PRESS RELEASE

We are pleased to announce that Atoosa Esmaili has joined Cohen Williams LLP as an associate. Her practice at CW will focus on complex commercial litigation, as well as white collar criminal defense and investigations. Managing Partner Marc Williams says: “We are thrilled to have Atoosa join our firm as an associate. She has the legal experience, sophistication, and strategic-thinking to be a valuable member of our team and contribute right away as we continue to grow and provide excellent legal services to our clients.”

Atoosa is an accomplished litigator with a broad range of experience in both civil and criminal litigation. Prior to joining CW, she worked as Special Counsel at Brown White & Osborn LLP in Los Angeles, where she worked on a wide variety of complex civil and white collar criminal matters, and as an associate at Liddle & Robertson LLP in New York, where she litigated commercial and employment matters in federal and state court.

Atoosa previously served as a law clerk for the Honorable Lawrence J. O’Neill of the Eastern District of California during his tenure as Chief Judge. She received her J.D. from the New York University School of Law, where she was the Staff Editor of the Journal of Law and Business. During her time at NYU, Atoosa participated in the Community Economic Development Clinic and the New York Civil Liberties Union Clinic.

Atoosa is admitted to practice in California and New York, as well as in multiple federal district courts, including the United States District Court for the Central District of California, the Northern District of California, the Southern District of New York, and the Eastern District of New York.
