ADOPTION OF AGENDA
JANUARY MEETING FOLLOW-UP

1:30 P.M. BEYOND 2025
The Steering Committee charged with charting a path forward for the Partnership beyond 2025 will release a draft product to the public at the end of this month. What are some of the overarching themes that this product will propose? What might be the stickiest recommendations for the Partnership to navigate? What policies might the Commission consider in response?

Anna Killius
Executive Director, Chesapeake Bay Commission

2:15 P.M. CHESAPEAKE BAY TMDL INDICATOR
In February, the Chesapeake Bay Program debuted a new indicator that demonstrates progress toward meeting the clean water goals of the Watershed Agreement. The Chesapeake Bay Watershed Total Maximum Daily Load indicator uses both monitored and modeled data to estimate nitrogen and phosphorus pollution reductions in response to implemented best management practices. What does this new indicator reveal about gaps in planning, implementation, and response?

Gary Shenk
Hydrologist, U.S. Geological Survey

3:00 P.M. BREAK & TRANSITION TO FIELD EXPERIENCE
30-minute drive to Rocky Gap State Park Campgrounds (17600 Campers Hill Road, Flintstone, MD 21530)

3:30 P.M. MARYLAND DNR STREAM EXPERIENCE AT ROCKY GAP STATE PARK
At Rocky Gap Run, Members will conduct stream health monitoring and electrofishing on a tributary of Lake Habeeb, known for the “bluest water in the state.” Members will also have the opportunity to visit the Rocky Gap Aviary to learn about the environmental education experiences offered in partnership with area schools.

Scott Stranko
Monitoring and Nontidal Assessment Division, MD DNR

Sarah Milbourne
Rocky Gap State Park Manager

Delegate Dana Stein, Maryland Delegation Chair
Senator Gene Yaw, Pennsylvania Delegation Chair

10:15 A.M. ADVANCING ENVIRONMENTAL LITERACY

The Watershed Agreement challenges the Chesapeake Bay Program partners to empower K-12 students in the region with the knowledge and skills needed to act responsibly to protect and restore their local watersheds. Are we rising to this challenge? How are we measuring our success? How can we advance our collective efforts?

Shannon Sprague
Acting Deputy Director, NOAA Chesapeake Bay Office

11:00 A.M. BREAK

11:15 A.M. OUTDOOR RECREATION

High-quality and accessible outdoor recreation opportunities support regional economies, a thriving tourism industry, local small businesses, and a passion for the long-term conservation of our natural resources for generations to come. How are states, localities, and local businesses partnering on these opportunities in rural watershed communities? What resources are needed to prime these efforts and what is the rate of return for our watershed and its people?

Sandi Olek
Director, Maryland Office of Outdoor Recreation

Mandela Echefu
Owner, Wheelzup Adventures

Ashli Workman
Director of Tourism, Allegany County, MD
