Computational thinking.

Thinking about problems in a way that allows computers to solve them. Computational thinking is something people do, not computers.

Label the computational thinking perspectives. What might they symbolise?