Review

Emma's fierce intelligence and attention to detail allows her to delve into the intricacies of every case.

Emma brings great enthusiasm to Keller Rohrback's nationally recognized Complex Litigation Group—a practice for which she is well suited, as each case is unique and intellectually demanding.

Emma was initially drawn to litigation after taking civil procedure in law school and learning just how complex and rule-intensive litigation is. She sees complex litigation as an avenue with which to hold large corporations accountable, which connects to her personal dedication to equity.

In 2020, Emma graduated magna cum laude with her J.D. from Seattle University School of Law, where she served as Editor-in-Chief of the Seattle University Law Review, on the Moot Court Board, and as a research assistant to her civil procedure professor.

Drawn to the firm's culture of collaboration and commitment to social justice, Emma first worked at Keller Rohrback as a summer associate in 2018 and 2019, eventually returning to the firm full-time as an associate attorney in 2020. After three years with Keller Rohrback, Emma left in 2023 to clerk for the Honorable Tana Lin at the United States District Court for the Western District of Washington. She is excited to rejoin her colleagues at KR and return to complex litigation. In her spare time, Emma enjoys skiing, hiking, and cooking.
