

Formula Fridays

January 17, 2014 (Due on January 23, 2014)

In class, we are learning about perimeter and area by completing various real world activities that show the value in knowing and understanding these math concepts.

Talk to your parents about when you might use perimeter or area in your own lives. Generate a list of possible times. You may want to include specific examples with even some possible measurements.

Bring all of your ideas into class on Thursday, January 23rd. We're going to have a radio show on 105 the Hive, where we discuss real world math, and these ideas will help with our discussion. Be ready to share!
