

The Untrustworthy Man

One day, in a jungle, a tiger was chasing a man. It was a long chase when finally the man managed to climb up a tree. The tiger sat below the tree and waited for the man to come down.

In that tree lived a monkey, who felt sorry for the man and let him hide. The monkey and the man agreed that they would take turns to keep a watch on the tiger.

The man fell asleep, so the monkey kept watching.

Never, I will never betray him. I am not untrustworthy!

Throw the man down,
and I will let you go.

Then, it was the man's turn to watch and the monkey to go to sleep.

A man with a purple headband, wearing a green tank top and white shorts, sits on a thick tree branch. He is looking towards a brown monkey that is curled up and sleeping on a lower branch. Three small 'Z' symbols above the monkey indicate it is asleep. The tree has large, rounded green leaves. The background is a clear blue sky with light clouds.

Throw the monkey down, and I will let you go.

The untrustworthy man threw the monkey down. Luckily, the monkey got stuck on a lower branch, and another branch fell and hit the tiger, which made him run away.

The monkey was very upset with the man. The untrustworthy man felt very ashamed and then went silently away.

Go away from here,
I am ashamed of you!

We must never betray the trust of other people.

