

*vacanādāna-viharāṇa visargānandātmakriyā sādhanāni paripāṭyā
vāk-pāṇi-pāda pāyūpasthāni pañca karmendriyāṇi*

After that the five organs of actions are created. And those are vāk, vāk means This tongue produces two organs: one organ of cognition, and another organ of action. When organ of cognition is produced by tongue it is taste [rasa]. When organ of action is produced by tongue it is . . .

JOHN: Speech.

SWAMIJI: . . . it is speech vak. Speech and taste is produced by tongue both; that is vacana.

Ādāna is holding . . . which holds?

Holding action is done by pāṇi, i.e., by hands.

Viharāṇa, moving here and there is done by pāda, i.e., feet.

Visarga . . .

JOACHIM: Excretion.

SWAMIJI: . . . excretion, the action of excretion is done by pāyu . . . pāyu is going to bathroom, you know excretion, the action of excretion. Excretion is done by both organs [pāyu and upastha]. And, when you urate [urinate] that is . . .

JOHN: Also excretion.

SWAMIJI: . . . that is also excretion. And when you go pass stool, that is also excretion. Both ways it is excretion, it is only one organ.

And there is ānanda ātma, ānanda organ, i.e., organ of ecstasy – that is sex.

Sex is separate from this. That too is excretion, but that excretion of semen, and it is not actually excretion.

JOACHIM: It is creating something.

SWAMIJI: No, it is internal flow. It is internal flow, it is not external flow.

Do you understand?

ERNIE: No.

SWAMIJI: When you will marry you will understand.

DEVOTEES: (laughter)

SWAMIJI: (laughs)

ERNIE: When you say internal flow?

SWAMIJI: Yes, it is internal flow.

ERNIE: I understand external flow, but I do not understand internal flow?

SWAMIJI: When you stop urating [urinating], what you do?

You squeeze your organ, so it does not come out. But the flow of semen is formatted by squeezing – it is not excretion.

That you will understand only when you marry.

JOHN: But he was married before.

SWAMIJI: Oh! Then you know.

ERNIE: But I . . .

DEVOTEE: Forgot.

SWAMIJI: (laughs)

ERNIE: A Duffer.

SWAMIJI: However, it is not so much important.

And these sādhanās [acts] are done respectively by these five organs of action.
