A Warning

The Bible says a lot about rich people, and most of it isn't pleasant. For some reason, I often find myself wanting to skip over those passages. Or, if I pay attention to them at all, I want to explain why they don't really mean what they say . . . or why they don't apply to me or the people I'm teaching.

Could it have something to do with the fact that—because I have access to clean drinking water and plenty of food—I'm in the top echelons of the world's population?

Is that why I'm tempted to skip passages like this?

That's probably the best explanation.

Come now, you rich, weep and howl for the miseries that are coming upon you. Your riches have rotted and your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and silver have corroded, and their corrosion will be evidence against you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have laid up treasure in the last days. Behold, the wages of the laborers who mowed your fields, which you kept back by fraud, are crying out against you, and the cries of the harvesters have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts. You have lived on the earth in luxury and in self-indulgence. You have fattened your hearts in a day of slaughter. You have condemned and murdered the righteous person. He does not resist you (James 5:1-6).

Here's the caveat most readers are expecting: James isn't teaching that rich Christians are inherently outside of God's will. He's addressing specific sins in a specific context. But with that caveat acknowledged, the larger principle remains, and it shows up everywhere Scripture warns about money. Having it brings very real spiritual dangers.

That's why Jesus told the rich ruler to sell what he had and give the money to the poor. That's why the villain in one of his most famous stories is a rich man who isn't guilty of anything overtly "bad," at least as far as the text is concerned. That's why Jesus condemned a man who made what looked like a wise business decision by replacing his storage buildings with bigger ones.

Money does things to us. It can quietly convince us we're above other people. It can take our eyes off Jesus. It can lead us to trust in what we own rather than in God. And it can make it easier to justify using others to our own advantage, which is exactly the temptation James confronted in his readers.

In short, wealth can become a god.

So we should read James carefully and resist the temptation to apply his warning to the guy at work who "really needs to hear this" or the ultra-successful entrepreneur we've never met. There's a very good chance the warning lands closer to home.

If we're honest, most of us have felt the pull to let our possessions distract us, protect us, or define us. And more often than we'd like to admit, our stuff has tried to take our eyes off the Savior.

Carelines

We extend our condolences to Betty Ramay and her family on the passing of her brother-in-law, John Cotham. Mr. Cotham passed Tuesday night after suffering with pneumonia and the flu. Betty appreciates the prayers from our congregation.

Prior to Merv Prince's surgery on Thursday, doctors identified a potential cardiac concern. He was evaluated by cardiology and will follow up this week with a stress test. Once he is cleared, he will reschedule his hip replacement surgery.

Brigitte Doutre was admitted to Grandview Medical Center last week due to seizures.

Scarlette Smith, JoAnn McDonald's daughter, starts chemotherapy tomorrow. Please pray for her healing and comfort as she goes through these treatments.

Joe Taylor, Allen Taylor's brother, continues his battle with cancer and has had to suspend chemotherapy treatments for the near term.

Sue Adams, Jim and Denia Petruzella's aunt, fell again at the rehab center. She is now at Grandview Medical Center with neck and back fractures and broken ribs.

Mike Hooper is recovering from two procedures for AFib.

Jeremy Schopper, Alyssa Long's cousin, has undergone several extensive surgeries since the car accident, and there is still more to come. The biggest focus is the neuro team running scans to assess brain activity. Lily, Jeremy's daughter, is home and recovering.

Judy Smith is recovering from knee replacement surgery and is undergoing physical therapy.

Zach Warbington, Sam and Melody Warbington's son, is facing serious medical issues. Please continue to pray for Zach's physical and spiritual well-being.

Remember our shut-ins: Nancy Griner, Joyce Baker, and Sylvia Huffman.

Remember our church family: Donna Tippins, Emily Bedgood, Gail Powell, Wanda Still, Anita Hochdorf, and Tyler Tippins.

Remember our family and friends: Keith Hills (Melinda Richardson's brother-in-law), Don Cicero (Matthew Cicero's father), Moranda Garrett (Jayne Ivy's friend), Rex and Jeanne Anderson (former members of Hoover), Kathy Culbertson (former member of Hoover), Doug & Cathy Abbott (Joel Abbott's parents), Richard Lawson (Alyssa Long's dad), and Charlie Pflueger (Tom Kidwell's dad).

Jesus, The Perfect Man

There is no other character in history like Jesus. As a preacher, as a doer of things, and as a philosopher, no man ever had the sweep and the vision of Jesus. The system of ethics Jesus taught two thousand years ago was true then, has been true in every century since, and will be true forever.

Not all the investigation of chemists, not all the discoveries of explorers, not all the experience of rule, not all the historical facts that go to make up the sum of human knowledge on this day are in contradiction to one word uttered or one principle laid by Jesus.

The human experience of two thousand years shows that Jesus never made a mistake. Jesus never uttered a doctrine that was true at that time and then became obsolete. Jesus spoke the truth; He lived the truth, and truth is eternal. No poet, no dreamer, no philosopher loved humanity with the love that Jesus bore toward all men.

Who, then, was Jesus? He could not have been merely a man. Jesus must have been what Christianity proclaims Him to be—a divine being—or He could not have been what he was. No mind but an infinite mind could have left behind those things which Jesus gave to the world as a heritage.

If you have friends who might benefit, please let them know about this class as well. We will meet on the following Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon: December 13, March 14, and June 13. So many people in the world have experienced significant losses in their lives, so we're thankful to be able to offer this GriefShare Ministry. It is organized around a thirteen-week small-group program where participants meet together for around two hours each week and watch professionally-designed videos featuring professional grief counselors and also people who are grieving. These presentations are coupled with discussions that are designed to internalize what participants learn in the videos. We have additional information for Griefshare Sessions offered on other days and times in the Birmingham area. Please see Harold or Donna Rhodes if you have any questions regarding GriefShare. You can also find additional information at https://www.griefshare.org/.
