The pencil drawing was inspired by a photograph of Rabbi Goldberger taken by Frank Storch, and, unbeknownst to the Rabbi, was created for him as a labor of love.

Only 125 signed and numbered lithographs were printed. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the shul. Lithographs 26-125 are $275. First-come, first-served for lower available numbers.

For tax and maaser purposes, the value of each picture is $175 with $100 going to the shul. To purchase a portrait to benefit the shul or for additional information, please go to tiferesyisroel.org/app/register/litho.

This week's Lev Echad is sponsored by:

Rabbi Howard and Felicia Graber in honor of Chananya Graber's Aufruf and his marriage to Esther Matitia of Cleveland. He is the son of Steven and Joy Graber.

From Our President

I would like to thank the entire kehilla for your overwhelming support for myself and all of the shul officers in this last election. We never dreamed that our slate would be elected unanimously, especially since we couldn't canvass within 50 yards of the voting area!

When Ari first asked me if I wanted to be shul president (strategically timed after a Shavuot all nighter and the Rebbetzin's cheesecake), I told him I had to think about it. He persisted and two years later, I was ready to come on board. I am now ready, having recovered from my last board meeting 27 years ago. At that meeting, no one could help me with my main question — "What's the meaning of life," and someone else quoting "Robert's Rules of meeting protocol." I'm hoping these issues are no longer deal breakers.

It's exciting for me to be part of a shul where so much of what happens is a result of the hard work of our Rabbi and Rebbetzin and initiatives of our shul membership. Thank you!

On the practical side, one of my goals that I mentioned at the election meeting is to promote initiatives that can help the shul get off the financial roller coaster. I learned from Ari that almost every shul faces the same challenge: Money is raised at the beginning of the year; the funds start to run out, money comes in from another event such as a banquet, the money runs out, and so on.

I believe that we can end that cycle over the next two years, enabling our shul to grow in ways that we haven't even thought of, as we have a more reliable income stream. Here are some ideas:

1. Subscription payments — Encourage our membership to honor their financial commitments through subscription (automatic) payments from their bank or PayPal.
2. Pay smarter, not harder — Encourage our membership to either pay their commitments through their bank (no fees) or through PayPal, adding in the PayPal fees so the shul doesn't lose out.
3. Set up ways for shul members to purchase items that will also pay the shul the money (e.g., Amazon Smile).
4. Your fundraising ideas.
5. Your fundraising ideas.
6. Refer to #4 and #5.

I am confident that the members of our kehilla have a lot of other ideas and in the coming months, I will be reaching out to our membership to hear your ideas. Be on the lookout for a survey that will be sent out within the next few weeks, IY"H.

I look forward to gaining a greater understanding of how we can continue to leverage our talents, creativity, passion, and insights, so that our kehilla will continue to reach greater heights as a makom of kedusha, achdus and continued growth. Have a wonderful Shabbos!

Rabbi Moshe Twersky ZTZ"l

by Yehoshua Goldfinger

Rabbi Yaakov Hillel often says that a Tzadik Nistar, a hidden Tzadik, is not necessarily a giant hidden as a simple or even wicked person, as it is often thought. He can be a person who is a renowned Tzadik and a Chacham, but through your interactions and observance of the person, it becomes obvious that what you see is just the tip of the iceberg. That was Rabbi Moshe Twersky ZTZ"l H"YD.

I was surprised on my first day in his Shiur how shy, quiet and unassuming he was. He sat down and began the lecture without much fanfare, quickly and precisely explaining the Gemarah and Reshonim with great clarity. He quietly mentioned at the end of the shiur that if anyone wanted to come to his house for a Shabbos meal, he should just let him know. It didn't take long to discover that his Shabbos table was famous in the Yeshiva for its Divrei Torah, song and atmosphere. Bucharim flocked to it, even though it meant an hour and a half walk back to the Yeshiva. His quiet, unassuming shiur also showed an incredible breadth and depth. One of the other Rabbeim once commented to me that Rabbi Twersky "could easily be the Rosh Yeshiva of all of us," faculty included.

Rabbi Twersky's father-in-law, Rabbi Abba Berman, was in general critical of the acceptance of Chumros as a Derech HaAvodah. However, he felt there were a few exceptions, his son-in-law being one of them, and it was easy to see why. Although he was exceedingly Medakdaik in Mitzvos, concerning himself with even the most extreme Shitos, he did it with such incredible Tznius and privacy that you almost couldn't catch him. For example, at the Simchos of his own children, he did not eat the food. However, instead of having separate food brought to his table setting, he was caught quietly sneaking to a corner during a break in the action to eat from a bag that he had prepared. It was a game amongst the Talmidim to catch him doing something different, and then much conversation would ensue to figure out why he did it. During his Shivah, many other of his Chumros came out. Apparently he did not eat vegetables the entire year of Shmita and did not wear glasses outside on Shabbos.

At the same time, he was completely without airs and fully normal. He once personally made a pot of noodles for a chavrusa who had a brachos Shaila. Help was needed one week with Tomchai Shabbos, so Rabbi Twersky went and packed some packages. After returning to the Yeshiva following an absence, I asked him if my slot for learning with him was still available. Unfortunately it was taken by a group of three Bachurim, but the way he told me was unforgettable. He smiled, and gesturing emphatically with his hand, said, "It took three people to replace you!" He was once aptly described as "a Maluch, but the most normal Maluch you will ever see."

In the Yeshiva, he was a symbol of genuine Yiras Shomayim, Hasmadah and Taharah, and his presence inspired and uplifted everyone who had contact or even saw him, whether or not they attended his Shiur. The thought of him being taken from us in Talis and Tefilin, Al Kiddush HaShem, is both a horrible, shocking and immensely sorrowful event and a haunting and awesome image. In his life, his Torah, image and persona inspired so many Talmidim and created so much Kiddush Hashem and Yiras Shomayim. It is poignant that his sudden Petirah has done the same. A common sentiment that I have heard from a number of the Talmidim is that perhaps his Petirah needed to be in this way so that others could learn about him and from him. He was a force too important and potent to remain just in the Yeshiva. His life needed to, and has been, spread around the world.

There is more than can be said in this article about Rabbi Moshe Twerski, ZTZ"l HY"D. Recordings of Hespadam for Rabbi Moshe Twersky, as well as several of his Shiurim are available free of charge to the public through Yeshivas Toras Moshe's alumni association at nermichoel.org. Many of the Hespadam and all of his Shiurim are in English, and many articles are currently available about him, giving a wonderful glimpse into a rare individual.

Editor's note: Rabbi Twersky was murdered along with four others in a terrorist attack on the morning of November 18, 2014, while praying in the Kehilat Yaakov Synagogue in Har Nof.

Koidenover Rebbe

Focus on Chessed

“Do not take revenge or bear a grudge” (Vayikra 19:18)

by Rabbi Shmuel Choueka

We are all familiar with the concept of revenge. If someone does evil to us or holds back a favor from us, we are not permitted to retaliate on the basis of his action. Rather, we must try to help out the person regardless of what he did to us. The second half of the verse is not as well-known but equally important. Do not bear a grudge means that if someone holds back something from us, we are not allowed to remind him of it even if we do him the favor. We may not say, “I’ll lend you this item even though you didn’t lend me the thing I asked you for.” The Rambam says we are supposed to go even one step further and not have his refusal in our mind when we do him the favor. This takes a clear understanding that what happens to us is from Hashem. Even though that individual refused to do me a favor, as far as I am concerned, it wasn’t from him but from Hashem. Therefore I will do him the favor and not even remember his refusal.

Although this is definitely not an easy task, if one accomplishes this commandment he will reinforce his faith in Hashem and it will give him the peace of mind which comes with the faith and trust in Hashem. Shabbat Shalom.
