In Hindi: सदैव संदेह करने वाले व्यक्ति के लिए प्रसन्नता ना इस लोक में है ना ही कहीं और . Quote 2: Delusion stems from anger. The mind is confused by the delusion. Judgment is destroyed when the mind is confused. One falls ... Read more » Everyone faces challenges in everyday life, large and small. Arjun's dilemma was big. Facing an opposing army containing his distinguished elders, friends and relatives, Arjuna is confused. At a critical time he seeks advice from his charioteer, Lord Krishna who has revealed some profound words of advice that are still relevant today. Bhagavad-Gita's 700-verse Hindu script, written in Sanskrit, contains a vast sea of knowledge and a practical guide to life. It is the primary source of inspiration for Mahatma Gandhi and many other well-known leaders such as Henry David Thoreau, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Carl Jung. As an entrepreneur, I think it's more than a book of inspiration. Often, when in doubt, I will ponder the verses, reflect the meaning of life and get my life back on track. In short, this epic Scripture has answers to all our problems. Here I give you my favorite list of Bhagavad-Gita quotes that will enlighten you. 1. Change is the law of the universe. You can be a millionaire or a poor man in an instant. Nature teaches us about change. We need to understand that nothing is permanent in our lives. Even our very existence on Earth is only temporary. There are no losers or winners in the cycle of life. There's just movement, phases we have to go through. When you truly realize this, you will be able to accept difficult times and not be deceived by moments of glory. OTHER POSTS THAT CAN HELP YOU: How to deal with change 2. They do not keep us from our goal obstacles, but a clear path to a smaller goal. Do you dream big enough? What prevents you from achieving your goals? The lack of clarity is why many people are satisfied with less than they can be. Often people will abandon their dreams and take an easier path. But to achieve great things, you need clarity to help you stay on track and keep reaching for your dream. Don't settle for less than what you're capable of, try to be better and work for something bigger. 3. Man is made by his conviction. As he believes, so does he. Research has shown that you are who you believe you are. The mind is everything. When you change the inner attitudes of your minds, you can change the external life. Remember what you see is what you believe in. If you allow thoughts take over your mind, you can feel unhappy, depressed and miserable. If you feed your mind positive thoughts, you become happy. The beauty of it is that our mind is under our control. Be the master of your own minds. 4. When meditation is mastered, the mind is as unflinching as the flame of a lamp in a place without wind. Meditation is the best way to calm your mind and give you immense peace of mind. Even sitting still with our eyes closed our minds to a million-mile-an-hour race. When the eyes open, we take a barrage of images that stir our minds and emotions. All we have to do is rule our lives. Do you think meditation is boring? But the truth is that sometimes we tend to overcomplicate things. It's a lot easier than you thought. Simply spend a few minutes each day and sit in dhyana to achieve inner peace. Or just take a long breath. You can practice this simple meditation from a quiet corner of your bedroom or office space. This will help you clear your mind, reduce your attachment to your thoughts, make better decisions in life and business. 5. Lust, anger and greed are the three gates of self-destructive hell. Lust (Kaam), anger (Krodh) and greed (Lobh) did us no good. They disrupt the balance of our soul and mind. Lord Krishna succinctly says that lust, anger and greed are the three gates that lead directly to hell. Unreasonable cravings for sex will destroy the purity of the mind, greed will never allow you to be satisfied and anger will drive people away from you. Therefore, we should be extremely careful to avoid these 3 doors and stay away at a safe distance. 6. You have the right to work, but never to the fruit of labor. Do favors and expect nothing in return (Karm, phal ki chinta mat karo) is the wisest message Bhagwad Gita gives us. Understand that we have control over actions and operations, but we have no command of results. We all live in this modern, result-oriented world, we care only about the outcome and we will do everything to achieve results. We're always looking for shortcuts. But Krishna stated that we should avoid this attachment to results. Because when expectations are not met, emotional attachment to the fruit of labor will lead to bitterness. It's the biggest obstacle to success. 7. Whatever happened, it happened for good. Whatever's going on, it's happening for good. Whatever happens, it's going to happen for good. Everybody's worried. But don't let that kind of thought hold you back in life. Miss your sales goal, a marketing campaign that didn't perform well, or a relationship that didn't go in. Don't stress out. Whatever needs to happen, it's going to happen and it's all going to happen for a reason. If you're going through a tough time, hang in there! It's part of the cycle. Face it and learn to accept it. You don't have to worry about the future and not carry the past around like a burden. The present is The moment you've ever had. Live in the moment and give your 100% on everything you do. You came up empty-handed and you're going to leave empty-handed. Living in this materialistic world, we focus mainly on tangible material things. That's how much we attach ourselves to material objects. We want a bigger house, a shinier car and more money in the bank. But we forget we can't take all these things to our graves with us. We came into this world naked and empty-handed and we're not going to take anything to an end. Learn not to get attached to material things before things start haunting us. 9. Our mind acts like an enemy if we do not control it. Our mind is our best friend and our worst enemy. The mind is not you. But it is a tool that you need to master and use well. What's the little voice babbling in your mind? Listen carefully and don't let it sabotage your success. 10. Everything in this world can be achieved or overcome through willpower You are so much stronger than you think. The power of will can overcome anything.
