

Charlene Swinton-Witkovic

Human Resources

Charlene Swinton-Witkovic is the author of Still Rising From Ashes and a public speaker. Born in Harlem, New York, and later moving to the Bronx, she overcame a childhood marked by poverty to pursue higher education, earning her MBA from Central Connecticut State University. Charlene is a proud wife to Edward Witkovic and mother of two. She is passionate about empowering individuals to unlock their fullest potential by cultivating wealth, achieving vibrant health, and embracing financial freedom.

With over 20 years of experience in Human Resources, Charlene has witnessed firsthand how mindset, habits, and leadership shape both personal and professional success. Her work empowers individuals to rise from challenges and build routines that lead to transformation.
