ABOUT BARRI

Barri brings a rare, compassionate perspective to the death care industry, one shaped by a decade in pastoral ministry and a current path toward becoming a licensed funeral director and embalmer. As a mortuary science student and funeral service intern, she blends her background in spiritual care with clinical training to help grieving families navigate loss with dignity and grace. Through her brand, MortuaryMillennialMom, she creates grief informed education and resources that meet modern families where they are.

SPEAKING EXPERIENCE

- Keynote Speaker — delivered keynote messages in pastoral ministry settings
- Breakout Session Leader — facilitated small group breakout sessions on grief, care, and community

Signature Topics:

- Living, Loving, and Leading With Intention

How lessons on mortality help us become more intentional about how we spend our energy, nurture our personal and professional relationships, and define true success.

- Motherhood, Mortality, and Meaning: What Death Taught Me About Living

How motherhood teaches us to live more intentionally for ourselves and our children, and how it gives life new meaning.

- From Pulpit to Prep Room: A Second Calling in Death Care

Career transformation, calling, reinvention, and identity.

- The Conversation We Keep Postponing

End-of-life planning, family communication, and legacy. (This is a great topic for a workshop or breakout session.)

- Grief Doesn't Mean You're Broken

Understanding grief and supporting people through it.
