

The Blind
and
The Lame Man

In a village lived a blind man and a lame man, who always fought with each other.

One day, there was a big fire in the village, and everyone started running. The blind man and the lame man did not know what to do. No one waited for them, and they sat side by side, hoping someone would help them.

Finally, the blind man said,

I can walk, and you can see. If we become friends, we can escape.

So they shook hands and became friends. The blind man carried the lame man on his shoulder and ran. The lame man told him the way. They came out of the village safely.

If we work together as friends, we can make the world a happier place.
