

Writing Wednesdays
February 5-26 (Each week is due by the following Wednesday.)

Based on feedback provided through my DailyShoot Survey, I've started adding questions to each of my daily blog posts. These questions will hopefully help facilitate your discussions at home with your child.

For the next month, please have a look at the DailyShoot blog posts throughout the week.

1) Pick one of the questions or pick a couple of the questions: it's up to you.

2) Talk about the answers to these questions together. These are all open-ended questions, so none of them have just one right answer.

3) Figure out a way to share your new learning. You could write a paragraph, create a comic strip, write a poem, write a story, write a blog post, or even write a bunch of tweets. Feel free to be as creative as you want!

4) Bring your completed work back to school by the following Wednesday. I'd like to tweet the completed work so that we can all learn from each other. (Please only include initials or your first name on your work.) Feel free to email me (aviva.dunsiger@hwdsb.on.ca) if you or your parents have any questions about this. Thanks!