

"Let's Not Talk About Marius"

recommendations for springtime dining, clubbing, and music... and we'll say nothing about marius... the giraffe. don't ask.

Ved Stranden 10 - Vinhandel & ...

Wine Bar

if it's a sunny late afternoon, there are worse places one could go for a glass of wine and people-watching. over-priced because of location but still charming.

Ved Stranden 10, København K

Kødbyens Fiskebar

Seafood

only available in late winter / early spring, stenbidder røgn (lumpfish roe) is our version of caviar. danes go crazy for it like new yorkers howl over ramps.

Flæsketorvet 100, København

Restaurant Silo

Scandinavian

17th floor views overlooking much of copenhagen, from one of the city's most recently redeveloped harbor neighborhoods. new spot, owner/chefs pedigree is legit.

Helsinkigade 29, Nordhavn

Never Mind

Gay Bar

we always called it "never you mind" because of sassy lip you'd sometimes get from lesbian crowd on certain nights. gay-forward sweaty after-hours dance scene.

Restaurant Schønnemann

Scandinavian

you can most certainly get danish smørrebrød at torvehallerne but if you want a proper sit-down meal with the pomp of akvavit and beer, then choose schønnemann.

Radio

Scandinavian

raw wood interior speaks of the height of danish design in what was once DR's (the danish BBC) signature building. haute fare (cuisine): haute fare (prices).

56°

Scandinavian

rustic restaurant set within thick walls of gunpowder store from 1600s. nordic-inspired fare mixes modern + traditional. large garden wonderful on sunny days.

Krudtløbsvej 8, København

Bremen Teater

Theater

yes it's a theater with a notorious legacy but it's also a newish nightclub (called natbar). large lounge area, young crowd, gets energetic after midnight.

Nyropsgade 39-41, København

Aamanns 1921

Scandinavian

i loved the first aamanns. here you will have danish smørrebrød but in contrast to schønnemann's, this is the modern nordic minimalist take on it. either/or.

Niels Hemmingsens Gade 19-21, København

108

Scandinavian

on the edge of christianshavn, close to the opera. more comfort food though fancy nonetheless. leave room for dessert. next door is "corner @ 108" for coffee.

Strandegade 108, København

Culture Box

Nightclub

where i'd go dancing for DJs familiar with the detroit sound. lots of overlap with berlin scene and london. mostly sweaty house / electronic stuff. hit & miss.

Kronprinsessegade 54, København K
+45 33 32 50 50

Lille VEGA

Music Venue

i tend to favor little vega to regular "big" vega (stor vega) because the intimate setting feels better for late night dancing. democratic door policy + crowd.

Enghavevej 40, København V

Höst

Scandinavian

part of cofoco but worth its own entry. though expensive, it gets accolades from friends and restaurant critics. primarily tasting menus, nordic-focused.

Nørre Farimagsgade 41, København
+45 89 93 84 09 newnorm.dk

Amass

Scandinavian

tad ironic that the chef is a californian doing his thing in copenhagen – so you won't be having a dansk experience here, per se, though he is a NOMA protegé!

Refshalevej 153, København
+45 43 58 43 30 amassrestaurant.com

Floss

Bar

the mars bar of copenhagen: part of city's punk/skateboard history. cheap beers, shitty bartenders, and filthy bathrooms endure in 100% gentrified pisserenden.

Larsbjørnsstræde 10, København

Rust

Nightclub

rust is an empire with several venues, incl. live music above and basement dance floor below. can be lots of fun but it can also be vanilla and very mainstream.

Guldbergsgade 8, København N
