

Ram and Ramesh

One day two friends, Ram and Ramesh, were walking to the library. They were so busy talking that they did not look left or right before crossing the road and a bus almost hit them.

An angry policeman came up to them and told them,

"Do not you know the traffic rules?
Is this the way to behave?"

BUS

Ramesh made a face at the policeman, which made him angry. But Ram quickly smiled at the policeman and said,

"We are very sorry, sir. We would not make this mistake again."

The policeman's anger reduced seeing Ram smile,
and he said,

"All right, you may go but tell your friend how to behave, or next time
I may not let him go."

Ram's smile and polite words helped the two friends get out of trouble.

