

SUZANNE SPENCER

BREAKING NEWS TO BREAKTHROUGHS

ABOUT SUZANNE

Suzanne Spencer took countless calls and story ideas as a broadcast journalist over a decade of working in tv news. When her phone rang in 2021, the news was delivered to her and it changed the trajectory of her life. Suzanne is now a two-time brain tumor survivor, keynote speaker, and storyteller who pivoted to create her own business, Suzanne Speaks, with a core mission to help others overcome challenges.

SIGNATURE KEYNOTE

It's inevitable that everyone will face a setback that gives new meaning to their life. Suzanne works with audiences to better prepare them for handling challenging everyday moments, when every next move matters. Suzanne takes audiences on the journey with her as she discovered her brain tumor and through two brain surgeries, while balancing a demanding and fulfilling professional career as a tv news anchor. Audiences will walk away with three practical takeaways surrounding mindset, inner voice, and community they can implement that day to overcome whatever challenge is in front of them.

TAKEAWAYS

Audiences receive three actionable takeaways of mindset, inner voice, and community; packaged into an easy-to-remember, relevant acronym. Suzanne delivers these takeaways as she is taking the audience along on the journey of discovering her brain tumor and two subsequent surgeries, one of which just two weeks after the birth of her daughter. Suzanne's keynote weaves together themes of advocacy, resilience, storytelling, and mindset growth that comes with navigating a difficult personal challenge while maintaining a high-stress, visible job as a tv news anchor. Suzanne believes overcoming challenges takes reps, and her warm, transparent delivery helps audiences learn to embrace the hard things, find toughness, and to see your mindset, inner voice, and community as assets.
