

Amy Worth was as a textile artist for over twenty five years. Her designs, in fabric and wallpaper, are part of the product lines of Ralph Lauren, Paloma Picasso, Calvin Klein and many others.

Worth taught Fashion Design & Illustration, a program she created, at Huntington High School for twelve years. She owns and operates The South Street Gallery in Greenport with her husband Tom Payne.

She works currently in oils, collage and fiber.

Long Island Biennial August 4-September 11 2018 Heckscher Museum of Art Huntington NY
Roots Art Show, Fundraiser for OLA of Eastern Long Island, April 2019 Southampton Cultural Center curator

Juror Westmoreland Arts & Heritage Festival 2018 and 2020

Face to Face, Long Island Museum June - September 2019