

India is undergoing the worst water crisis in its history

600mn Indians face "high to extreme water stress"

2030
Is the year by which water availability will be half what India needs

2,00,000 die each year because they can't get clean supply

Up to 6% of GDP could be lost to extreme water scarcity

major cities could exhaust their groundwater supplies within two years affecting 100mn

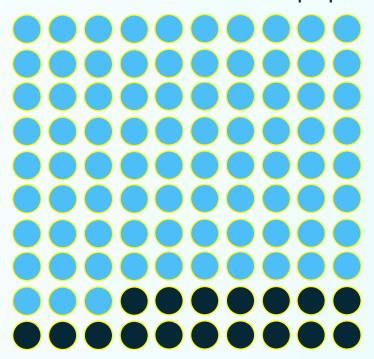

40% of the population will have no access to drinking water by 2030

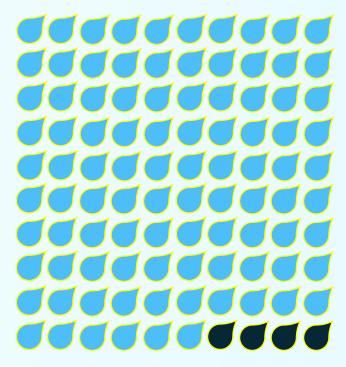

In part, the problem is population

India has about 17% of the world's people but Just 4% of the world's freshwater resources

Poor management by government

Endemic pollution of existing water resources

Reliance on inefficient crops and farming methods

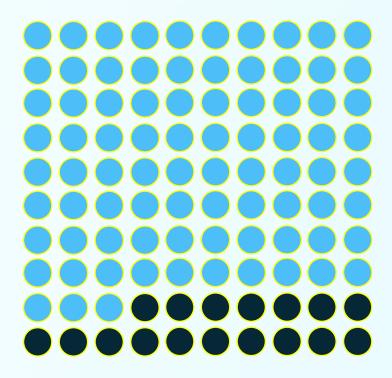

water matters

Water stress is more than just a hydrological issue, as usage is shaped by human behaviour.

While policy took its own course, it was imperative that citizens too played their part.

Saving water is a global project

We stepped out with the belief that water problems won't go away by themselves, rather, they'll worsen, unless communities intervene.

Water specialists stress on Reduce, Reuse Recycle

Given the current groundwater situation and the lopsided demand-supply equation, our solution relied on the 1st R -

Reduce

Campaign idea:

Serve just half glass water to guests at homes and hotels instead of the customary full glass of water.

Half Glass Water

 Sometimes, a small shift is needed to create a big change

Objectives

Mobilize community to conserve water

Create next generation change leaders

Demonstrate that Dainik Jagran stands for community

It is customary in Indian culture, to serve a glass of water to all guests.

Our campaign attempted to bring about a change in this practice.

The campaign's message was "Use Half Glass of Water" across every consumption occasion

We appointed Water Patrons

We partnered 'Hotel and Restaurant Association of Northern India' and asked 1757 Hotels and Restaurants to serve Half Glass water instead of the customary Full Glass to all guests. Tent Cards were displayed on tables, along with posters with the campaign message.

We reached out to 35mn people directly through this intervention

We appointed Water Heroes

We appointed 2,92,042 students as Water Heroes. They spread awareness in their localities, and homes to spread the word on serving Half Glass water to guests

We appointed Water Engineers

A Team of 'Water Engineers' was set up. Citizens could call on a toll free number and report problems of leaky taps or pipelines, and the engineers would fix the leaks.

1654 newspaper Readers called in with their complaints.

We brought the issue into public conversation

Editorial content equivalent to 132 newspaper pages set the agenda for water conservation.

We got people to take the Conservation Pledge

87,272 people took the Water Conservation pledge

We took to the streets

40 Street theatres talking directly to 4560 people

We educated people through workshops

2063 water conservation workshops attended by 493934 people

We created an awareness campaign

And we went door-to-door signaling the urgency

32535 people connected through door-to-door rallies, signature campaigns, painting competitions, wall paintings and club meetings

We got appreciation and commitment letters from partners

Dainik Jagran Dear Mr. Joshi

Firstly congratulations to you for the wonderful and unique initiative of "Adha Gilas Paani". HRANI and its members feel honored to be associated with such a great initiative

We received a very good response from our members who took part in the campaign, Almost 1200 Hotels & Restaurants members from the nine states of Northern India were part of this campaign and helped in saving gallons of water during & after the campaign.

We must say that this has started a process which is ongoing and will continue forever helping our Northern region & country to save water as a precious resource.

Each establishment contributed to the full and we believe we are saving Lakhs of liters of potable water each day directly by offering ½ glass of water and motivating individuals to stop water wastage. Much more is being saved by practicing other simple ways of saving water.

HRANI salutes your passion which reflects in this initiative of Dainik Jagran and promises to associate with similar ventures in future as well.

Thanks

With Regards

Numc Surendra Kumar Jaiswal President HRANI
