

The Fearless Prince Vardhaman

Prince Vardhaman was a very fearless child. One day, while his friends and he were playing in a garden a huge snake suddenly came out of nowhere.

All the children started running away, but the prince stood bravely in front of the snake. Then, he gently held it as if it was a garland of flowers.

He turned around and asked his friends,

Why were you running away in fear?
This poor fellow is also scared of you.
If you don't trouble it or attack it, it will not bite you!

The prince then put the snake very gently on the grass.

"Since then, Prince Vardhaman's friends have tried to be brave and fearless."

We must always try to be brave.

