

Little Boy

There was a little boy called Chiku who would never share his toys with anyone. If someone touched his toys, he would scream and shout! So, no one wanted to play with him.

One day, Chiku was playing alone in his house. He looked outside and saw a lot of children playing ball together. They were having so much fun.

Chiku wanted to play with them, so he went outside, and asked the children,

May I play with you?

But Chiku, you do not let us touch your toys. Why should we let you play with us?

Chiku promised that he would share his toys with them. He even went home and got his bat and ball to share. All the children played happily together. They all shared their toys and had a lot of fun.

WE MUST SHARE OUR TOYS
