Patio Door Security Bars

Add safety, security, and a visual deterrent to sliding patio doors with Ideal Security's sliding patio door security bar. This adjustable security bar is designed to be mounted in the middle of the patio door. Simply fasten the bracket at the end of the bar to the door frame, and the bar will pivot up or down to easily block and unblock the door. Most importantly, when the bar is mounted in the middle of the door, it acts as a visual deterrent, making the bar clearly visible to potential intruders who won't even bother trying. The inside bar slides into the outside bar when adjusting, and easy adjustability means the sliding patio door can be partially opened for ventilation and still be secured. The 110 Security Bar comes with an optional anti-lift lock, an attached rotating bracket, a saddle mount, optional double-sided tape to avoid drilling, and screws. The bar extends from 25.75" to 47.5".

Medium Window Security Bars

Having a security bar on windows can enhance home security by helping prevent windows from being forced opened; they also act as visual deterrents for intruders, and the anti-lift lock prevents the bar from being lifted by children. The 111 Window Security Bar fits most medium windows and narrow doors, and slides from 15.7" to 26.75" wide. The installation process is straightforward and requires fastening the two saddles with screws or double-sided tape provided on the window or door frame, vertically or horizontally, and fit the security bar. The window can be slightly propped open for ventilation or to install an in-window air conditioner, all while ensuring the window remains locked in position. This functionality is especially vital in the warmer seasons, when one might need to secure windows with AC units without compromising safety. The bars are child-proof with an anti-lift lock so that the bars can't be lifted by children without supervision. Installation is quick, and the bar works great for everyday use. The 111 Security Bar comes with an optional anti-lift lock, two saddle mounts, optional double-sided tape to avoid drilling, and screws.

Small Window Security Bars

Having a security bar on windows can enhance home security by helping prevent windows from being forced opened; they also act as visual deterrents for intruders, and the anti-lift lock prevents the bar from being lifted by children. The 112 Window Security Bar fits small windows, and slides from 10.6" to 16.625" wide. The installation process is straightforward and requires fastening the two saddles with screws or double-sided tape provided on the window or door frame, vertically or horizontally, and fit the security bar. The window can be slightly propped open for ventilation, all while ensuring the window remains locked in position. The bars are child-proof with an anti-lift lock so that the bars can't be lifted by children without supervision. Installation is quick, and the bar works great for everyday use. Patio Door Security Bar & Window Security Bar Bundle

The 1101 bundle includes the 110 Patio Door Security Bar and the 111 Window Security Bar with Anti-Lift Lock. Having a security bar on patio doors and windows can enhance home security to help prevent patio doors or windows from being forced opened; they also act as visual deterrents for intruders, and the anti-lift lock prevents the bar from being lifted by children. The 110 fits most standard sliding patio doors and slides from 25.75" to 47.5" wide, and the 111 fits most medium windows to narrow doors and slides from 15.7" and 26.75" wide. The 110 Patio Door Security Bar and the 111 Window Security Bar are stable and reliable since they are not pressure mounted, instead they are screwed into the door or window frame/profile. Windows and patio doors can be slightly propped open for ventilation or to install an in-window air conditioner, all while ensuring the window or door remains locked in position. The bars are child-proof with an anti-lift lock so that the bars can't be lifted by children without supervision. Installation is quick, and the bar works great for everyday use. The bundle includes the 110 Security Bar, the 111 Security Bar, 3 saddle brackets, 2 optional anti-lift locks, double-sided tape, and all necessary screws needed for installation.
