

The Language of Math

Addition +	Subtraction -	Multiplication ·	Division ÷	Equals =
plus increased by more than combined with together with total of sum added to	minus decreased by less than difference between difference of fewer than taken away from subtracted from	times of multiplied by product of increased by factor of decreased by factor of	divided by per out of ratio of quotient of percent (divide by 100) half (divide by 2) third (divide by 3) forth (divide by 4)	equals is are will be gives yields has

Translating Words into Equations

One plus five times a number

Thirteen equals negative two times a number squared

Twenty-five is less than or equal to two minus six times a number

Translating Words into Equations

Dora has 5 less CDs than Jack. Jack has three more than twice as many CDs as Dora. How many CDs does Jack have.