

Dr. Carol Parker Walsh

Bio

Carol is a powerful advocate for women unapologetically living life on their terms and doing the work they were meant to do in the world. She empowers women to take control of their life and career.

As an executive coach and personal brand strategist, she serves as a catalyst for transformational growth and professional development. Leveraging an almost 30 year career in law and organizational and academic leadership, and training in applied and social psychology and human development, Carol utilizes a custom methodological approach to career coaching and career development to help her clients achieve greater confidence, clarity and success.

She is a TEDx speaker, two-time best selling author, international keynote and award winning consultant and has been the "go to" coach for Grammy Award Winners, Paralympic Gold Medalists, Fortune 500 executives, and 6-7 figure successful driven professionals and entrepreneurs.

She helps her clients to stop hiding in the shadows of their brilliance and step into the power of who they are, their vision, purpose and their life's work.
