

The Plants Have Life

Once upon a t i m e , Acharya Shree Somsund-arji was crossing through a deep jungle.

They sat down to rest when suddenly,
a poisonous snake bit them.

The Acharya was in great pain as the poison began to spread through his blood. His body was burning and becoming paralyzed.

His students were now very worried, so they began cutting down leaves and plants in search of medicine.

Some of the plants were torn rather cruelly. Finally, someone found the medicine to cure the snakebite. He applied this on the Acharya.

Soon, Acharya Shree Somsundarji got better and woke up. He saw the uprooted plants and the torn leaves all around. He felt very sad,

The students promised that no plant would be destroyed ever again.

Because of me, so many plants have been killed and destroyed. They too feel pain.

Plants are Jivas too, and we must be gentle in the way we treat them.
