Matzoh Baking for Men and Teenage Boys

Rav Motel Twerski, the Hornesteipol Rebbe of Brooklyn, has a matzoh baking operation which he runs yearly. The shul is scheduling a trip to Flatbush, Sunday, March 25, for men and boys over bar mitzvah, to bake matzohs.

We will have a 7:30 Shacharis minyan that morning, and we need to leave by 8:45 am. It costs $18 per person, and you will get six matzos per person (three for each Seder). We can travel in carpools caravan style, or if we get 40 people we could rent a bus for $30 per person; we'll decide that closer to the date.

To sign up, contact either Rabbi Yehuda Leib Goldberger at 410-585-1318 or by email to Reb Shlomo Goldberger at shlomhuva@aol.com.

Camp Shabbos

Camp Shabbos offers parents of young children up to age 7, the opportunity to take part in shul while their children enjoy supervised play.

To help keep it going, we need volunteers to rotate the responsibility of being the point person for each session.

The job includes:

- coordinating the snacks beforehand, either by purchasing them yourself or getting someone else to purchase and bring them in;
- arriving by 10 am (or a little earlier) on Shabbos; and
- being on call during Camp Shabbos hours (10-11:30 am) in case the babysitter needs anything; you do not have to be downstairs the entire time.

To volunteer, contact Adriana Steinberg, abpeljovich@yahoo.com or 202-641-6677.

The Weekly Parsha

Ki Tisa: Moses' Extraordinary Prayer

One of the lowest points (if not the lowest point) in the history of the Jewish people occurred shortly after the Revelation at Sinai. Without Moses' leadership and guidance, the people sank into depraved idolatry, worshipping a golden calf. Divine justice demanded that this terrible betrayal be punished severely, but Moses vigorously "pleaded before God his Lord" on their behalf. (Ex. 32:11)

The word for "pleaded" — vayechal — is not the usual expression for prayer. The Sages gave several explanations why the Torah used this particular word to describe Moses' prayer. Rabbi Elazar noted that vayechal shares the same root as choleh (sick). Moses prayed for the sake of Israel so strenuously that he became ill from the effort.

According to Rabbi Eliezer the Great, the word vayechal even indicates the specific illness that afflicted Moses. Moses became sick with achilu, a fire (or fever) in the bones. (Berachot 32a)

Why should Moses' efforts for the sake of the Jewish people make him ill? What is the significance of a fever in the bones?

ABNORMAL INTENSITY OF PRAYER

The gravity of the sin of the Golden Calf should not be underestimated. God's forgiveness was not a foregone conclusion. Divine justice decreed that the Jewish nation deserved to be destroyed for this calamitous breach of faith.

Moses' prayer in their defense could not be just any prayer. Their ruinous fall was beyond the normal efforts of a great leader to rectify. In order to restore their spiritual standing, Moses needed to pray with an intensity that transcended all of his natural powers. This effort was so great that Moses became ill. That is one implication of the word vayechal — a pleading so extraordinary that it disrupted the normal functioning of the body.

AWAKENING THE FIRE IN THE BONES

Rabbi Eliezer the Great taught an additional aspect of Moses' defense. Bones, although not very sensitive, contain a condensed essence of life. (The word etzem in Hebrew means both "bone" and "essence"). When the life-forces have left all other parts of the body, they still remain in the bones. A starved individual, just barely alive, will appear to be a walking skeleton. The bones are a metaphor for the inner essence of life, hidden deeply inside the body. This life-force is not normally felt, unless awakened by a very powerful force. Thus, Ezekiel described the national revival of Israel with his prophetic vision of dry bones coming back to life.

Moses was unable to plead the case of the Jewish people using only his natural powers. He needed to awaken all of his powers of life, even those hidden deeply within. His extraordinary effort was in like measure to the moral collapse of the people. The nation's fall due to the Golden Calf could not be corrected by the regular, revealed powers of ethical life alone. It was necessary that hidden powers from the essence of the soul — the people's inner inclinations towards good and holiness that remained deep in their bones — be awakened.

Since these aspects of life are ordinarily hidden, their revelation is unnatural, an extreme measure. So too, Moses' pleas for the sake of Israel at that critical time needed to be based on an unusual fire — a fire of holiness smoldering unseen in the very bones of the people.

Focus on Tanach

The idea is to complete all of Tanach, as a community, with each family or individual learning a book from Tanach or a Parsha from the Torah. There can be overlap, as long as we finish Tanach as a shul.

Rabbi Goldberger would very much like the Torah parshiyos to be completed by the youth of our shul. Sign up with Nechama Goldman, nechamabgoldman@gmail.com, 410-440-6234 or Shonny Katz, 410-358-0440, Shonny613@hotmail.com.
