction or compulsion and has not, for at least the six months prior to beginning any intervention, suffered from social media addiction or compulsion;

(H) Fails to ensure (at least annually) that the patient is not experiencing social contagion with respect to the patient’s gender identity;

(I) Fails to adopt and follow a procedure to track all adverse effects (both expected and unexpected) that arise from any course of covered gender transition intervention for all patients beginning the first day of intervention and continuing for a period of not fewer than fifteen (15) years;

(J) Fails to maintain data about adverse effects in a form that can be accessed readily for systematic study; or

(K) Fails to obtain and keep on file informed written consent from the patient and (if the patient is a minor) from all parents or guardians who have authority to consent to medical intervention, as to each requirement of this section. Such written consent shall be obtained for each intervention after the disclosures required by subsection (2)(B) and renewed not less than quarterly for the first three (3) years of such intervention (or until the age of majority for a patient less than fifteen (15) years old when such intervention begins), and not less than twice a year thereafter.

(3) Any person or health organization providing a covered gender transition intervention to a patient (or referring a patient for such an intervention) shall document and retain in such patient’s records a detailed description of compliance with the provisions of section (2).

(4) If any application of any provision, word, or clause to any person or circumstances is found by a court to be invalid, that application alone shall be severed and the remaining possible applications of every provision, word, and clause to all other persons and circumstances shall remain in force.

III. WORKSHEET

Number of Patients

The number of individuals in Missouri 13 or older who identify as transgender has been estimated by the Williams Institute at UCLA to be 12,400. Not all of these individuals desire or seek gender transition interventions. Some who do seek these interventions may seek only some of the possible interventions. Further, the regulation does not prohibit individuals who have already started an intervention from continuing the intervention.

Based on information obtained by the Attorney General’s Office, the Pediatric Transgender Center at Washington University—which appears to have the highest patient total in the state—starts new interventions on about 300 different individuals per year. New interventions are much more likely among younger age cohorts than individuals who have lived decades of their lives without any interventions. Based on current figures, Missouri estimates that about 600-700 individuals in the state would begin a new intervention within the next 12 months. This emergency regulation lasts about 9 months, so an estimated 450-525 individuals would begin a new intervention during this time period.
Although some providers already comply with this regulation, this number (450-525) assumes for the sake of this fiscal note that no clinic is already complying with the regulation with respect to any individual. That assumption ensures maximum notice and eliminates any unfair surprise about fiscal cost.

Cost of Gender Transition Interventions

The cost of hormonal intervention can vary greatly in individual cases, but studies have assessed average costs across the population. A recent study in The Journal of Law, Medicine & Ethics determined that average total expense (out-of-pocket costs plus costs paid by a health plan) for hormonal intervention was $755. Baker, et al., Utilization and Costs of Gender-Affirming Care in a Commercially Insured Transgender Population (2022).

Surgical intervention can be much more expensive but, unlike hormonal intervention, is not repeated year after year. The Baker study determined that the average total expense (out-of-pocket costs plus costs paid by a health plan) per person for surgical interventions was $41,236.

Weighting these figures according to the relative frequency (e.g., hormones much more frequent than surgeries), the Baker study concluded that the average annual cost for hormonal interventions plus surgical interventions “combined” was $1,776 per person per year. Under the 9-month time frame of the emergency regulation, the average cost per person would be $1,332.

Total Cost = $599,400 – $699,300

IV. ASSUMPTIONS

Due to the emergency nature of the regulation and the relatively sparse studies in this area, many of the variables needed to precisely assess the cost are unknown or difficult to quantify.

Any possible decrease in revenue experienced by any of the clinical classes due to the emergency rule may be offset in part or in full by providing other services required by the regulation. The regulation requires adequate provision of mental health treatment, and many entities already represent themselves as providing a multidisciplinary approach to gender dysphoria, including by providing mental health services.

Similarly, any decrease in revenue experienced by pharmacies may be offset in part or in full by separate prescriptions aimed at treating mental health comorbidities that are not presently treated.

Additionally, due to the lack of available data in this field, it is unknown which class types will bear which portions of the cost. It is likely that each class type will bear varying percentages of the total costs.

The Pediatric Transgender Center in St. Louis provides the most new interventions in the state—up to half of the total new interventions.
The number of Primary Care Providers or Standalone Clinics is based on surveys that assessed the percentage of entities that would be willing to prescribe hormonal gender transition interventions. It represents the upper limit of how many of these entities might be affected, although the actual number affected is likely far less.

The effect on these entities is estimated to be comparatively lower because these entities provide gender transition interventions to a smaller percentage of the population and often continue interventions that other entities have already started. The regulation does not prohibit individuals who have already started an intervention from continuing the intervention.
The Secretary of State shall publish all executive orders beginning January 1, 2003, pursuant to section 536.035.2, RSMo.

ATTEST:

JOHN R. ASHCROFT
SECRETARY OF STATE
The text of proposed rules and changes will appear under this heading. A notice of proposed rulemaking is required to contain an explanation of any new rule or any change in an existing rule and the reasons therefor. This explanation is set out in the purpose section of each rule. A citation of the legal authority to make rules is also required, and appears following the text of the rule, after the word “Authority.”

Entirely new rules are printed without any special symbology under the heading of proposed rule. If an existing rule is to be amended or rescinded, it will have a heading of proposed amendment or proposed rescission. Rules that are proposed to be amended will have new matter printed in boldface type and matter to be deleted placed in brackets.

An important function of the Missouri Register is to solicit and encourage public participation in the rulemaking process. The law provides that for every proposed rule, amendment, or rescission there must be a notice that anyone may comment on the proposed action. This comment may take different forms.

If an agency is required by statute to hold a public hearing before making any new rules, then a Notice of Public Hearing will appear following the text of the rule. Hearing dates must be at least thirty (30) days after publication of the notice in the Missouri Register. If no hearing is planned or required, the agency must give a Notice to Submit Comments. This allows anyone to file statements in support of or in opposition to the proposed action with the agency within a specified time, no less than thirty (30) days after publication of the notice in the Missouri Register.

An agency may hold a public hearing on a rule, even though not required by law to hold one. If an agency allows comments to be received following the hearing date, the close-of-comments date will be used as the beginning day in the ninety- (90-) day count necessary for the filing of the order of rulemaking.

If an agency decides to hold a public hearing after planning not to, it must withdraw the earlier notice, file a new notice of proposed rulemaking, and schedule a hearing for a date not less than thirty (30) days from the date of publication of the new notice.

Proposed Amendment Text Reminder:
Boldface text indicates new matter.
[Bracketed text indicates matter being deleted.]

(D) Participants, their attorney(s), agents, and other representatives may demonstrate an individualized allocation of recovery for [past] medical treatment where the division has objected to a proposed allocation or a settlement or judgment is unallocated by presenting documentation on behalf of the participant to support an individualized allocation. The division may consider documentation of any combination of the following factors as they relate to the incident when determining an individualized allocation:

2. The amount of future medical treatment expected to be accrued by the participant;

SUMMARY OF COMMENTS: No comments were received.

SUMMARY OF COMMENTS: The department received eleven (11) comments on the proposed rule.

COMMENT #1: John Archer, MBA, RN, BSN, Administrative Director of Emergency Services, Emergent Care Administration, CoxHealth, Springfield, MO, commented that the rule should mandate a clinical psychologist/nurse practitioner (NP) be on duty during crisis center open hours. Frequently, it is someone with less/no licensure, therefore, making a future appointment for a current issue, leading to the individual merely going to the emergency room (ER).

RESPONSE: The proposed Behavioral Health Crisis Center (BHCC) regulation follows the staffing recommendations outlined in the 2020 edition of the National Guidelines for Behavioral Health Crisis Care, Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, (877) 726-4727. Section (8) Staff Qualifications requires the BHCC to have access to the following staff during hours of operation: a licensed physician (includes psychiatrist) or licensed psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner (PMHNP), advanced practice registered nurse (APRN), physician assistant, and/or assistant physician who is in a written collaborative practice arrangement with a physician and with experience treating the target population. The department believes this provides for adequate coverage of the BHCC. No changes will be made.

COMMENT #2: John Archer, MBA, RN, BSN, Administrative Director of Emergency Services, Emergent Care Administration, CoxHealth, Springfield, MO, commented that the rule should mandate minimum primary care/urgent care capabilities in the crises center during open hours. If an individual has hypertension (HTN), is in withdrawal, or has other common issues associated with a behavioral health crises, they have no ability to deal with such issues and, therefore, the patient is sent to the emergency room (ER).

RESPONSE: The proposed BHCC regulations follow the medical stability/support recommendations outlined in the 2020 edition of the National Guidelines for Behavioral Health Crisis Care as referenced in Comment #1. Subsection (7)(D) of the rule requires that each individual served must be assessed for medical stability and receive necessary medical support while in the program. Paragraph (7)(D)1. requires physical health issues that can be appropriately managed by crisis center staff to be addressed by qualified staff in accordance with policies and procedures. Paragraph (7)(D)2. stipulates that if a physical health issue occurs requiring medical care that cannot be addressed while an individual is receiving services in the BHCC/U-BHCC, the treating center shall arrange for the individual to be appropriately transported to a medical facility to address the physical health issue. The department believes the rule adequately addresses medical stability. No changes will be made.

COMMENT #3: John Archer, MBA, RN, BSN, Administrative Director of Emergency Services, Emergent Care Administration, CoxHealth, Springfield, MO, suggested that wording be added to Missouri revised statutes allowing this to meet the Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act (EMTALA), if so deemed by law enforcement/emsual services (EMS), so they can bypass the emergency departments (EDs) for clearly behavioral issues.

RESPONSE: Staff of the Department of Health and Senior Services have indicated they plan to draft a proposed rule to allow EMS to transport directly to a BHCC, if appropriate. No changes will be made to the regulation.

COMMENT #4: John Archer, MBA, RN, BSN, Administrative Director of Emergency Services, Emergent Care Administration, CoxHealth, Springfield, MO, commented that funding for common prescriptions individuals will need (mental health drugs, HTN, withdrawal) should be available, otherwise again, they will be sent to the ER.
RESPONSE: BHCCs have access to funding for medications. No changes will be made.

COMMENT #5: Margie Balfour, M.D., Ph.D., Chief of Quality and Clinical Innovation, and Chris Santarsiero, Vice President, Government Relations, Connections Health Solutions, LLC, Phoenix, AZ, commented that licensed behavioral health crisis centers should be allowed to be a separate entity other than a Certified Community Behavioral Health Organization (CCBHO). They recommended that section (3) be revised by changing "and" to "or" as follows: At a minimum, organizations shall comply with 9 CSR 10-7.130 Procedures to Obtain Certification, to apply for certification/deemed status as a BHCC or U-BHCC and—

(A) Be certified by the department as a Certified Community Behavioral Health Organization (CCBHO); or

(B) Obtain appropriate accreditation for crisis services within three (3) years of obtaining certification/deemed status (if not accredited for such at the time of initial application to the department) from the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF) International.
RESPONSE: The department appreciates the input from Connections Health Solutions. Various options were considered during the development stages of this project and department staff believe the program structure identified in this regulation is best suited to meet the needs of Missouri's behavioral health crisis system. No changes will be made.

COMMENT #6: Margie Balfour, M.D., Ph.D., Chief of Quality and Clinical Innovation, and Chris Santarsiero, Vice President, Government Relations, Connections Health Solutions, LLC, Phoenix, AZ, commented that the most recent Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) update allows CCBHCs to contract with a Designated Collaborating Organization (DCO) for all required services, including crisis services. To align with this significant change, Missouri's final rule 9 CSR 30-7.010 Behavioral Health Crisis Centers should mirror this advancement. Permitting CCBHOs to contract with experienced specialty crisis providers will allow CCBHOs to fully realize the benefits of recent and ongoing advances in the field of specialty crisis care. Since CCBHCs were first created nearly a decade ago, behavioral health crisis care has rapidly evolved into its own specialty field. Crisis stabilization facilities can serve as a safe and therapeutic alternative to hospital emergency departments, inpatient psychiatric units, and jails. However, these programs vary widely in scope, capability, and populations served. Some are designed for low acuity individuals who primarily need peer support and a safe place to spend the night, while other medical models treat the highest acuity individuals presenting with suicidal behaviors, acute agitation, and substance intoxication. Without a viable option for these high acuity individuals, the crisis continuum is incomplete and individuals with the most need for specialty crisis care will still end up routed to emergency rooms and jails. Accurate assessment and clear clinical protocols are needed to ensure individuals are matched to the services and care setting that can safely and effectively meet their needs. We have seen firsthand how the failure to do so can result in unsafe conditions, delays in care, poor outcomes, and loss of community trust. We know of CCBHCs in other states that have found it difficult to perform the full-continuum of crisis services without partnering with an experienced specialty crisis provider organization to safely operate it.
RESPONSE AND EXPLANATION OF CHANGE: The department allows CCBHOs to subcontract with a DCO for specific services. Language has been added to section (3) of the regulation indicating that CCBHOs may contract with a DCO to provide behavioral health crisis center services.

COMMENT #7: Margie Balfour, M.D., Ph.D., Chief of Quality and Clinical Innovation, and Chris Santarsiero, Vice President, Government Relations, Connections Health Solutions, LLC, Phoenix, AZ, commented that licensed behavioral health crisis centers should be allowed to attain additional national accreditation from other nationally recognized organizations and recommend subsection (3)(B) be revised to add the following statement: "Obtain appropriate accreditation for crisis services within three (3) years of obtaining certification/deemed status (if not accredited for such at the time of initial application to the department) from the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF) International or other recognized national accreditation organizations." This would allow specialty crisis centers to attain certification from other accreditation organizations such as the Joint Commission, a hospital-level safety standard that is appropriate for facilities serving highly acute crisis patients.
RESPONSE AND EXPLANATION OF CHANGE: The department has modified the proposed regulation by revising subsection (3)(B) to include "The Joint Commission (TJC) or Council on Accreditation (COA)."

COMMENT #8: Margie Balfour, M.D., Ph.D., Chief of Quality and Clinical Innovation, and Chris Santarsiero, Vice President, Government Relations, Connections Health Solutions, LLC, Phoenix, AZ, commented that BHCCs should be allowed to treat voluntary and involuntary status patients. While the proposed rule does not appear to have language preventing BHCCs from accepting involuntary individuals, we want to be certain this is not overlooked. This population is most in need of specialized services, and with appropriate crisis care many can be successfully stabilized and engaged into voluntary treatment. Excluding the involuntary population from these new crisis services may inadvertently create a two- (2) tiered system in which the highest need individuals end up boarding in emergency rooms without access to the full continuum of crisis care benefits.
RESPONSE: Missouri’s service delivery system has designated facilities throughout the state that are staffed and environmentally safe/secure to serve individuals who are involuntarily committed. The behavioral health crisis centers, as currently designed, are not adequately staffed or environmentally equipped to serve this population. No changes will be made to the regulation.

COMMENT #9: A department staff member requested that the chapter title be changed to “crisis services” rather than “behavioral health crisis centers” because other crisis-related regulations will be added to this chapter in the future.
RESPONSE AND EXPLANATION OF CHANGE: The chapter title has been changed as requested.

COMMENT #10: A department staff member requested that “resident physician” be added to subparagraph (8)(B)1.A. and paragraph (9)(A)4.
RESPONSE AND EXPLANATION OF CHANGE: The rule has been changed as requested.
COMMENT #11: A department staff member requested the language in subparagraph (8)(B)1.B., “practitioners with a waiver to prescribe medications approved by the Food and Drug Administration to treat opioid use disorders, including but not limited to methadone,” be removed because the waiver specified in the Drug Addiction Treatment Act of 2000 (DATA 2000) has been removed in accordance with Section 1262 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act 2023 (also known as Omnibus bill), https://www.deadiversion.usdoj.gov/pubs/docs/dear_registrant_AM_01122023.html. Staff also requested language be added to this subparagraph to clarify that methadone must be provided by a certified opioid treatment program.

RESPONSE AND EXPLANATION OF CHANGE: The language has been revised as requested.

9 CSR 30-7.010 Behavioral Health Crisis Centers

(8) Staff Qualifications. In accordance with minimum expectations of the National Guidelines for Behavioral Health Crisis Care, as referenced in section 2 of this rule, the BHCC/U-BHCC shall be adequately staffed to meet the treatment needs of individuals served and to ensure their safety and the safety of staff.

(B) The center shall be staffed by a multidisciplinary team who is able to respond to the needs of individuals experiencing all levels of crisis. Staff shall include but is not limited to—
