

Marvellous Media Mondays
Due On Tuesday, January 21, 2014

Strong Images

As part of your public service announcement (on the health topic of your choice), you're going to need to include some strong images. These images (pictures) need to make your audience aware of the problem and what they can do to prevent it.

At home, talk to your parents about the health topic that you chose. Together, make a list (using pictures, words, or a combination of both) of possible types of images that you may want to include. Think about the specific details you want to include in these images. What colours do you want them to be?

Bring your ideas into school on January 21st, so that you can start working in your group on your public service announcement.