

Praise the Lord! Give Thanks Forever

PSALM 106

1. Praise the Lord! Give thanks for-ev - er for His nev - er - fail - ing care!
2. We have sinned as did our fa - thers: they for - got what God had done,
3. In the de - sert they for-got Him, yield - ing to their own un - rest;
4. Then they made them-selves an i - dol, wor-shiped there a calf of gold;

Who can tell His might - y won - ders, all the depth of praise de - clare?
yet for His name's sake He saved them, His al - might - y pow'r made known.
nev - er wait - ing for His coun - sel, there they put Him to the test.
they for-got the God who saved them, and His mir - a - cles of old.

Lord, how blest are those who serve You! May I al - so know Your grace;
Thru the sea He safe - ly led them, doomed and drowned their en - e - mies;
So He gave the food they want-ed, but with dread dis - ease it came;
So He said He would de-destroy them—had not Mo - ses stood and prayed, let me share Your peo - ple's glad-ness, join with them in giv-ing praise.

there a na - tion sang His prais - es and be-lieved His prom-is - es.
re - bels moved a-gainst their lead - ers, till they per - ished in the flame.
that in mer - cy He would spare them—and at last His hand He stayed.

TESTIMONY

5. Soon they scorned the pleasant country and did not obey the Lord—
till He said He would destroy them,
He would scatter them abroad.
Then they yoked themselves to idols,
serving gods whose strength is vain,
till the Lord, provoked to anger, punished them by plague and pain.
6. Then, when Phinehas stood and pleaded,
their distress was set aside:
that disaster was averted,
God's true servant justified.
But beside the springs of conflict once again God's heart they grieved, moving Moses to speak rashly
so that trouble he received.
7. They forsook the Lord's commandments, served the gods of other lands,
sacrificed their sons and daughters,
stained themselves with their own hands.
So the Lord their God abhorred them, gave His people up to shame,
let their enemies oppress them,
for they scorned His holy name.
8. Yet the Lord His word remembered, when in grief they turned to Him:
in His pity He relented,
and in love delivered them.
Save us, Lord, that we may thank You;
gather us to You again!
Glory to our God for ever;
all sing praise, all say "Amen!"
