Charley Friedman, a 2006 Pollock-Krasner Foundation grant recipient, produces sculpture, photographs, installations, videos and performance where humor acts as the common thread. Some of his most recognized works include Carpet World, (featured in the New York Times last year), and Felix, Flowers, Flags and Poems, a Valentine's Day performance where he sold candy actually used by Felix Gonzalez-Torres, who employed sweets in many of his conceptual works.

A' Cappella will take over Diet's 2,300-square-foot space, and feature a broad variety of media: a four-channel video in which he sings Sgt Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, clocks made from lobster shells and the infamous Carpet World
