OPTIONAL ACTIVITIES

LIVE EVENT
3:00 - 4:30 p.m. Pacific	Napa Legal Institute Workshop Recent crises, new Supreme Court opinions, evolving legislation and federal aid programs, and economic pressures have placed the corporate and financial practices of faith-based nonprofits in the spotlight. Join Napa Legal Institute for a workshop on how faith-based nonprofits can respond to these changes and challenges. The workshop will focus on practical steps nonprofit leaders should take to protect their organizations and continue pursuing their God-given missions in light of current events in an increasingly secular world. Topics discussed will include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Opportunities to strengthen religious liberty protections for your organization;• Updates to employment and corporate governance practices in light of new Supreme Court guidance;• Methods to assess the soundness of your organization's corporate and legal structure; and• Creative solutions to develop your organization during times of crisis. *This activity is free of charge; prior RSVP is required. RSVP for the Workshop Here
4:30 - 5:30 p.m. Pacific	Trinitas Cellars Wine and Riedel Glassware Tasting We've teamed up with Trinitas Cellars and Riedel to bring you this unforgettable and informative virtual tasting, where you'll not only get a chance to learn about stemware from a seasoned expert, but also acquire a professional Riedel wine glass set for an extraordinary value. This is your chance to put your taste buds to the test to learn firsthand just how much stemware matters. This tasting will be led by Trinitas Cellars Proprietor, Garrett Busch, along with Riedel Ambassador, Susan Durbrow. Garrett will educate guests about the featured wines, as Susan explains how each glass uniquely accentuates their aromatics and flavor. From novices, to the most seasoned connoisseurs, this seminar is not to be missed! *This activity requires additional registration and payment. Orders must be placed by midnight on August 9th to ensure delivery before the virtual tasting. Register/Purchase Your Tasting Kit Here

9:00 a.m. Pacific	Conference Welcome by The Most Reverend Paul S. Coakley, Archbishop of Oklahoma City

ON-DEMAND
9:00 a.m. Pacific	Friday Morning Sessions Released These sessions will be available to watch at your leisure from 9:00 a.m. Pacific until October 14, 2020.
Speaker	Topic
Dr. John Bergsma Professor of Theology, Franciscan University of Steubenville	St. Paul Center Presents the Bible – Part 1 Introducing the New Testament: Understanding and Teaching the Scriptures The New Testament is a big book. Really, 27 books by 8 authors over a sixty-year span of writing. How can we simplify it to grasp it as a unity? Well, just four men are responsible for almost 90% of the text of the New Testament. Dr. Bergsma takes us through these biblical authors, using simple visual memory devices to help understand, and then teach, the big ideas of the New Testament effectively.
The Most Reverend Thomas J. Paprocki Bishop of Springfield	Social Shutdowns as an Extraordinary Means of Saving Human Life In the face of a pandemic, do we have a moral obligation to shut down our society, require people to stay at home, put employees out of work, send businesses into bankruptcy, impair the food supply chain, and prevent worshippers from going to church? Bishop Paprocki makes the case that doing so would be imposing unduly burdensome and extraordinary means. While some people may voluntarily adopt such means, only ordinary means that are not unduly burdensome are morally required to preserve life, both on the part of individuals as well as society as a whole.

The Most Reverend Charles J. Brown Apostolic Nuncio to Albania	Pope Francis, Albania and the Call to Holiness Archbishop Charles Brown reflects on Pope Francis's call to holiness from the standpoint of the experience of the Catholic Church in Albania, where he is Apostolic Nuncio. The Catholics of Albania kept their faith through almost 500 years of Ottoman rule and then in the period of Communist dictatorship from 1945 until 1991. This experience provides the backdrop for presenting some of the themes found in the Apostolic Exhortation of Pope Francis, Gaudete et exsultate (19 March 2018).
Dr. Joshua Mitchell Professor of Political Theory, Georgetown University	American Awakening: Identity Politics and Other Afflictions of Our Time Identity politics is one of the great challenges of our time. It longs for justice, but the justice it achieves is only accomplished by group scapegoating. Identity politics borrows from the Christian idea that "the sins of the world are taken away" by a scapegoat, but instead of a divine scapegoat--Christ--identity politics offers up a mortal scapegoat--the white heterosexual male. (Once he is humiliated and purged, another group will be chosen as the necessary scapegoat). Politics cannot return to its task of building a common world together as long as identity politics declares that the task of politics is to repudiate the impure and elevate the innocents.
Fr. Ambrose Criste, O.Praem. Novice Master & Director of Formation, St. Michael's Abbey	Our Lady's Role in the New Evangelization: Your Ongoing Conversion, Her Renewal of the World The great St. Bernard of Clairvaux famously said "Of Mary, never enough!" (De Maria, numquam satis!) This year's Napa Institute falls during the solemnity of Our Lady's Assumption into heaven, and that gives us a great opportunity to sing Our Lady's praises for a breakout session. We'll explore especially how She mediates all the graces that Our Lord wants to give to us to help us along the path to holiness. We'll see how She is the key to the conversion of the whole world, beginning with each of us. Finally, we'll see how calling upon Her most holy name, especially with Her Holy Rosary, we can enter even more deeply into the Heart of Her Son, Our Lord.
Fr. Dominic Legge Director of the Thomistic Institute	Grace in a Time of Anxiety Many people's spiritual lives have been upended by the pandemic and the accompanying anxiety (and other negative emotions) it has prompted. The classical Christian tradition gives us a very helpful way to understand our fears and anxieties, and even can teach us how, under the influence of God's grace, we can turn them into occasions for spiritual growth.

Thomas F. Farr President, Religious Freedom Institute	"Come Be My Light:" The Crisis of Religious Freedom in the United States and Catholic Responsibility Religious freedom is under serious and increasing threat in the United States. Opponents of the Church's teachings on marriage, the family, love, sexuality, human nature, and true human dignity and freedom are succeeding in portraying those teachings as bigoted, hateful, and even racist. Religious freedom - the free exercise of religion -- is increasingly being cast as a front for bigots and haters. That message is being communicated not only by politicians on the Left, but by major culture-forming institutions, including our schools, corporations, sports, the media and even the medical profession. The results are devastating for our religion and our nation. If religious freedom is damaged or lost in America, where it has reached its fullest expression in law and culture, it will impact religious minorities, including Catholics, around the world. What is to be done? What can you do? Tom Farr, President of the Religious Freedom Institute in Washington DC, gives you his prescription for regaining the culture. In short: be Catholic!
George Weigel Distinguished Senior Fellow, Ethics and Public Policy Center	What Was Vatican II Really About? The debate over the meaning of the Second Vatican Council continues throughout the world Church. George Weigel explores why Pope St. John XXIII summoned Vatican II, what the Council actually taught, and how the Council is best implemented today.

Dr. Scott Hahn Professor of Biblical Theology and the New Evangelization, Franciscan University of Steubenville	Hope to Die, Hope to Rise Hope is what will sustain us in the days yet to come. It also will make it possible to experience joy in this day, no matter what sorrows presently afflict us. Scott Hahn draws from Scripture and personal experience to offer encouragement and hope grounded in Christ's Resurrection.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, 2020

His Eminence, Sean Cardinal O'Malley Archdiocese of Boston	The Parables - A Call to Discipleship The parables, particularly in the Gospels of Luke and Matthew, are a gift to us from Jesus whereby the eternal truth is presented in the form of an engaging story that captures our attention and leads us to discover the truth for ourselves. The process of coming to more fully know and understand our one, true faith requires time and effort. Jesus guides along a journey of cultivating the seeds of truth to produce growth in our lives. As we become closer to the Lord, we learn how to pray with a focus on God rather than ourselves, and become members of the family of Christ.
Aaron Kheriaty Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Director of Medical Ethics Program, University of California, Irvine, School of Medicine	Rioters and Revolutionaries This talk will unpack the origins of the crisis playing out in our city streets. We will see why today's misbegotten revolutionary ideologies produce only nihilism. This talk will also examine the question of why the normalization of violence has become one of the most characteristic features of our time.
Carter Snead Director, de Nicola Center for Ethics and Culture, University of Notre Dame	US Abortion Law and Policy: The Way Forward After June Medical Services In this lecture Carter Snead (Director of the de Nicola Center for Ethics and Culture and Professor of Law at the University of Notre Dame) will discuss the Supreme Court's landmark decision this summer on abortion (June Medical Services v. Russo), and what it means for the future of the pro life movement's struggle for equal justice under law for unborn children.
Interview with Roger Severino Director, Office for Civil Rights (OCR), U.S. Department of Health and Human Services	Federal Efforts in the Fight to Protect Human Dignity In this interview, Roger Severino discusses what the Trump Administration and HHS have done to fight for life, conscience and religious freedom rights, and to protect human dignity. Mr. Severino also discusses the work of OCR in standing up the new Conscience and Religious Freedom Division and the enforcement actions it has taken. Mr. Severino also explains what OCR has done during the pandemic to protect against disability and age discrimination in the allocation of resources and care. Mr. Severino concludes with a reflection on living out one's faith in public life. Interviewed by Arina O. Grossu, Senior Communications Advisor for the Office for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Health & Human Services

Louis Brown Executive Director, Christ Medicus Foundation	A New Birth for Civil Rights
Panel Discussion	Can a Catholic Be a Socialist? Dr. Catherine Pakaluk Director of Social Research and Assistant Professor, The Busch School of Business at The Catholic University of America Trent Horn Staff Apologist, Catholic Answers Moderator: Fran Maier Senior Fellow, Ethics and Public Policy Center; Former Senior Advisor and Special Assistant to Archbishop Charles J. Chaput
John Bursch Senior Counsel and Vice President of Appellate Advocacy, Alliance Defending Freedom	Looking Back, Looking Forward, Finding Hope at the U.S. Supreme Court From Bostock to June Medical Services and from Espinoza to Our Lady of Guadalupe, the U.S. Supreme Court's past Term was tumultuous in its religious-liberty and pro-life decisions, but in the midst of it all, there was also hope. In this 20-minute presentation, John Bursch, Vice President of Appellate Advocacy for Alliance Defending Freedom, will discuss the Court's biggest decisions from the past year and preview what's on tap. He concludes that there is great cause for optimism about the Court and its direction.
Robert Senkewicz Professor of History Emeritus, Santa Clara University	Junípero Serra: the Man Behind the Myths For most of the past century Junípero Serra has been interpreted in a virtual one-dimensional fashion: as a faultless and selfless hero or as a grisly architect of violence and death. This presentation will try to get behind these simplistic notions to discover the reality of a complex man living in challenging times, the actual man recently canonized by Pope Francis.

Dr. John Bergsma Professor of Theology, Franciscan University of Steubenville	St. Paul Center Presents the Bible – Part 2 The Gospel of Matthew: The Kingdom Has Come! The Gospel of Matthew is a foundational book—some would say the foundational book—of the New Testament, so often providing the link from Old to New. But who can summarize—much less visualize—the important message of this book? Dr. Bergsma breaks down Matthew using visual memory devices so that the life-saving message of this Gospel can be grasped and taught simply and effectively.

Mary Hasson Fellow at the Ethics and Public Policy Center in Washington, D.C.	JK Rowling and the Crisis of Womanhood Mary Hasson discusses how Harry Potter author, J.K. Rowling, has become an unexpected defender of womanhood following recent online controversy in response to the U.K.'s Gender Recognition Act.
Allen C. Guelzo Director, Initiative on Politics and Statesmanship, Princeton University	Ignoble History: The 1619 Project The 1619 Project, published as a special issue of The New York Times Magazine in 2019, claims to offer a comprehensive new interpretation of American history, in which every aspect of American life is interpreted as some reflection of slavery or racism. But like all single-explanation theories, it commits serious historical errors. Worse still, its marketing as a K-12 school curriculum encourages a younger generation to see their country as a political, social and economic failure.
George Weigel Distinguished Senior Fellow, Ethics and Public Policy Center	Lessons from St. John Paul II for This Catholic Moment The United States has been living through a crisis of crises during 2020. George Weigel suggests what Pope St. John Paul II might say to a country seeking the truth about itself as a source of national renewal.

Speaker	Topic
Fr. John Riccardo Executive Director, ACTS XXIX	We Were Born for This In this talk, Fr. John Riccardo and ACTS XXIX share a reflection on the uniqueness of our time and the urgent and irreplaceable role of the disciple and the Church in it.
Matt Fradd Author, Speaker, and Host of Pints with Aquinas	Porn: 7 Myths Exposed There are many myths that prevent people from seeing pornography for what it truly is: a diabolical counterfeit for love. In this talk, Matt untwists the lies, shines light on the darkness, and offers hope to those who are ready to reject the counterfeit and embrace the truth. He backs up his arguments with startling statistics, real life stories, and the rock solid wisdom of the Church's teachings on human sexuality.
Dr. Aaron Kheriaty Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Director of Medical Ethics Program, University of California, Irvine, School of Medicine	Maintaining Our Mental Health During the COVID Pandemic Rates of depression, anxiety, stress, substance abuse, and suicide have been on the rise during the coronavirus stay-at-home orders. Dr. Kheriaty, a psychiatrist, will not only describe these concerning trends, he will also provide concrete practical suggestions you can implement to reduce the risk of these outcomes and improve your mental health during these challenging times.
RJ Snell Director of Academic Programs, Witherspoon Institute	Tradition and Moral Identity: What the Church Can Give the Young Many young people want to lead serious lives, but many feel that they have been robbed of their cultural patrimony, that the adults didn't give them the tradition and authority they need to understand how to live well. As a result, some turn to nostalgia projects, feverish activism, and, increasingly, to rage. But it's not just them, many in the West don't know what to do or how best to live, in part because the "virtuosi of decreation," have been at work

SATURDAY, AUGUST 15, 2020

	to unmask and take apart tradition, especially the family. Now, as much as ever, the Church can meet the pressing needs of the young by offering our account of divine filiation, a way of life, an account of moral agency, and a defense of family.
Fran Maier Senior Fellow, Ethics and Public Policy Center; Former Senior Advisor and Special Assistant to Archbishop Charles J. Chaput	Crisis, Church Reform and the Lay Vocation The turmoil today in our nation and in so much of modern life can seem distressing. But it's simply the truth, and the truth really does make us free; not comfortable, but free from our illusions. Free to see the world as it really is. We can't control the circumstances that other people create for us. But we can usually control how we respond to them. The challenges we face also remind us, as believers, that our real home – our mater et magistra; our mother and teacher – is the Church.
Ross Douthat Op-Ed Columnist, Podcast Host and Author, The New York Times	The Decadent Society and the Church Today the Western world seems to be in crisis. But beneath our social media frenzy and reality television politics, the deeper reality is one of drift, repetition, and dead ends. Ross Douthat explains what happens when a rich and powerful society ceases advancing—how the combination of wealth and technological proficiency with economic stagnation, political stalemates, cultural exhaustion, and demographic decline creates a strange kind of “sustainable decadence,” a civilizational languor that could endure for longer than we think.
Robert L. Woodson, Sr. Founder and President, Woodson Center	America Should Not Be Forever Defined by the Stain of Slavery, but celebrated for its victory over it and the promise it offers for all What can be done about the persistent racial unrest plaguing our nation today? The New York Times' 1619 Project would have us believe that the racism that allowed slavery and segregation is in America's very DNA. But Bob Woodson's 1776 Unites rejects this hopelessness, demonstrating that black Americans have always excelled in the face of adversity and that this same spirit can enable us to unite and overcome today.

Special Screening	The Search: Why a God? Episode 3 of the new FORMED series Today we seem to think we’ve moved beyond the idea of God, but this secular view of life is a very new and unusual idea to humanity. All through human history man has looked to something outside himself for the answers to life. Why have we given up on God? Do we think science has disproven Him? Do we think society is better off without him? We talk with astrophysicists, chemists, Harvard professors, and more to make the case that it’s not only reasonable to believe in God, it’s essential if you want to have a truly amazing life. Our souls seek their creator, and we’ll never be truly happy unless we seek Him out. As St. Augustine famously said, “You have made us for Yourself O Lord, and our hearts are restless. until they rest in Thee.” This is where, in one sense our Search finds its end. We, the creatures, seek their creator. This presents the very foundation of everything. But, what if the God that we are all searching for, is actually searching for us.
