

I distinguish the soul as a specific energy body that comes in at conception and leaves at physical death. Spirit is the life force energy that fills our bodies and all life. It's a vital form of energy contained in our cells that dissipates when we die, transforming into other elements. The soul body is what moves on, continuing its journey through many lives.