Dear (legislator name),

As an anticipated attendee of the 2015 COBI Conference, I would like to invite you to join me for lunch on February 24th at the Indiana Statehouse's North Atrium. The goal of our conference strives to engage our state's youth to learn about the importance of our legislative process and help youth become engaged on issues effecting young people.

Children, Our Best Investment (COBI) is an annual advocacy day that teaches children how to have a stronger voice within their communities and to speak publicly about what youth issues affect them. COBI strives to give children the confidence they need in order to feel like they can make a difference in the bills that are passed each legislative session.

At this exciting event, you will have the opportunity hear from me and other dedicated young people that are interested in giving a voice to bills being debated at the statehouse. I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to share my experiences and opinions with you about these issues, as well as hear your thoughts and perspective.

I hope you will join me for lunch in the North Atrium on February 24, 2015. You should have received a formal invitation that provides more detail about the event. I look forward for the opportunity to meet you and I want to thank you in advance for your consideration of this invitation.

Sincerely,
