A: An Android Package Kit (APK in brief) is the package file format used by the Android operating system for the distribution and installation of mobile applications. Similarly Windows (PC) systems use an .exe file to install software, Android does the same. Q: Why can CloudApks.com guarantee 100% sure APK? A: Whenever someone wants to download an APK file from the CloudApks.com, we will check the appropriate APK file on Google Play and allow the user to download it directly (of course, we will cache it on our server). If the APK file doesn't exist on Google Play, we'll search for it in the cache. Q: If I install an APK from will I be able to update the app in the Play Store? A: Yes, absolutely. The Play Store installs the APKs it downloads from Google servers, and lateral uploading from a site like CloudApks.com goes through a very similar process, except that you are the one who is downloading and initiating the installation (sideloading). As soon as the Play Store finds a newer version of the app the one you uploaded sideways, an update will start. Q: What are Android app permissions? A: Apps require access to certain systems on your device. When you install an app, you are notified of all the permissions required to run that application.
