September 20, 2013 (Kentucky Speedway)—Garrett Smithley will take the track again this weekend at the Kentucky Speedway. When he starts his engine tonight for his 3rd ARCA race, it will be in honor of his heroes. Garrett Smith Racing and CCR Racing have once again donated space on their car to support the Herobox mission. Garrett is coming off a 14th place standing for his second ARCA race at Pocono International Raceway. Kentucky is an important race for the 21-year old, as he strives to continue proving himself as a competitive driver. This weekend's ARCA race, presented by Menards Zloop 150, will be broadcast live on September 20 at 8 p.m. on Fox Sports 1 Network.

Herobox is a nonprofit organization with a mission to provide the physical and moral support our heroes need while they are away from home.
