

[Transcriber's note: Comments may be slightly abbreviated, edited for better clarity in reading]

1. Randall: I guess I'll start with greetings to Lord Metatron. Thank you. I have to say, since the conference, this has been the most expansive energetic time I've ever experienced. With the opening of the Star Gates at the conference, those axialtonal lines just opened up. And I've just had so much communication. I've never really channeled much before, but I've been channeling a lot of different Beings, information, conversations. So, it's just been fantastic! There's that, that's really cool.

Regarding the comment about the Light Packets -- I revisited the audio or the written experience of the placing of the Packets in the DNA. In the call last month, it was stated to revisit where they were placed in our chakras. So there seemed to be some discrepancy, but I just kind of went with it. I went back into that DNA control chamber, ramped up all the energies, and then saw the 7 Light Packets almost like pills sitting on the control panel. And each one seemed to be kind of quantum entangled with the DNA. And the task was to place them in the appropriate chakra and activate them and experience what they are about. And that was amazingly powerful.

And I'm not going to go through each one. But one in particular was powerful and almost a little bit disconcerting. So I thought I'd express it in case anyone else has some similar experience.

So each of the Packets, like big pills, for me had different colors, and some of them were swirls and patterns. The one I pulled out was the absence of Light. It was blackness like a black hole. And so that was a little disturbing or disconcerting at first. But I just felt like I was just going to go with it. I placed it in the crown chakra, which looked to me like a spiraling galaxy. So it was almost like placing this super massive black hole into the center of the crown. And it was very powerful. And I've been processing that for weeks, but it was like I almost resisted it at first.... It was so powerful that it just took time to process. And now it's seating, but it almost started to blend into this black hole like vortex. It seems to be a very deep actual connection with Source, like I've never experienced. So that one was really kind of interesting and a little disconcerting at first.

So with that, I'll end. Thank you.

[3:38] 2. Sharka: I would also like to talk about those Light Packets. I went to all the chakras with questions, where those Packets are. I did receive some answers, not like thoughts of wisdom, but I have received some information about what that Packet might be about. I found all the 7 chakras that I placed it in.

And one was in the fourth chakra. I asked the question what would it be about, the Light Packet. The answer was that it's about new technology. And when that thought came to me, I had chill bumps. I know that it's not about this lifetime, because I definitely have no background in technology. I'm an artist. But science was always very attractive to me.

And it's interesting that I feel this new life is forming, like the old one is falling apart. And I've kind of lost a lot of friends, where I was kind of grieving about it. However, I realized I was just grieving that old life. And so, I focused on my new life as being this Divine Being. And it's interesting that I started to meet new friends, specifically about the technology. There was a lady who I had to urge to talk to, and so we kind of connected, and I found out that she is actually a scientist. It's kind of enlightening to feel OK, I might have a friend now who can help me with my mastery which will come forward.

[6:12] 3. Joanne: So much has happened since the conference, but I really want to pick up on this thread that has come through around the new technology. I'm not a scientist either. And yet what has really come through is the invitation to expand our perception or expand our definition, actually, of what technology is. And the new technology includes new perceptual frameworks. It includes new vibrational energetics. It's not just what we have been taught is technology. And so, I just wanted to put that out there.

[7:14] 4. Sandee: Some of you know that I've been working with special riders, a program working with horses who are able to work with special needs kids. Often in our program Monday mornings, we have autistic children of all shapes and sizes. I wrote about one of these girls. Since the conference, my focus has been with the Earth and with the animals, in particular the horses, and then my dog and cat. They seem to be much more receptive to me on a telepathic level. I just find that quite fascinating and interesting. So I talk to them in my language, in thinking and feeling, and they respond back. I can really tell from my horse, because she is just full of a lot of Love. She responds back that way.

In the program with the special needs kids, this one autistic one has her own language. She's a very big Being. Her first experience on her first ride, she never wanted to be touched and she was very difficult to relate to. It was interesting that I picked up on her first ride, where she was toning in this perfect pitch. And the whole environment in the indoor arena changed. And I watched her look up into the rafters and above, looking all around. I could tell she was actually changing the feeling in there, very much like the toning that we did at the conference. And it totally caught me off guard and I went, "Oh my God, this is really happening! And she's really working with it!" And so, I had this appreciation. I know her mother and I told her mother, and her mother just smiled at me.

Throughout the whole month, nothing else happened until yesterday, when I explained to her grandmother, and I said, “I so appreciate her singing and toning and that it really uplifted this place.” And then she grabbed ahold of my arms and hugged them and then hugged me and then I rubbed her back. And she just leaned into me and gave me this big bear hug. And we talked. I said, “Well, you know, she has her own language, like a Light language that she speaks. And to me she’s a Being here but not from here. This is her first incarnation in a human body. So she’s learning about that. Now the horses are very telepathic, and so she has this one horse that she really loves. And the horse really responds well to her, too, carrying her and dealing with her. But her own language can be jerky and physical and a lot of clicks and noises.”

And then her grandmother said to me, “Oh yes, she does have her own language, but if you listen to her very carefully, you’ll hear her words.” And then she signed “I Love you” in American sign language to me. And then I heard her say, “I Love you.” And then a big hug. It was just really something. And I just wanted to share that with you, that I just feel like she’s a real special Being here. And most people wouldn’t notice it. I feel blessed to have noticed. It’s a gift.

Joan: Not only that. And you have a gift that you share with her, to make her more comfortable in her surroundings and in her physical body. I just think that speaks volumes of not only your personally but what this group is all about – how we gather together to receive these wonderful Light Templates and then share them with the world, in our own unique way. Beautiful!

Sandee: I could tell she could see and feel it. It was just very comforting, very reassuring – a great deal of Love.

John: Well, you’re the epitomy of what Metatron shared with us a couple of times ago. And he said, “Pay attention!” And you’re a tremendous example of that, because you are paying attention. Look what came out of that!

[13:04] 5. John: I’d like to add a little comment. Since the conference, when we returned home, I re-assembled the pyramid that we had at the conference. And the effect of that has been blowing me away. I spend my meditation time underneath it and some other things that I do, and just being quiet. And the effect of that is absolutely awesome to the point where sometimes time just goes away. It’s just like it’s suspended animation. Other times, I can feel a tremendous amount of energy that’s coming through. So, I would just encourage anybody – you don’t have to go out and build a 10 X 10 pyramid – but even if you have a little one that you could hang over your bed or where you meditate, I just would encourage you, because I’ve seen the actual results. It’s pretty awesome. And that’s all I wanted to share. Thank you.